REVENUE BOARD ASKS TAXES ON INCOME, SMOKES

$50,000,000 to Lift Load Off Realty.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Taxes new to Illinois which would produce approximately $50,000,000 and provide for a corresponding reduction in general property taxes were recommended to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's revenue conference yesterday by its executive committee.

The two new forms of levy proposed were a state income tax, estimated to produce $20,000,000 annually in less prosperous times and as much as $45,000,000 in years of prosperity, and a tax upon all forms of tobacco, calculated to produce $5,000,000—some estimates are $20,000,000—a year. In addition the committee recommended increased license fees for heavy trucks and buses that would bring in $800,000 a year.

J. K. BRITTAIN. [Wallner Photo.]

All for School Purposes.

All of these funds, the committee report said, should be devoted to public school purposes for which real estate and personal property alone are utilized now. The state school tax, amounting to $10,000,000 a year, would be eliminated and the balance of the new receipts would be distributed among the counties of the state for the elementary schools in proportion to the expenditures of the counties themselves for that purpose.

Members of the commission expressed the opinion that as such matters go Chicago and Cook county would receive a more nearly fair deal than downstate on this basis than any other that could be proposed in the emergency. Cook county will contribute the major share of the income tax and the tobacco tax, they said, but since it spends so much on its schools it will come nearer to a 50-50 break than it would on any other basis for the distribution of the new revenue.

Other Recommendations Made.

Other outstanding recommendations in the report were these:

1. Replacement of the present boards of assessment and review in Cook county by the appointment of a single attorney with two associate reviewers by the president of the county board.
2. Payment of 1930 taxes, except approximately one-half due the state, by installments over a period of five years.
3. Legislation to permit the local government to issue short term bonds to cover these deferred payments, thereby providing funds for the redemption of outstanding tax anticipation warrants and thereafter the deferring of current expenses.
4. Legislation to make tax anticipation warrants a first lien upon the tax collections against which they are issued.
5. Creation of two boards of public expenditures, one for Cook county and one for downstate, which may be called upon to audit the affairs of a local government.

Requires Uniform Accounting.

1. Legislation requiring local governments and contractors doing public work to adopt uniform methods of accounting.
2. A law to require objecting taxpayers to pay the contested amount under protest subject to later refunds.
3. An appeal for the "amending and modernizing" of the revenue articles of the state constitution.
4. Condemnation of the plan to fund the entire tax levy of 1930 by means of bonds.
5. A law requiring applicant for state automobile license to submit receipt showing personal property tax on car has been paid or affidavit that it has been scheduled for taxation.

Report to Full Committee.

The report of the executive committee, headed by Joseph E. Brittain, which estimated it had spent approximately 100 hours at hard labor during the last four months, was presented at a plenary session of the governor's commission of 50 members at the Stevens hotel.

It was the first time that the larger body was given a glimpse at the product of the committee of eleven, and some of those who listened to the long and large proposals confessed themselves almost staggered by the comprehensive nature of the document. They had expected a series of

36 HOLDUPS IN 4½ HOURS, CRIME WAVE OPENER

Gang Kidnaps 2 Men, Seizes Pay Roll.

Thirty-six robberies were committed within four and one-half hours last night as gunmen opened what police described as the first cool weather crime wave.

These holdups occurred between 6 and 10:30 o'clock, and were part of seventy-one similar crimes reported in the twenty-four hour period ending at 10:30 p. m. All of last night's holdups were small, enriching the bandits a total of only $750, in comparison with much larger loot in the daylight robberies.

Pair Kidnaped by Gang.

Two afternoon robberies netted eight bandits about $4,500. Five men threatened employés and customers in the wholesale tobacco stor of Max Udelowish at 2457 West North avenue, taking $2,126, while three bandits in a red sedan kidnaped two employés of Ginn & Co., printers, 2301 Prairie avenue, and released them after taking a pay roll of $2,442.

The Ginn & Co. robbery was committed first. George Lebold, 45 years old, an assistant buyer for the printing concern, who lives at 7318 Crandon avenue, had accompanied a messenger, Almo Pirofalo, 45 years old, 8125 South Wood street, to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company for the pay roll and was returning with him to the plant by street car.

Ordered into Bandit Car.

As they stepped from the car at 23d street and Cottage Grove avenue the bandit automobile, which had been driving slowly beside the street car, halted beside them and a man leaned out and pointed a pistol at them.

"Get in," he commanded quietly. Lebold and the messenger obeyed.

The bandits drove to 24th street and Shields avenue, where they shoved both men from the car after taking the pay roll bag. Lebold and Pirofalo were not hurt.

Rob Patrons and Employés.

The tobacco store robbers entered the place while four customers were present. Six employés were in the place.

"Face the wall," commanded the leader of the gang, who flourished a pistol. Three of his companions carried pistols and the fourth had a sawed-off shotgun.

The ten customers and employés, including three girls—Harriet Udelowish, 19 years old, 848 Ainslie street, daughter of the owner; Lillian Shapiro, 20 years old, and her sister, Marion, 26 years old, both of 2010 Le Moyne street—did as they were told and the leader searched them rapidly.

From Udelowish the bandit took $1,800, the day's business receipts. The employés and customers gave up $326, and when all had been searched they were herded into a back room and the door was locked.

Bind Girl in Office.

Miss Marie Curran, 25 years old, 2216 Osgood street, a clerk, was alone in the business office of De Paul university at 2322 Osgood street, when two young gunmen entered. Miss Curran's hands were bound tightly behind her back and her feet were trussed with adhesive tape, then she was placed face downward upon the floor. The pair, whom she described as about 22 years old, fled with only $8 which they found in a desk drawer.

Two officials of the Loan Bank System, Inc., 6350 North Clark street, were robbed of $565 in cash and $220 in checks when two gunmen found them alone in their office. Harry and Herman Morton, 554 Roscoe street, general manager and office manager, respectively, were bound with adhesive tape after one of the robbers had swept the contents of the cash register into his pocket.

PET DOG SHARES CELL WITH YOUTH TO DIE IN CHAIR

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Russell McWilliams, 17 year old condemned slayer, had company in his solitary cell in the Winnebago county jail tonight.

The youth, who was sentenced Wednesday to die Dec. 17 for slaying William Sayles, street car motorman, during a holdup last Aug. 29, today asked that he be permitted to see his pet collie, Man Dog, before being taken to Joliet prison for electrocution.

Tonight the boy and his dog were together inside the cell while an armed guard sat on the other side of the cell bars. Occasionally McWilliams leaned down and stroked the collie.

MODERN DEPRESSIONISTIC ART

Gandhi to Go to King's Party in Loin Cloth

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Mahatma Gandhi, loin cloth and all, is going to see the king and queen. He has received a "command" from the lord chamberlain to attend a party at Buckingham palace next Thursday. India's "holy man" has announced that he will wear his "habitual dress of loin cloth, shawl and sandals."

In the event King George objects to the loin cloth, the mahatma stated that he would refuse the royal invitation.

Indians and others are wondering whether he will repeat his performance of 1921 when he met the prince of Wales in India. He was conferring with Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, moderate Indian leader, when the prince called. Gandhi threw himself at the prince's feet, praying, "Be good to India!"

MacDonald Seeks Settlement.

Interest in the round table conference has now shifted from St. James's palace to Prime Minister MacDonald's official residence at 10 Downing street. It is learned that Mr. MacDonald intends to make the Indian settlement one of the first tests of his virtual dictatorship in parliament.

It is known that many Tories want to break off the conference and adopt a strong hand in India. The prime minister is convinced that a settlement with India is one of the first necessities to restore British trade, and that India's boycott of British goods had as much to do with forcing England off the gold standard as any other factor.

Mr. MacDonald will insist on having all of the late government's pledges to India kept and will have the support of Stanley Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain, Sir John Simon, Sir Herbert Samuel, and the rest of the moderate Conservative and Liberal leaders.

Indians Must Settle Rows.

At the same time he maintains the position that the Indians must settle the quarrel between the Hindus, Moslems, Sikhs, Christians, and other minorities before any substantial transfer of power can take place.

Gandhi is now reported to realize the British government means just what it says and is bending all his energies to secure an agreement among the quarreling races before next week when the real work of the conference is resumed.

CHEERING UP WITH BUSINESS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Albert H. Wiggin, New York banker, predicted "substantial" improvement in business conditions.

Wheat and rye prices on the Chicago Board of Trade went well above the season's previous high levels. At New Orleans cotton prices advanced 5 to 8 points.

Rail stocks led a general upturn on the New York Stock Exchange. More than 360 stocks advanced and only 109 declined. The advances ranged as high as six points. Prices in the bond market and on the curb exchange reflected the stock advances.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, said he looked for an upturn in the automobile industry in the spring.

A "great improvement" in the business of "some of the smaller retailers" was reported by Dun's statisticians, who said "retail trade is maintaining the slow but gradual upturn in progress for several weeks."

Bradstreet's Business Review said "the most cheerful aspect of the situation seems to be the evidence, which continues to be offered, of the progress of adjustment in business."

An increase of more than 10 per cent in employment in Louisville, Ky., was announced, with manufacturing plants reporting a 20 per cent gain over June.

Virginia's committee on unemployment estimated only 20,000 jobless in that state.

In Wisconsin Gov. La Follette said he would recommend to the legislature a plan to divide jobs which would provide enough additional labor for every idle person.

Standard Fruit and Steamship company announced net earnings of $434,195 for the first nine months of 1931, nearly double the figure for the first nine months of 1930.

National Electric company, eastern unit of the Middle West Utilities system, reported consolidated gross earnings for the year ending Sept. 30 of $69,359,017, an increase of 4.2 per cent over the previous year.

Phillips Petroleum company showed net profit of $263,900 for the September quarter, compared with a deficit of $2,674,153 for the first half of the year.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock, in addition to regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on common and $1.75 on preferred.

An upward swing in business for October was reported by the Monongahela Railway company at Brownsville, Pa. The company handled 29,000 cars of coal and coke during the month, an increase of 2,600 cars over September. Additional trainmen have been recalled to handle the increased traffic.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—Kellogg company reports greatest year in its history as result of adoption of the six hour day for workers. Twenty per cent more workers employed than a year ago, operations speeded, strategic newspaper advertising bringing greatest volume of business on record.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Reports from all parts of the south indicate industry and business mounting steadily and building for the future. Cotton manufacturers buying immense stores in anticipation of sharp advance in prices in a year or two.

RICHMOND, Va.—Two hundred new workers employed by the Reynolds Tobacco company.

Bitten by His Own Teeth; Both Are Being Repaired

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—John Roberts, teacher in the Boone Township school, Warrick county, has had the unique experience of being bitten by his own teeth. Roberts was driving from Evansville to Booneville when his false teeth began to annoy him. He took them out and put them in his hip pocket. A few minutes later Perry Patmore, who was driving, lost control of the car, which skidded off the road. Roberts was thrown high out of the seat and sat down hard on his right hip pocket. Both Roberts and the teeth are being repaired.

Hopeful Signs for Business Cheer Hoover

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—An optimistic view of the business situation was taken by President Hoover at his semi-weekly conference with newspaper men today. In a formal statement he said he was happy to note that hoarding of money by Americans apparently had ceased, that small bank failures have diminished almost to the zero point and that the movement of gold abroad has slowed down tremendously.

Recalling that only a few weeks ago gold was being moved abroad by foreign holders of American credits while American depositors were hoarding currency at the rate which reached a peak of 300 millions a week, Mr. Hoover said the last few days have seen a great change in the credit situation.

The President's Statement.

"I am happy to note the very great change which is evident in the credit situation since the announcement of financial plans in October," the President's statement said. "Following the abandonment of the gold standard in England a wave of great apprehension spread over the country. Hoarding of currency rose to the high point of $200,000,000 a week between that time and the announcement of the credit pool and other credit measures.

"Country bank failures had risen to nearly 25 a day during this period. At the same time the drain of gold abroad due to the alarm of foreign holders of American credits had in this period risen to as high as over $200,000,000 a week.

Money Returns to Banks.

"Evidence over the last week indicates that not only has hoarding ceased, but actually $24,000,000 of hoarded money has returned to the banks. The small bank failures have almost ceased—the last report showing only 7 out of 20,000 total.

"Foreign exchanges are returned to a basis at which it is no longer advantageous to ship gold abroad.

"The practical effect of this recovery is shown in an increase in the price of wheat by 10 cents or 12 cents a bushel and cotton by $15 to $20 a bale."

POLICE RECOVER $75,000 LOOT IN FUR SHOP RAID

Stolen furs valued at approximately $75,000 were recovered by police in a night raid last night on the offices and shops of the I. D. Ratner Wholesale Fur company at 215-17 South Market street. The policemen were still in the Ratner shops early this morning sorting out the stolen goods.

The furs, police said, were stolen by five bandits on Sept. 24 from the shops and offices of David Kaplan, wholesale furrier at 113 West Austin avenue. A number of employés and patrons were threatened while the robbery was committed.

Since the holdup, Lieut. James Kerr and Detectives Harry Guyn, James Oakey, John Knoles, and Dan Anderson had worked on the case. Yesterday they obtained a night warrant, requiring the signature of two judges, from Judges F. L. Fairbank and Donald McKinlay. With this warrant they visited Ratner's plant at 5 o'clock last evening, placed him under arrest, and emptied all storage vaults.

Kaplan was summoned and identified his furs. Ratner is alleged by police to have promised Kaplan payment for the furs "if he would keep his mouth shut."

The recovered loot consisted of 1,200 Hudson seal pelts, 500 white fitch pelts, 126 mink pelts, five ermine pelts, and a quantity of black fitch, American red fox, Alaskan fox, and raccoon pelts.

FAMED SCIENTIST DIES, MARTYR TO CANCER RESEARCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 30.—Dr. Guido Holzknecht, chief of the X-ray institute in Vienna and one of the world's leading authorities in this field, died here today, a martyr to science.

Pursuing experiments designed to banish cancer from the human race by X-ray treatment, Dr. Holzknecht laughed at death when the deadly X-rays slowly ate away his body. A year ago he lost the fingers of his right hand. Six months ago the hand was amputated. Three months ago the arm was amputated.

A few weeks ago he returned to his laboratory. Officials of the Viennese Medical association bodily carried him away, but he sneaked back. With a wooden hand he pursued his experiments. Last week they carried him to a hospital, unconscious. His other arm was amputated. He expired quietly today.

WORLD TURNS TO U. S. TO FILL EMPTY BINS

Foreign Demand Brings Advance.

Buyers of the world's breadstuffs awoke yesterday to the fact that importing countries will have to come to the United States and Canada for large quantities of wheat before the next harvests of the northern hemisphere—whether they wish to or not. The grain bins of Europe have on hand only enough for four weeks' needs.

The feeling of impending shortage, or at least of a restoration of the normal relationship of world supply and demand for wheat was reflected in the trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. This grain's future deliveries rose from 2¼ cents to 2⅝ cents a bushel, May wheat closing at 64¼ cents.

Prices Show Steady Advance.

With a minimum of heralding, the price of wheat has been crawling steadily upward since the low was established on Oct. 5. Future quotations are now 16 cents, or more than 29 per cent, above that low price, and corn and rye have had even more spectacular advances. It was reported yesterday that corn, quoted at 39 cents a bushel in the interior less than three weeks ago, is bringing 39 cents and that further advances are expected. On the local markets corn and rye have advanced 3 to 10 cents in the period.

Behind this movement of prices in the rapidly changing drama of wheat, the traditional barometer of farming prosperity the world over, lie several salient facts. Among them are:

1. An increase in the movement of American wheat to the seaboard and to ships for foreign destination, and the indications in reports from abroad that shipments in the next few months may rival the great movements of wartime.

Farm Board Makes Sales.

2. An announcement that government financed grain holdings are being sold at a rate in excess of the 5,000,000 average monthly maximum which the federal farm board promised in July to hold to in order that the machinery of marketing might not be disturbed.

3. The entry into the future markets as buyer by the Grain Stabilization corporation, not as a resumption of an effort to stabilize the price of wheat, but to hold its balance of selling to the 5,000,000 bushel maximum.

4. Heavy purchases by foreigners, by speculators who deal in small lots of 5,000 to 10,000 bushels on the Board of Trade, and rumors that important capitalists have turned bullish and are heavy holders of wheat.

5. A change in the interpretation of statistical facts on world wheat supplies and demands.

Russia Cancels Sales.

Accurate observers in the grain trade have known for a long time that the wheat importing countries of Europe and the orient have been buying their supplies on the hand to mouth basis. Soviet Russia had been until recently a seller of the grain and seemingly ample sources were available.

But the withdrawal of Russia by the cancellation of contracts and the loss of much wheat in Europe, due to heavy rains in the harvest season, have changed the wheat map until now there appear as exporters only the United States, Canada, the Danube countries, Argentina and Australia.

Argentina, Australia, and the Danube, according to the accepted statistics, have available for export from their old crops only 65,000,000 bushels. They will have more available when the southern hemisphere harvests in late December and January.

Need 142 Million Bushels.

Their new wheat, however, will not be available in the importing countries before Feb. 1. These countries, according to an estimate of the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome, require about 73,000,000 bushels a month. They must, if the figures are correct, ship in from Canada and the United States before Feb. 1, after making some allowances for what is on hand, about 140,000,000 bushels.

Even when the new Argentine and Australian wheat comes in the trade estimates that it will fulfill the import demands only for three months. If their shipments fill the wants of the importing countries for three months there will still be three more before the European crops are available, about Aug. 1.

This would mean that possibly another 200,000,000 bushels would have to come from North America. Should these markets buy as the optimists think they must it is likely that the Canadian-American carry-over next July will be cut down to less than the normal over an eight year period. The International Institute at Rome has estimated that the world carry-over in the present July to July year will be cut to 180,000,000 bushels, with the residue in the summer of 1932 below normal.

Mild Rush to Buy.

These figures and the sudden action of Russia in ceasing to export and turning to the device of buying back her contracts have caused the mild rush in this country to buy. It is only fair to say that wheat prices are still far below normal and that the recent lows found this grain selling cheaper in actual money than it had ever sold since the days of Queen Elizabeth.

James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, said in Washington yesterday that the shipments abroad were moving at an accelerated rate and that the Grain Stabilization corporation had been authorized to enter the futures markets to maintain the balances of sales below the monthly maximum mark.

He said that this future buying would amount to "only a few million bushels," but gossip in the trade was that the corporation had taken nearly 10,000,000 bushels of futures, mainly in December.

Based on Demand, Milnor.

George S. Milnor, head of the stabilization corporation in Chicago, corroborated the statement of Chairman Stone.

"The recent trend upward in grain markets has been justified by the demand," he said, "and is a condition we have been working toward for some time. We are naturally quite elated at the general improvement this means in the country. It should create more business activity."

This rise in prices of grains is estimated to have increased the wealth of American holders to the extent of $328,000,000 since Oct. 5. Wheat values are figured as up $87,000,000, corn $216,000,000, oats $40,000,000 and rye $5,500,000.

Farmers Get Benefit.

Most of the benefit, in this case, goes to farmers. Most of the new corn is still in their hands and wheat is being held by them on a larger scale than usual, according to report.

The rye importing nations are believed to want about 99,000,000 bushels and this amount is not available in the exporting countries, it is said, providing Russia stays out.

In the grain trade it was said yesterday there are no more big shorts and the little ones have all been run in. Foreign interests are asserted to have turned from the short to the long side of the market when wheat was around 50 cents here. Brokers have commented on the large numbers of buyers of small amounts. The "important men" mentioned in the whispers around the lower end of Wall street as bulls include some of the most noted names in American business and financial life, it is said.

HOPE FOR PEACE IN STRIKE OVER ST. LOUIS MILK

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Although a meeting of milk dealers and producers, called for tomorrow, was postponed until some time next week, the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce announced tonight it was hopeful that the troubles which have threatened the milk supply of the city for the last two months would speedily be ended.

These troubles, growing out of the attempt to organize the producers, have been marked by shootings, vandalism and many arrests in southern Illinois and in Missouri.

The Sanitary Milk Producers' association today notified the Illinois Agricultural association offices in Chicago that the milk supply to the Pevely Dairy company, which has refused to recognize the farmers' organization, has been cut down greatly. Dairymen are conducting house-to-house canvasses of consumers urging them to aid by buying only the association members' milk, and there have been charges that these solicitors have been intimated by the Pevely drivers.

Some milk is being shipped here from southern Missouri and Wisconsin to replace the supply cut off by the refusal to see to the Pevely company.

TRADE RECOVERY SEEN DEPENDING ON INDIVIDUAL

"The recovery of business lies with the individual," C. C. Younggreen, president of the Dunham Younggreen Lesan company, told members of the Illinois Manufacturer's association at a meeting in the Congress hotel last night.

"In the face of the world wide depression, in the face of unemployment, a lot of concerns are going ahead, doing more business, making more profits and establishing themselves for the future," the speaker said. "Analysis of the methods of these concerns shows that every one of them has the same objective—the development of consumption for its products. They have freshened either their goods or their policies."

Stafford K. Colby, vice president of the Aluminum Company of America, was another speaker. He traced the development of the aluminum industry in 1888 when it was in its infancy to the present day. His company, he said, has recently spent $5,000,000 to construct two mills, indicating its belief in a prosperous future.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON WAY TO AVERT BUSINESS SLUMP

But Both Sloan, Wiggin Discount Swope Plan.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Disagreements among experts on plans for averting future business cycles of depression were emphasized today when business leaders, Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors corporation, and Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of governors of the Chase National bank, testified before a special senate committee studying the advisability of establishing a national economic council.

Mr. Sloan said he was heartily in favor of trying out such a council if it is composed of representative business leaders, for "if it is composed of the right type of men a great deal of good can come out of it."

Questioned by La Follette.

Questioned by Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.] chairman of the senate committee, as to his views on a plan evolved by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric corporation, for the coordination of business production and public consumption through trade associations, Mr. Sloan replied without qualification as follows:

"My opinion is that we would not get very far. There is too much individuality in business. I don't think we have reached the point where individual manufacturers will give up something for the benefit of others."

Thus, Mr. Sloan went on record almost in direct opposition to Mr. Swope's theory, Mr. Swope having testified before the same committee in favor of his plan but having minimized the results to be expected from immediate organization of a national planning council.

Mr. Wiggin did not discuss generally the Swope plan, but made it clear in extended testimony that he thinks the national economic council probably would be a futile gesture.

Periods of Fluctuation.

After he had testified that such a council would not have saved the United States from the speculative era of 1928-'29 Senator LaFollette asked of Mr. Wiggin:

"I take it you do not think anything can be done to save us from the periods of fluctuation?"

"I don't think so," responded the banker. "A man only lives so many years, and his experience only lasts so many years. I don't believe the council can do any harm, but just as the advisory council of the federal reserve board does not do any harm, I don't believe this proposition will do any good."

"Your counsel is one of despair," commented Senator LaFollette.

Sees Slump at Intervals.

"I think you are looking for a superman," replied Mr. Wiggin. "Experience lasts just so long. You may learn how to avoid the experience of the past, but other difficulties come. There isn't any man or brain in the world that can prevent that. You are always going to have one in so many years," he concluded referring to economic fluctuations.

Mr. Sloan qualified his endorsement of the economic council idea with the statement that its final form probably would result from evolution and experience.

"It would be a step in the right direction," he testified. "I think, however, that right now we are just as unstable as we were in 1928, in the opposite direction. All we can do now is to take advantage of our lessons and we have made considerable progress when we realize that fact. We have to make a start, and this would be a good one."

Calls Credit Policy Too Liberal.

Mr. Wiggin denied that the present depression was produced by the credit policy of the banks. He admitted to Senator La Follette that the credit policy was too liberal, because it made credit easier and permitted expansion.

"Do you think it is possible to stabilize industrial activity?" Mr. La Follette inquired.

"I don't think so," Mr. Wiggin answered. "I find manufacturers keep on making goods as long as they can sell at a profit and when they can't sell they stop producing. The manufacturer does not and can't see ahead."

GEORGIA JURY FINDS DRY LAW WILL NOT WORK

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Sworn testimony before the Fulton county grand jury revealed that it is impossible to stop the flow of liquor into Atlanta and the illicit sale of whisky, the grand jury declared today in presentments recommending repeal of the 18th amendment and enactment of proper laws to regulate definitely and strictly the sale of any intoxicating liquor.

The grand jury expressed belief that the "cause of temperance would be served in this manner, whereas under the present prohibition law we feel that a great deal of the results of educational work toward temperance has been lost since the passage of the 18th amendment."

The finding that many people, normally law abiding, have utter disregard for the prohibition law was incorporated in the presentments. The jury said: "The trouble does not seem to be so much in the drinking of the liquor as in the illicit sale, bringing in revenue to criminals, causing conspiracies to take place."

MANUFACTURERS ASK TARIFF ADJUSTMENTS, NO GENERAL REVISION

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The National Association of Manufacturers, in session at the Waldorf Astoria hotel, went on record today as "inexorably opposed to a general congressional revision of the tariff."

The report, submitted by the tariff committee, headed by H. L. Derby of the Kalbfleisch corporation, New York, stated that the association favored "prompt administrative adjustments of tariff rates as the only practical means to a proper maintenance of a necessary equality of competition, such adjustment to be developed through the machinery of a nonpartisan economic body effectuated by executive authority."

Stating that experience had proved the demoralizing effect on business conditions of any congressional tariff revisions, the report committed the association to a policy of "fostering and preserving, the protective tariff system designed to equalize conditions of competition with those of competitive industries of other nations seeking to share American markets."

While the association cannot logically consider or take any position on the question of specific rates, said the report, it does urge that such rates be established as "prove necessary" for equalizing competition on the American level.

The reporting committee held that the tariff commission procedure as now constituted had always proved superior to congressional revision and had fully justified its continuance and all necessary extension of its facilities.

GERMANY URGES PARLEY ON DEBTS NOW—NOT LATER

Will Try to Obtain French Support.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—The German ambassador to Paris, Leopold von Hoesch, who arrived here today from the French capital, received instructions from Chancellor Bruening to do all in his power to convince Premier Laval and the French government of the necessity of calling an international debt and reparations conference at once instead of first calling an advisory committee as provided by the Young plan for the postponement of reparations payments.

The Germans contend that the Albert H. Wiggin committee, which investigated the German financial situation in August, collected all the data needed to discuss a revision of reparations, and that a new investigation would waste time in a crisis which calls of speedy action.

Want Short Term Loans Converted.

Ambassador von Hösch also conferred with President von Hindenburg's economic advisory committee which discussed what Germany intends to do to work out German suggestions for an extension of the "standstill" agreement on credits to Germany reached at Basel last summer. The Germans are seeking a method by which the greatest part of the short term loans now frozen by this agreement can be transformed into long term loans running for a minimum of two years.

The advisory council has formed a special "standstill" committee to work out this problem. Von Hoesch was asked by this committee to try to bring about a reduction of the high rates of interest being paid by Germany on loans frozen through the "standstill" agreement.

The Reichsbank tonight issued a statement that Germany's total indebtedness abroad amounted to $5,657,000,000 in short term loans running less than a year. The Reichsbank estimates that $238,000,000 have been repaid since July.

Meanwhile the Franco-German committee, which is preparing the economic coöperation of France and Germany, has concluded its preliminary work in Berlin. Chiefs of the German and French delegations and the chairman of the committee will meet in Paris the second week in November.

Laval Approves Date.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 30.—A meeting of international creditors to discuss Germany's capacity to pay her debts, including reparations, and also to find ways and means to nurse her through her financial difficulties is taking shape with increasing definiteness.

The conference will probably be held in December either in Paris, Geneva, or Basel. It was stated tonight that Premier Laval, homeward bound from America, has approved holding such a conference in December. That month was chosen as being the earliest possible date allowing for necessary preliminary conversations between the various capitals.

All creditors of Germany, including the United States, will be invited to send delegates. The plan for a December conference will be laid before the French cabinet by Laval when he returns Monday, it is reported. He will also talk with Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador, who received his instructions in Berlin today as to what to say to Laval about reparations payments.

The French press, even the most conservative newspapers, admits the necessity of a drastic reconsideration of German debts and reparations at an early date. Several add that in consequence the interallied war debts must also be revised.

SECOND SON OF EDISON ATTACKS CODICIL OF WILL

Engages Law Firm; Family Not on His Side.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The opening attack on the will of the late Thomas A. Edison will be staged in a Manhattan law office next Monday when William L. [Billy] Edison, second son of the famous inventor by his first wife, comes here to confer with a "nationally known law firm."

The Edison will, which was filed in Newark yesterday and which leaves the bulk of the estimated $12,000,000 estate to the two sons of the inventor's second wife, was described as unfair today by the 51 year old William Edison, who formally announced that he would institute litigation to break it.

There were two sons and a daughter born to each of Mr. Edison's wives and for a time this afternoon it appeared that it would be one family alligned against the other in a step-brother and step-sister battle for equal shares in the millions that his inventions brought to Mr. Edison. Later "Billy" Edison appeared to be virtually alone in his fight.

Fight Aimed at Codicil.

The attack, according to a statement issued by "Billy" Edison from his home in Westover Hills, Wilmington, Del., was aimed at the codicil to the will, executed by Mr. Edison on last July 30, about ten weeks before his death. This addition to the will gives Charles and Theodore M. Edison, sons of a second marriage, most of the property and extraordinary power over the distribution of the smaller shares to the other four children.

William charges that his father's powers had waned at the time and that he had been subjected to undue influence by Mrs. Mina Edison and the son, Charles.

Eldest Son Upholds Will.

Vigorous denial came from Thomas A. Edison Jr., a full brother and the eldest of the clan, that he would join in the litigation. Mrs. John Eyre Sloan, a half sister of Thomas Jr., joined him in refusing to share in attacking the Edison will. Mrs. Marion Edison Oser, a daughter by the first wife, who lives in Norwalk, Conn., was not reached for comment.

Thomas Edison Jr., who like his half brothers, Charles and Theodore, is connected with the Thomas A. Edison Industries, Inc., declared he loved his father too much "to question any of his acts" and expressed surprise and indignation at his brother's attack on the will.

William L. [Billy] Edison lives in a modest home in a residential park in Wilmington. He is married and has more nearly followed in his father's footsteps than any of the other sons.

The will fight, he intimated, was to insure himself funds to perfect and market certain of his inventions. Billy Edison has a laboratory near his home where he has been experimenting with radio receiving and transmitting for years. He has long been working on a one tube radio receiving set which he believes will revolutionize the radio industry.

Attacks State Changes.

The son's formal statement regarding his proposed suit asserted that its codicil was made only a few months before his father's death, "which, in itself, knowing he was about to die, showed what influence my stepmother and Charles had over him."

"Every invention of importance that my father created and from which came such a reputation was conceived long before he met his second wife, and none of great importance was created after his marriage to Mina Miller Edison," the statement adds.

Mr. Edison's first wife, Mary G. Stillwell, was married to the inventor in 1873. Thomas A. Edison Jr. said that his father did not marry for several years after her death. The records show Mr. Edison married Mina Miller in 1886.

SEIZED AS KILLER AFTER INQUEST JURY CLEARS HIM

Immediately after he had been exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday in connection with the killing of Policeman Joseph Isaacs, Thomas Scupino, a Cicero yeast salesman, who is said to resemble Al Capone, was arrested on a charge of murder by Capt. Michael Grady of the Kensington station.

The slaying occurred on Oct. 10 in the Spanish tavern, 11851 South Michigan avenue, when Policeman Isaacs intervened in a quarrel between Mrs. Victoria Feltins, 11116 Stephenson avenue, a widow, and Miss Angeline Chivella, 10453 Indian avenue. Mrs. Feltins was recommended held to the grand jury as an accessory.

Scupino is alleged to have flashed a revolver to separate the quarreling women just as Policeman Isaacs appeared. He denied he killed Isaacs, however, insisting he was outside of the tavern at the time. He also denied an accusation he was an ally of Capone, the charge following the testimony of a cab driver that he drove Scupino to the Lexington hotel, Capone's headquarters, after the shooting.

Mrs. Feltins said she did not know who killed Isaacs. She said Isaacs threatened her with his gun, that she tried to wrest it from him and that he was shot from behind.

WINE SALESMAN IS INDICTED BY U. S. GRAND JURY

Edward Friedman, 5115 North Avers avenue, was indicted by the federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes on a charge of violation of the prohibition law yesterday. There were 13 counts for the sale of liquor, one for possession and one for maintaining a public nuisance against Friedman.

Friedman's troubles arise over the sale of sacramental wine which he is alleged to have purchased for $3 a case and sold for $20. According to Assistant United States District Attorney Eugene A. Tappy, Friedman had been granted a permit by E. C. Yellowley, government permit official in Chicago, to sell wine to the Jewish congregation of Beth Hamadrosh Hagadol in Albany Park, but overstepped his permit and sold to every one.

Friedman was a salesman for the Fruit Industries, Ltd., California manufacturer of grape concentrates which can be turned into wine for home consumption, according to Tappy. Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former dry prosecutor, is counsel for the concern.

The indictment against Friedman was returned in a batch of seventy-nine indictments by the October grand jury. Most of the cases involve liquor law violations, but Jacob Karchmer and Hal Metcalfe, alleged operators of a baby's milk racket, were also indicted on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

ALL LOSS, NO GAIN UNDER DRY LAWS, BINGHAM CLAIMS

Pleads for Modification to End Situation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Characterizing the existing prohibition situation as intolerable, Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] tonight asserted in an address that modification of the dry laws would "promote temperance, boost the public revenue, increase the demand for grain and make possible legitimate employment for thousands of honest citizens."

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM
[Fotograms.]

In his indictment of the brand of prohibition given the United States by the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, the Connecticut senator asserted that drunkenness has not been eliminated, that places where liquor can be obtained have not been destroyed and that the attempt to prevent the use of wine and other alcoholic beverages has not been successful. He added that "all efforts to restrain and restrict individual freedom, contrary to conscience and public opinion, merely result in personal resentment and refusal to observe the law."

Quotes Wickersham Report.

Senator Bingham quoted the report of the Wickersham commission to the effect that public opinion is opposed to the liquor laws, and added, "If we cannot repeal the 18th amendment, at least we ought to modify the Volstead act so as to make it more reasonable, more in conformity with public opinion."

"It should be remembered," Senator Bingham said, "that from the beginning, ours has been a government of public opinion. Legislation to be successful must conform to public opinion, for public opinion can only be changed by persuasive argument and not by force of law."

The senator expressed the opinion that it would be entirely within the constitution to legalize the manufacture and sale of four per cent beer. Such a step, he declared, would promote temperance.

"Furthermore," the senator pointed out, "legalized beer would restore an important source of tax revenue now denied to the federal government. We are faced with a tremendous deficit. There is no doubt that a considerable part of this deficit might be met by placing a reasonable tax on beer and permitting its manufacture and sale. In 1919 we derived 117 million dollars from taxes on beer and ale. This revenue is now lost to the government.

Would Solve Grain Surplus.

"Another advantage of the legalizing of beer would be the increased use of grain. In 1917 ninety-one million bushels of grain was used in brewing. Most of this was barley. When the farmer found he could not sell barley to the breweries he naturally turned to raising wheat, which has thus increased the surplus wheat and depressed the price of that grain. Undoubtedly one hundred million bushels of grain could be used in the production of beer if its manufacture and sale were made legal.

"Finally, it seems reasonable to suppose that at least one hundred thousand persons would find honorable employment in connection with the manufacture and distribution of four per cent beer."

According to Senator Bingham, "the drinking of beer and wine has its roots in the racial history and social traditions of all the European countries from which we Americans have come."

HOOVER AND NAVY LEAGUE GIRD FOR WAR TO FINISH

Critics May Try to Cross Examine President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Preparations for a fight to the finish between the White House and Navy league went forward rapidly today under circumstances indicating that the capital may be treated to one of its most sensational investigations before finis is written to the row precipitated by the league's charges that President Hoover is starving the navy.

In some quarters reports were circulated that William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy league, would attempt to have President Hoover appear before the committee he proposes to appoint to prove his assertion of yesterday that the league was disseminating "untruths" and distorting the facts as a part of a general campaign to defeat the White House economy program for the navy.

Attempt to Justify Charges.

Should Mr. Gardiner be successful in such a move, it is assumed he would attempt to justify his charges that Mr. Hoover is woefully ignorant of naval matters and the missions which fleets are built to perform. It also is taken for granted that Mr. Gardiner would seek to prove the assertion he made in his statement of Wednesday that President Hoover, in the name of budgetary limitation, was "restricting, reducing and starving" the United States navy to the disadvantage of American security and prestige.

Indications are that circumstances surrounding the negotiation of the London naval treaty will bulk large in the hearings of the special White House committee. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson as well as Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations and chief expert at the London conference, are expected to take the stand in behalf of the President. Just who Mr. Gardiner will call to back up the charges which precipitated a White House attack on his motives has not been made clear.

Calls for League Roster.

President Hoover started the ball rolling today by calling for a complete roster of the 4,000 members of the Navy league. It is from the ranks of this organization that the President proposes to select one or more members of the committee he announced yesterday would be appointed for the purpose of exposing the Navy league as an organization which was conducting a campaign of "misinformation and misstatements" in an effort to defeat the White House efforts to reduce federal expenditures.

Twice during the day the President showed his annoyance at the Navy league's attacks on his naval program by sponsoring statements in which the league was charged with spreading a "tissue of falsehoods" and in circulating untruths.

A Tissue of Falsehoods.

Theodore Joslyn, White House secretary, gave out the first statement this morning.

"The objects of the President's inquiry," he said, "are first to call the attention of the country and members of the Navy league to the tissue of falsehoods that have been spread by Mr. Gardiner, and second, to show the true purpose of these falsehoods, and the people who are interested in propagating them."

Again at his conference with the press at 4 o'clock, Mr. Hoover made another brief reference to his squabble with the league. "I am waiting," he said to the correspondents, "to secure a list of the members of the Navy league. As soon as this list is obtainable I shall select representation from the membership on a committee which will be able to establish the untruths promulgated by the president of that body."

Plan Sweeping Investigation.

In the meantime the headquarters of the Navy league was preparing for the most sweeping investigation to which it ever had been subjected. Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the league board, conferred for several hours with Mr. Gardiner and then announced that a special meeting of the executive committee had been summoned. At this gathering plans for the league's defense will be made.

Members of the executive committee, in addition to Chairman Howe and President Gardiner, are Henry Breckenridge, New York city; N. M. Hubbard Jr., Chicago; Arthur Curtiss James, New York city; Henry Cabot Lodge, New York city; Nelson Macy, New York city; Odgen Reid, New York city; T. Douglas Robinson, Mohawk, N. Y., and James W. Wadsworth, Geneseo, N. Y.

Secretary Stimson said the Gardiner attack on the President contained "misstatements deliberately and flagrantly false." He referred to Mr. Gardiner's statement that the President had not given the senate complete access to all the secret correspondence and memoranda touching on the MacDonald-Hoover Rapidian conferences and the negotiation of the London naval treaty.

Sharp Retort by Stimson.

"The statement says that 'the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the senate on foreign relations to see the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London naval conference of 1930.' This also is false," said Secretary Stimson. "Any pamphlet which starts off with two such misstatements, so deliberately and flagrantly false, is not worthy of any further comment."

BEAT HOOVER FOR LEAGUE TACTICS, JOHNSON PLEADS

Calls on Voters to Act at Polls.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Hiram Johnson of California, about whom a Republican presidential bee has buzzed in former years, today called on the nation to repudiate at "the ballot box" President Hoover's policy toward the league of nations.

The senator's words, spoken for talking pictures in California and made public here, echoed loudly down the corridors of political gossip. Guesses were about even whether they actually put him into the running for the 1932 nomination.

By entering the league of nations' council meetings on the Sino-Japanese dispute, Johnson asserted, "the administration takes us into Europe's political controversies in violation of the constitution and in defiance of the people's will.

"The only remedy left the people against their betrayers is the ballot box," he added.

While the President and his fellow Californian have not been politically friendly, Senator Johnson did not oppose Hoover's election in 1928.

Eyes on California Primary.

Washington speculated tonight at a possible meeting between Johnson and Hoover in their home state presidential primary next spring—one of the first to be held. In 1920 Johnson was one of three over whom the Republican convention deadlocked. In 1924 he took some delegates away from Coolidge. In 1928 he said he was through with presidential politics. He has not modified that assertion since.

There have been open breaks between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Johnson on legislative policies during the present administration, but the senator's statement today was his first challenge to the Hoover reelection campaign.

"Next year," he said, "Americans must reaffirm the old American policy of friendship for all nations, political connections with none, and in emphatic tones again say this government is American, and must be administered not first for Europeans, but first for Americans."

Senator Johnson was a leader in the senate fight against joining the league of nations. He is now ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee.

"Juggled Into League."

"After twelve years," says the Johnson statement, "our country, so far as the present administration could involve us, has been finally jockeyed and juggled into the league of nations. It is pretended, of course, that we sacrifice nothing of our independence, but when you sit in an official body as part of it and participate in its proceedings, you are in honor bound to see it through. It was not necessary for us to join the league of nations to write an individual note to Japan about the Kellogg piffle pact.

"There is no real war in the orient, because you can't have war between a chopstick and a machine gun. Japan, violating every treaty designed to promote peace, has with the strong arm taken part of Manchuria, and what Japan takes she keeps. The administration, acting for international bankers, seizes upon the occasion to rush us into the league of nations—the league rejected by the United States senate and at the polls repudiated by the American people.

"The act of the administration is in violation of the constitution and in defiance of the people's will. The only remedy left the people is the ballot box."

Reporter to Be Heard on Kidnaping Charge

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Arthur O'Sullivan, newspaper reporter, was released in $1,000 bail today on a charge of kidnaping a youth he wished to question in connection with the Benjamin P. Collings yacht mystery. He will appear for examination Monday.

O'Sullivan, employed by the Daily News, and Harold McKinley, Oyster Bay hotel keeper, are alleged to have taken Conrad Dickerson from his home and held him prisoner for several hours seeking information McKinley believed him to possess. McKinley also is under arrest.

Dickerson and his father, Amos Dickerson, were questioned by the special investigator of the Collings slaying of Sept. 8.

BERWYN HUSBAND ADMITS TRYING TO POISON WIFE

Put Poison in Cup of Tea, He Confesses.

Joseph F. Braun, 51 years old, 3413 Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, admitted yesterday to the Berwyn police that he had attempted to kill his wife, Rose, 45 years old, by putting ten grains of arsenic in a cup of tea. It is estimated that this amount of the poison would kill twenty-five people.

His motive, he confessed, was to get possession of her share of property they owned jointly.

"Besides," he added, "she was always sick and complaining, and I was getting tired of it."

Signs Property Contract.

The Brauns were married last December. On the wedding day Mrs. Braun signed a document in which it was specified that in the event of her death her husband was to have sole ownership of a $37,000 apartment building she owned. They were to own it in joint tenancy during their lives.

Several months ago Mrs. Braun became ill. Physicians diagnosed her trouble as heart disease, and she had been taking various medicines. Tuesday night she handed a prescription to Braun and asked him to have it filled at a drug store.

When he returned he told her that he had been directed by the druggist to give her the remedy in a cup of tea. Her suspicions aroused, Mrs. Braun merely took a sip of the beverage and, finding it bitter, laid it aside.

Has Tea Analyzed.

On Wednesday she took the tea to a chemist for analysis and on his finding that it contained poison she notified the police. Braun was arrested that evening. At first he denied the attempted poisoning, but under a long questioning yesterday made the admissions to Police Chief James Mikes of Berwyn.

He was taken before Police Magistrate John Ehardt, who ordered him held to the grand jury on a charge of attempting to kill by poison.

Braun is a porter and night watchman employed by the Lawndale State bank.

WANDERING GIRLS SENT HOME.

Gertrude Monahan, 18 years old, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Evelyn Lucas, 19 years old, Duluth, Minn., who were found in a box car at the Pennsylvania railroad yards Wednesday, were sent back to their homes yesterday.

LOMBARD OPENS FALL FESTIVAL; BANDS COMPETE

The village of Lombard yesterday started the observance of its first annual fall festival and homecoming, which will continue through today and tomorrow.

The high school bands of the western suburbs competed in the afternoon for a cup offered by the Lombard Business Men's association, which is sponsoring the affair. Glenbard was declared the winner, with Wheaton second, and Bensenville third.

Today there will be a parade through the streets of the town, with hundreds of marchers and scores of floats. Special services are to be held in all the Lombard churches tomorrow.

PROBATION FOR BOOK SELLER.

100 MILLION LOOPHOLE LEFT IN ARMS TRUCE

Congress Can Appropriate for Big Fleet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The text of the American note to the league of nations, committing the United States to participation in a one year armament construction truce, was made public at the state department today. It provides that this country will refrain from laying down any new warships, except for replacement purposes, during the year ending Nov. 1, 1932. Warship construction now under contract is to be continued, but under no conditions is the United States to let contracts for any new vessels which would raise its tonnage above the existing "built and building" level.

The American note stipulates that the truce is not to become effective until after the other world powers have signified their intention of taking a similar course. It also is stated that the United States enters the holiday on the understanding that this action "will not prejudice its position or affect its proposals at the world disarmament conference" scheduled to begin at Geneva next February.

Loopholes in Truce.

As explained by American officials, there is nothing in the truce to prevent the United States from enacting a new 100 million warship authorization bill during the coming session of congress, provided that none of the cruisers or aircraft carriers included in the bill are laid down before the expiration of the holiday period. It would be perfectly proper for congress to appropriate funds for building the new vessels so long as this money was not expended prior to Nov. 1, 1932, it was said.

The truce, according to explanatory comment originating at the state, navy, and war departments, will not affect replacement warship tonnage or replacement army tanks or armored cars or aircraft.

As the United States is short of its treaty allotment of modern destroyers, new replacement destroyers could be laid down without violating the pact, but no new aircraft carriers or cruisers, the types of ships most vitally needed by the navy, could be built.

Delays "Treaty Navy."

Despite statements of administration officials that the new truce will not be disadvantageous to the United States, statistics show that a holiday in laying down new ships will postpone indefinitely the date when the United States can attain parity in fleet tonnages with Great Britain and tonnage parity in auxiliary ships with Japan. Today Great Britain and Japan are practically built up to treaty levels, while the United States is approximately 20 per cent short and rapidly going down hill, due to ageing ships.

American participation in the holiday also has the effect of allowing nations not financially able to support new building programs to take a breathing spell and still hold their superiority over this country. The United States, a power financially capable of building new ships during the depression period, thus gives up the advantage of its better financial position.

U. S. Note to League.

The pertinent sections of the American note follow:

"The government of the United States has received the resolution of the council of the league of nations of Sept. 30, 1931, suggesting an armaments truce, and declares that, without prejudicing its position at the forthcoming general disarmament conference or affecting any proposal it may desire to submit to that conference, it is prepared, for the period of one year beginning Nov. 1, 1931, to acept the truce, provided that like action is taken by the other principal military and naval powers.

"It is the understanding of this government that the proposed truce shall not apply to construction which had been begun or for which contracts had been let prior to its entry into force."

FOUR OTHER NATIONS ACCEPT.

GENEVA, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Besides the United States, four European nations—Italy, Belgium, Sweden, and Denmark—already have accepted the league of nations proposal for a one year armaments truce, it was learned tonight.

WILLS 2 MILLION OF ESTATE TO 2 HUMANE GROUPS

Boy Scouts Are Also Named by Widow.

The bulk of a $3,000,000 estate is left to two humane societies in the will of Mrs. Marion E. McConnell, 74 years old, a widow. The will was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, by Attorney Myron Whittemore.

The Anti-Cruelty society of Chicago and the American Humane association of New York are to receive 40 per cent each of the residue of the estate after bequests to relatives. An auditor's report of the estate for last year estimates its value at approximately $3,000,000. Each of the societies will receive approximately $1,000,000. The remaining 20 per cent of the residue after gifts to relatives is left to the Boy Scouts of America.

Mrs. McConnell died on Thursday following a stroke of apoplexy. Funeral services are to be held today in the Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery. Mrs. Connell was born in Chicago, the daughter of Horace Warren, a pioneer Chicago grocer.

Triples Value of Inheritance.

She received a small inheritance at the death of her father. On the death of her husband, Horace C. McConnell, 14 years ago, she received his entire estate of about $1,000,000. She managed her estate, making shrewd investments so that she trebled the inheritance and preserved the estate in the fall of the market.

The greater part of the estate is in stock of the Eagle-Ottawa Leather company of Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. McConnell owned approximately 12,000 shares in the company. The remainder of the estate is in stocks and bonds.

Mrs. McConnell was interested in the humane societies although she was never actively associated with either group. In a previous will she had made the societies her chief beneficiaries and with slight changes reaffirmed her intention in a will drawn last yar.

Cousins Receive Gifts.

Mrs. McConnell had lived at the Windermere hotel for many years. She was known only to a small circle of friends. She had no children and her only relatives are three cousins living in New York.

Elizabeth and Florence M. McConnell are to receive $50,000 each and share a trust fund of $170,000 which is to expire in five years. Mrs. James E. McConnell, their mother, is to receive $5,000. The will provides the daughters shall share all jewelry except diamonds which are to go in the estate and Mrs. McConnell is to get all the household furniture. The only other bequest in the will is one of $1,000 to pay the entrance fee of a friend, Harriet Greenwood Rixley, to a home for the aged if she desires to enter one.

The charity bequests are to be known as the Horace C. and Marion E. McConnell funds. The use of the funds is not limited.

INSISTS FORMER TURKISH SULTAN IS AGAIN CALIPH

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

NICE, Oct. 30.—That the caliphate will be restored, with the former sultan of Turkey, Abdul Medjid Effendi II., in his ancient office, was confirmed today by Hussein Nakib Bey, the former caliph's private secretary, who declared, however, that the plan is dependent upon the Moslems agreeing among themselves and obtaining England's approval.

Hussein Bey, a monocled diplomat, said that the congress called by the grand mufti in Jerusalem on Dec. 7 may discuss not the caliphate, for the former sultan still considers himself the caliph, but the residence of the caliph, who for political reasons cannot now reside in Turkey.

Hussein denied a report that according to the Koran the caliph must have temporal power, stating that the caliphate is essentially a spiritual office like that of the papacy. He said the fact that the Kemalists hold the prophet's regalia will not be the slightest hindrance.

AL SMITH FIGHTS REFORESTATION AT STATE COST

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, bringing a five foot square map to illustrate his charge that the so-called reforestation amendment to the state constitution is really an instrument to permit commercial invasion of the Adirondack preserve, tonight carried his fight against it to the voters of Brooklyn.

Smith then asserted W. Kingsland Macy, state Republican chairman, was endeavoring to create the impression that because he opposed this amendment there was a break between him and Gov. Roosevelt.

"Of course that is not so, and Macy knows it isn't so," he said.

ALDERMEN SEEK WAY TO COLLECT OVERDUE TAXES

Hodes Blames High Levy for Delinquents.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The special committee of the city council, appointed to devise ways of collecting the $126,036,000 of delinquent taxes for the last three tax years, produced several suggestions at its first meeting yesterday.

Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th], chairman, asserted that the tax burden on real estate is too heavy. He would lower the taxes for those who have not paid, and give credit on future bills to those who have paid.

City Controller S. M. Szymczak asked a law which would compel a property owner to pay his taxes as assessed, and then litigate any part he deems unfair later. This suggestion was considered by Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission.

Asks Law for Tax Buyers.

Attorney Daniel A. Roberts of the west park board urged a new law which would insure to a tax buyer the return of his money. He explained: "The tax buyer says to the community, 'I will pay the taxes of a property owner, assuming that the property owner will later repay me,' but there are many instances where the property owner does not pay. The tax buyer can neither get the property nor his money. As a result there are $15,000,000 in tax forfeitures, in addition to the $126,000,000 of unpaid current taxes for the last three years."

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] suggested that complaints on 120,000 parcels of real estate, most of which are pending in the County court, make more work than County Judge Jarecki can dispose of. He urged that Judge Jarecki be given aid, "either outside judges or masters or assistant judges."

"Certainly the local governments need cash," asserted Chairman Hodes. "The city has put in a plan of economy and we still cannot borrow. What is the reason?"

Why City Can't Borrow.

Asked for the answer, City Controller Szymczak said:

"We have been trying to sell tax anticipation warrants for six months, but no sales. The bankers give as their reasons: The governments have been on a spending spree and the people are not paying their taxes. The people are not paying because they got out of the habit for two years, the depression is upon us, many are out of work and the business of others has been hard hit. The bankers look upon the 1931 tax warrants as frozen assets.

"The city cannot invest in any more of its own warrants until it is certain of relief from the legislature, until it is certain the property owners will pay their taxes and until some promising steps are taken to dispose of some of the 1930 tax warrants. These we believe are a good buy.

City Poor Moral Risk.

"The city as a financial risk, from a moral viewpoint, is not hot. We have given out tax anticipation warrants, due a year ago, which have not been paid. We have not legally defaulted, but morally we have."

"But suppose we do not get relief from the state legislature," suggested Ald. James C. Moreland [41st].

"Then it is receivership," said Mr. Szymczak. "We will be on the black list."

TAX BUILDINGS NOT COMPLETED ON DATE OF LEVY

The board of review yesterday placed on the 1930 tax books assessments against 18 buildings which had been listed as only partially completed on April 1 of that year. In the past, Andrew W. Gatenbey, chief clerk, explained, it has been the practice to exempt structures not completed by April of any given year. The value of the buildings as fixed by the reviewers aggregates $18,307,325. The assessed value of 27 per cent of the total valuation amounts to $6,773,710. This represents approximately $406,422 in taxes.

A table showing five of the larger buildings, the percentage of their completion for the purposes of the 1930 assessment, and the full value of the structures as of April 1 of that year, follows:

| Building— | Percentage of completion. | Value. |
|---|---|---|
| Trustee's System, 120 W. Lake | 55 | $ 1,019,826 |
| La Salle-Wacker, 119 N. La Salle | 30 | 914,873 |
| 1201 Astor | 40 | 705,990 |
| Merchandise Mart, 222 N. Bank dr. | 55 | 12,006,405 |
| One North La Salle | 55 | 2,586,432 |

The other properties are smaller and outside the loop.

Collects $2,500,000

MRS. JOSEPHINE BUSSE.

The city has collected more of its "hopeless bills" so far this year than the total collected during 1930, Mrs. Josephine L. Busse, assistant corporation counsel, reported yesterday to Corporation Counsel Sexton.

Collections made to Oct. 1 this year were $35,170. The total collected last year was $28,022. Mrs. Busse, the widow of former Mayor Fred Busse, began the collection of the "hopeless bills" of the city, principally unpaid inspection fees and small claims for damage to city property, in March, 1916. Since that time she has turned $2,676,978 into the city treasury from such sources.

Her heaviest year was 1923, when she was assigned to collect the bills of the Pageant of Progress, turning in a total of $690,965.

PLAN TO UNITE TAXING BODIES WINS SUPPORT

The preliminary report of the council subcommittee on consolidation was read last night to representatives of local governments and civic organizations. A tentative plan of unification of taxing bodies to effect an annual saving of $50,000,000 on budgets totaling $300,000,000 was approved by the representatives.

The subcommittee advocates the creation of a metropolitan council coextensive with Cook county, to be vested with authority to regulate public health; police the area; govern air, land, and water traffic, and carry on governmental activities which may be transferred to it by referendum. The council is to levy taxes and determine issuance of bonds by governments within it.

The subcommittee is to present the preliminary report to the council committee on efficiency, reorganization, and consolidation for adoption in a final report. Speakers last night urged the final report be completed as early as possible for presentation to the legislature for consideration.

WEISS LOSES IN COURT FIGHT TO HALT HIS 'TRIAL'

David D. Weiss, tailor-broker, who was indicted as an alleged accomplice of Walter Wolf in Wolf's $3,666,929 theft from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, lost his fight yesterday to prohibit the governors of the Chicago Board of Trade from continuing his trial for alleged unethical conduct. Weiss contends the bank has brought pressure to have him expelled from the Board of Trade.

Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley, ruling on a petition brought by Weiss' attorney, Samuel A. Ettelson, to prevent the Board of Trade from continuing his trial, held that the Board of Trade was beyond the court's jurisdiction in this instance. Governors of the board announced the trial would be resumed next Tuesday.

PERSONALTY TAX LEVY JOKE, SAYS MABEL REINECKE

Ex-Collector Testifies in County Court.

Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue, and now a member of the board of election commissioners, described in County Judge Jarecki's court yesterday the errors made by the boards of assessors over many years.

She was testifying in the trial of a suit brought by Attorneys Morris Schaeffer and Roy D. Keehn on behalf of Mrs. Lillian Cisar, an Oak Park widow, who assails the legality of the 1928 and 1929 tax levies on the grounds that if personal property has been honestly assessed her own tax bills would have been much smaller.

The suit is a test case for 2,000 taxpayers. It was described by Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, who sought to intervene yesterday as a representative of the present board of assessors, as "propaganda for the passage of a bill to abolish the present taxing machinery at the special session of the legislature." Judge Jarecki denied his petition to appear as an attorney.

U. S. Tax Books Open.

A witness for the taxpayers, Mrs. Reinecke explained that the federal income tax laws provide that the records of the income tax department may be made available to local taxing bodies upon the request of the governor of any state. The provision, she stated, was intended to allow state tax officials access to information concerning personal property.

"Did the Cook county assessors ever seek such information through the governor?" she was asked.

"No," she replied. "I don't believe the assessors even knew that they could get it."

Mrs. Reinecke, who said that in 1917 she had been the secretary for Charles Ringer, then president of the board of assessors and now a member of the state tax commission, was asked to describe the system in use for handling personal property returns.

"In the first place," she responded, "there was no system. The property schedules were left with the taxpayers who were expected to fill them out properly and swear to their truth. I found that less than 2 per cent of the schedules were properly made out. The remainder simply had the amount the taxpayer wished to be assessed upon scrawled across them."

"Each taxpayer was his own assessor, was he not?" Attorney Keehn asked. "Yes," was the reply.

A Silver Dollar Bribe.

Mrs. Reinecke then described an incident which occurred when she was placed in charge of the personal property schedules in the assessor's office. A city alderman with several other men brought their schedules to her office and asked that she aid them in filling in the form.

"The alderman's schedule was folded," she said. "When I picked it up a silver dollar rolled out. 'You can't pay your taxes in this office,' I told him. He replied, 'O, that's the only way I have ever paid my personal property taxes.'"

Describing the wholesale "fixing" of personal property and other tax schedules in the assessor's office, Mrs. Reinecke finally said that she had resigned, because she refused any longer to share the responsibility of such dereliction of duty.

3 Fined for the Sale of Colored Margarine

Three storekeepers pleaded guilty to selling colored margarine and were each fined $100 by Judge Perry L. Persons in Waukegan yesterday. The charges, made by State's Attorney A. V. Smith, were based upon a recent Illinois law taxing the sale of oleomargarine when colored yellow. The dairymen of Lake county reported that prior to the violations a warning had been printed in the newspapers that storekeepers would be prosecuted if they violated the law.

PULLS LION OFF DYING AMERICAN HUNTER BY TAIL

Native Gunbearer Is Hero of Tragedy.

NAIROBI, Kenya, East Africa, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A native gunbearer emerged today as the heroic figure in a desperate struggle with a wounded lion which cost the life of an American hunter in the African wilds.

W. H. Herren, a contractor of Aberdeen, Wash., who was on a hunting expedition in Kenya with his wife and two other Americans, was fatally clawed in the encounter and died in a hospital at Mwanza last Sunday from the effects of gangrene poisoning.

Wounded Lion Attacks Hunter.

Separating from the main party, Herren and Gus Peret of Portland, Ore., established a camp near Tanganyika last Friday and started out on a hunting and photographing trip. Herren shot a male lion and, believing it was dead, approached while Peret ground the film.

"Gus, he's got me," Herren suddenly shouted and Peret saw that the supposedly dead lion had leaped upon his companion. They rolled about the ground and the hunter thrust his two hands in the beast's mouth to stand him off. Peret was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting the man.

Seizes Lion's Tail.

At this point the gunbearer crept up on the thrashing pair, seized the lion's tail and dragged it off Herren. Peret then shot the animal to death. The victim was rushed to Ikoma where a part of one leg was amputated, but efforts to save him were fruitless.

The party plans to return to London by airplane with Herren's ashes. The others are Mrs. Herren and W. H. Colman of Seattle, Wash. They had planned an extensive safari to obtain specimens for Washington university, the Los Angeles museum and the Cincinnati zoo.

Niece of Florenz Ziegfeld Files Suit for Divorce

Mrs. Florence Ziegfeld Brannum, a niece of Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical producer, filed suit for separate maintenance at Peoria yesterday against William Samuel Brannum Jr., treasurer of the Peoria Lumber company. She charged cruelty and infidelity. Mrs. Brannum is a daughter of the late Carl Ziegfeld, former operator of the Chicago Musical college. Brannum is the son of William S. Brannum, millionaire lumberman of Chicago. The Brannums were married here in 1920, and have one child, Audrey Arlette. The separated last August.

HOLD TWO BAIN EMPLOYES ON FRAUD CHARGES

Case Brings Warrant for John Bain Jr.

Ervin Larson, assistant cashier of the Armitage State bank, and Hugh Leslie, cashier of the Brainerd State bank, both members of the chain of 12 closed Bain banks, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay. At the same time the judge issued a bench warrant for John Bain Jr., former vice president of the Gage Park State bank.

Larson was ordered held on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and Leslie on a charge of fraud and deceit. Bonds for each were fixed at $5,000. Investors who had purchased bonds from the Bain employés appeared to testify against them.

August Dietzig, 8628 South Paulina street, testified that he had bought a $1,000 bond from the Brainerd State bank before the bank closed and was persuaded to exchange it for a bond of similar value on Bain properties. He declared the second bond to be valueless because no taxes had been paid on the property.

Admits Bond Exchange.

Judge Lindsay summoned Leslie, who admitted exchanging the bond.

"Why did you do it?" the judge asked. "What kind of banker are you?"

Leslie said he was acting under instructions of John Bain Jr. The judge then issued a bench warrant for Bain. The latter is to appear before the judge today if the warrant is served.

Larson was held on the testimony of John Macie, who said he had been buying a $1,000 bond from the Armitage State bank in installments. Larson informed him, Macie said, that another bond on a less desirable property had been substituted for the one Macie was buying on the installment plan.

Closed Bank Dividends.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced dividends of $2,275,000 will be paid to approximately 74,600 depositors of three closed banks. The banks preparing to pay dividends are the South Side Savings and Trust, 4659 Cottage Grove avenue, the West Town State bank, 2400 West Madison street, and the Garfield State bank, 4010 West Madison street.

Receiver John A. Carroll of the South Side Savings and Trust will mail checks for a 25 per cent dividend of $812,000 to 9,600 depositors. A 20 per cent dividend of $560,000 will be paid 25,000 depositors of the West Town State bank, and a 20 per cent dividend of $900,000 to 40,000 depositors of the Garfield State bank.

Attorneys for John Murray Connors, who was a vice president of the closed Waukegan State bank, yesterday made a motion in the Lake county Circuit court to quash an indictment charging Connors with conspiracy in connection with the institution's closing. Connors is now receiver for the closed Citizens' State bank of Kelthsburg, Ill. Arguments on the motion to quash will be heard on Tuesday by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady.

LABOR LEADERS' NEW YORK CITY BANK IS CLOSED

Another Institution to Take It Over.

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The Federation Bank and Trust company, founded by the late Peter J. Brady, labor leader and aviation enthusiast, was closed today by Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, because of nonliquidity and depreciation of its assets. Mr. Brady was president of the bank after its establishment in 1922 and until his death in an airplane accident on Staten Island last month.

Simultaneously with the closing of the bank Mr. Broderick announced it would be taken over by the Manufacturers Trust company under an arrangement which would pay the depositors at once 66 2-3 per cent of their funds. Additional payments will be made as quickly as the liquidation of the closed bank proceeds. Indications were that eventually the depositors may hope to get the full amounts of their deposits.

Acts for Bank Groups.

A statement issued by Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust company, declared that the closing of the labor bank was "due to conditions altogether beyond the control of the management of the bank." The Manufacturers Trust company is acting in the case for the same group of leading New York banks and bankers who have recently taken over a group of small banks in the city taken over by the state banking department.

A reassuring statement in line with those of Mr. Broderick and Mr. Gibson was issued by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former Supreme court justice, who succeeded Mr. Brady as president of the Federation Bank and Trust company, but who resigned last week. John J. Munholland, executive vice president of the bank, has been in charge of the institution in the interval. He is vice president of the Central Trades and Labor council, one of the many labor organizations affiliated with the bank, which from the beginning had the backing of organized labor. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, joined the institution as chairman of its board of directors after Mr. Brady's death.

Heavy Withdrawals Made.

The Federation Bank and Trust company, as shown by a comparison of its statements, lost $2,331,000 in deposits between Sept. 5 and Sept. 29. The greater part of this loss was suffered immediately after Mr. Brady's death. The deposits at the close of business yesterday totaled $12,170,000.

The City of New York had $850,000 on deposit, of which $100,000 was in controller's trust funds, all fully protected. The bank also had state deposits of $465,000.

Among the directors was Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Borrower Says He's Broke, but Digs Up $2,500 to Pay Bank

Abe Krecum, who has gone through more than a dozen bankruptcy actions, and who told Judge Michael J. Feinberg a few days ago that he was penniless, yesterday handed over $2,500 in cash and a thirty day note for $2,500 to pay for loans he obtained from the West Central State bank before it closed. Judge Feinberg is conducting a hearing to discover assets of the bank with which to pay depositors. The bank is situated at Ogden avenue and Roosevelt road.

Krecum decided to pay up after spending a week in the county jail. He had been sentenced to serve thirty days for contempt of court when it was shown that he had perjured himself in his testimony. The judge allowed him to leave the jail yesterday, but retained jurisdiction in the case until the thirty day note comes due.

Follows Druggan Action.

In his action yesterday Krecum followed the example of Terry Druggan, public enemy. Last Tuesday Druggan, summoned into court, paid $2,500 cash and signed over other property to the receiver for the bank.

Judge Feinberg expressed satisfaction when Krecum produced the money.

"This sets a record of some sort," the judge remarked. "I don't believe any one ever got any cash out of Krecum before."

Judge Feinberg proceeded with his questioning of witnesses. Most of them professed to be broke, although they at one time had been able to borrow large sums from the bank without security. Witness after witness said any property he once owned was now in his wife's or his son's or some other relative's name.

One of the witnesses was Joseph Shaps, 4537 North Albany avenue, who owes the Bank $1,000.

"Judge, I'm absolutely broke," he pleaded. "I get just enough to live on. I work for $30 a week in a garage."

Revelation by Witness.

After repeated questioning the witness finally admitted that the garage is owned by his son and that the big apartment building in which he lives was once owned by him but is now in his wife's name.

H. H. Schoen, cashier of the bank, was recalled to the stand. He had denied that he signed the name of Charles Fryer, a borrower, to a note without Fryer's knowledge.

"I'm giving you a week in which to think over your testimony," said the judge. "Then I'm going to ask you if you wish to change it. I'm giving you one more chance to tell us the truth."

TWO POLICEMEN DIE AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASHES

Veteran of Force Is Killed in Collision.

Policeman George Schultz, 46 years old, a member of the department for 18 years, died at the Frances Willard hospital yesterday from injuries sustained earlier in the day when his automobile collided with another car at Harrison street and Keeler avenue. Goodwin Mitchell, 29 years old, 4000 Washington boulevard, a passenger in the second car, is in the hospital suffering from critical injuries. The other driver, James Kiedal, 2242 South 59th avenue, Cicero, was not injured.

Policeman Schultz was assigned to the Fillmore station when a rookie and never had been transferred. He was married and lived with his wife at 567 North Laramie avenue. Mrs. Schultz also is the widow of Fire Captain Frank Campion, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1921.

Second Policeman Killed.

A second policeman victim during the day was Thomas Lautrey, 40 years old, who was assigned to the Shakespeare avenue station. He died at the Elizabeth Condell Memorial hospital at Libertyville from injuries suffered early yesterday in a collision on Rand road in Lake Zurich. Nick Barthe, 34 years old, 2830 Milwaukee avenue, who was riding with him, suffered internal injuries. The men were returning from a celebration of Lautrey's 40th birthday when the accident happened.

Schultz's death and one other raised the toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 1,047. The other victim:

Frank Gleksy, 48 years old, 2032 Potomac avenue, a real estate broker, killed when run down at Western and Haddon avenues. Samuel Ellis, 6900 Magnolia avenue, the driver, was held.

Driver Explains Accident.

Arthur Esch, 63 years old, driver of an automobile which struck and critically injured three persons Thursday night, yesterday explained why he did not stop until halted by another motorist after carrying one of the victims on the bumper of his car for three blocks. Esch, who lives at 7229 Merrill avenue, is a roller in the South Chicago steel mills and was returning home when the accidents occurred.

"When I am coming home from work," he said, "I am always deaf for an hour or more because of the mill noises. My eyes, too, are getting a little dim. Last night it was raining and my glasses fogged up until I could hardly see. I felt a little bump, but I had no idea that I struck any one."

The South Chicago police placed three charges of reckless driving against Esch and he was released on $1,000 bond.

Alfred Tissol, 34 years old, 221 South Crawford avenue, a hit-and-run driver whose car struck a 3 year old child, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Speeders' court.

Firemen's Death After Blast Held Accidental

Fireman William J. Fitzgerald of Squad 5, who died of burns and injuries suffered in a fire and explosion at 2951 South Park way Oct. 24, came to his death accidentally, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. The fire was believed to have been caused by a moonshine still. The coroner's jury exonerated five Negroes who had been held as the owners of the still.

SUED AGAIN

LILY PONS.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Lily Pons, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, was made defendant in another suit today by Maria Gay Zenatello.

Mrs. Zenatello, former operatic singer, declares in suits filed here and in New York that Miss Pons broke a contract whereby Mrs. Zenatello was to be her manager, and get 15 per cent of her earnings.

Asking $100,000 damages here, Mrs. Zenatello alleges a conspiracy among the soprano, her husband, August Mesritz, the Metropolitan Musical bureau, Francis P. Coppicus of Bronxville and Bruno Zirato, former secretary to Enrico Caruso, to deprive her of the benefits of the contract.

The musical bureau was described by plaintiff's attorney as part of the Columbia Broadcasting system, and Coppicus was said to have the controlling stock interest in it.

The suit in New York asks $350,000 damages from Miss Pons and her husband.

MAYOR PRESENTS GUN LAW PLEA TO EMMERSON

In another move to curtail crime Mayor Cermak yesterday appeared before Gov. Emmerson and urged his support for a drastic law against gun toting. He asked that such a law be cited in the governor's call for the special session of the legislature.

The law recommended by Mayor Cermak, and patterned after the plan drawn by the legislative commission which recently toured Europe to study penal conditions and crime, requires registration of all weapons, finger prints of all gun owners, ballistics records of the markings of all guns, and purchase of guns only by permit.

Mayor Cermak asserted that, because of legal technicalities, gunmen daily evade punishment. Gov. Emmerson told the mayor the plan appeared good and would benefit police. He suggested, however, downstate legislators might oppose any new gun measure, because they consider the possession of firearms from the rural standpoint, which, he added, is different from that in the city. Later Mayor Cermak ordered letters sent to all Cook county members of the legislature, asking a round robin approval for a new gun law.

BRITISH RAIL MEN CUT OFF PENSION OF CABINET MAN

'Punish' Their Leader for Joining MacDonald.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The National Union of Railway Men today by a vote of 75 to 5 deprived J. H. Thomas, secretary of dominions, of a pension of better than $2,500 a year because, in his own words, he decided to put his country ahead of the dictates of the Labor union caucus.

J. H. THOMAS. [A. P. Photo.]

Thomas resigned his post as general political secretary of the union when he became a member of the national government. The union voted to cancel the pension to which he would have become eligible in four years, at the age of 60.

Today, although there was stiff opposition, the executive committee consented to hear Thomas defend his action and to plead the right to reap some reward from the pension scheme which he helped to organize.

Thomas Pleads His Case.

Thomas arrived with his wife and married daughter. He strode to the platform and faced the delegates, who have followed his leadership for years, sitting silent on the benches. His eyes filled with tears when he pleaded that his action in joining the coalition government was in the interest of the railway men, but the speech was heard in silence.

He was then forced to leave the hall during a secret discussion of his case. Thomas was to have returned to hear the verdict, but the union sent word it did not want him, so he remained at the colonial office, where he received the announcement of the decision.

There he bitterly denounced the union's action.

"If any illustration is wanted of the mentality of the delegates," he said, "it is found in the question, asked of me by one of the delegates, if I realized that in the event my wife and family ultimately were in want that a collection might be taken among the members for them. Two things emerge.

Attacks Railway Men.

"First, how dangerous it is that people of this mentality should be in authority. Second, what an example they give the railway companies to follow the precedent they themselves set. Above all, I now have the explanation of the folks who indorsed the view of their chief when he said that those who voted for the national government were to be treated as blackguards. The complaint against me was that I did not realize their machine was more important than the nation."

Thomas concluded with a reminder that most railway men voted for the national government's candidates to the house of commons, as requested in his manifestoes.

"They can deprive me of my pension, but not of my soul or independence," he declared, and dashed off for his audience with King George at Buckingham palace.

Meanwhile Prime Minister MacDonald left London for his country home at Chequers today for a week-end rest. He will not return until Monday or Tuesday. Though the new parliament meets on Tuesday it is not expected the reorganization of the cabinet will be completed before the end of next week.

It seems likely now that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, will be appointed lord privy seal and that Neville Chamberlain will succeed him as chancellor. Snowden will be raised to the peerage to make him eligible for the cabinet position.

One of the first tasks of the new cabinet will be to appoint a committee to make a speedy investigation of economic conditions in Great Britain and recommend remedies, which may include protective tariffs.

BRITISH SOCIETY GIRL, 19, HOPS ON RACE TO AFRICA

LYMPNE, Kent, England, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Miss Peggy Salaman, 19 year old society girl, took off tonight from Lympne airport in an attempt to set a time record on a flight by stages to South Africa. She reached Paris, rested an hour, and took off for Rome.

Miss Salaman is a product of a Mayfair drawing room, who has always enjoyed everything money could buy. Suddenly she tired of it all, took up flying and only tonight informed her family of her South African plan.

With her she took a revolver as a precaution against danger in case of a forced descent in the wilds of the dark continent. Gordon Store accompanied her to take his turn at the controls.

MRS. JUDD ARRIVES AT PHOENIX TO FACE TRIAL FOR MURDER

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Winnie Ruth Judd "came home" today to face trial for murder. With sirens shrieking, a motorcycle escort led Sheriff S. R. McFadden's dust covered automobile through a lane of three thousand excited, curious spectators and deposited the red headed, confessed slayer of her two women friends at the portals of the Maricopa county jail at 2:45 p. m.

Mrs. Judd had waived extradition in Los Angeles, where she gave herself up five days after the bodies of her two victims, Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Le Roi, had been found in trunks.

Unmanacled and leaning heavily on the arm of a jail matron, Mrs. Judd was taken to the women's quarters on the top floor of the county courthouse.

Then for ten minutes she posed stoically as flashlights boomed and camera shutters clicked. Standing in the background, visibly shaken, was Dr. W. C. Judd, her husband, who followed her here.

"Aw, give her a break, boys," he pleaded. "It's been a hard trip, and she's worn out," at which Ruth Judd flashed a fleeting smile of thanks to him.

Wages of Belgian Miners Are Reduced 5 Per Cent

BRUSSELS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Wages of Belgian miners were reduced 5 per cent today.

NORTHUP ARGUES FOR VALIDITY OF CANAL CHARGES

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, in his argument against the motion to quash the sanitary district graft indictment, attacked one by one the contentions of Timothy J. Crowe and eight co-defendants yesterday. The matter is being heard by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court and by Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly.

The closing argument of Prosecutor Northup will be finished today, and the defense will probably begin the rebuttal on Monday.

One of the defense arguments was that the indictment was not valid because it contained charges that were not contained in the first indictment, thus making the statute of limitations operative. Prosecutor Northup asserted that last January "fifteen solid days" were spent in argument upon the validity of the old indictment. The only changes in the new indictment, Mr. Northup said, were incorporated to silence the defense complaints of faulty charges in the old indictment.

INCOME AND TOBACCO TAXES PROPOSED

12,000 WORDS IN REVENUE REPORT; SUMMARY GIVEN

Commission Puts Blame on Politics.

separate proposals for the aid of local governments in financial trouble and for the relief of real estate, but what they heard, they said, was a scheme of reorganization so broad in its scope that they were amazed.

Another Meeting Today.

Largely because of the size of the task of the newcomers in the deliberations, action by the commission as a whole was deferred until a second meeting this morning. Inducing causes of the postponement also were a motion by Mark Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, to amend the report by proposing to issue bonds to cover the entire 1930 tax levy, and a statement by Ald. Oscar Nelson that he wished to consult with the executive board of his organization, the Chicago Federation of Labor, before voting upon so large a plan involving so many big subjects.

There was no objection to the delay on the part of the executive committee. In fact the motion to defer was made by S. E. Thomason, who presented the report, and was seconded by Chairman Brittain. Both admitted that those who heard the report for the first time could not be expected to grasp even its essentials in a couple of hours.

Assembly Call Expected.

Despite this delay it is possible that Gov. Emmerson's call for the special session of the general assembly to consider the proposed legislation may be issued today. The man who drafts such official documents, De Witt Billman, secretary of the state legislative reference bureau, attended the meeting and conferred about the subjects to be included in the call.

Gov. Emmerson's desire is to have the session start work next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Under the conditions that prevailed in the commission meeting there was little discussion. In the absence of Gov. Emmerson, who had announced in advance a "hands off" policy, John G. Oglesby, former lieutenant-governor, was elected chairman, and Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation and one of the experts who advised the Brittain committee and acted as its secretary, was chosen secretary.

Levy Threatens War.

Mr. Levy's protest against the report had been expected and, when Chairman Oglesby called for discussion, the president of the Real Estate board arose and read a five page statement threatening war by his organization unless its plan was accepted.

"Let me remind you," he said at one point, "that it was the excessive burden placed upon the American colonists by the English crown which brought about the American revolution and gave us this free America.

"Equitable and just taxes should be paid, but when they become oppressive upon the people, particularly upon one class and particularly a minority interest in the wealth of the nation, then revolt is inevitable."

There was no such threat when Ald. Nelson spoke. He merely said it was impossible for him to commit his organization after only a brief glance at the report and a single reading of it in his presence.

A bit of parliamentary discussion arose concerning whether Mr. Thomason's motion for adoption of the report should be allowed to stand until morning or should be withdrawn. Before the question was settled the adjournment was taken.

In the opening section of its report the Brittain committee said plainly that it did not consider its work perfect, that a supplemental report will follow later.

DIGEST OF REPORT

The report of the Brittain executive committee of the governor's tax conference was a booklet of legal brief size that contained 45 pages and approximately 12,000 words. The reading of the report to the entire conference body of fifty members in the Stevens hotel yesterday by S. E. Thomason, one of the members of the smaller body, required slightly more than an hour and a half. The following excerpts contains the text of its definite proposals with portions of the comment.

In an introductory section the executive committee recited the history of the conference, the story of the chaos in the financial affairs of the local governments which led up to its being called, and the work of the executive committee during the last four months.

Puts Blame on Politics.

"Our study," said the committee after this recital, "indicates that political expediency is almost wholly responsible for the position in which we find ourselves. Political expediency accounted for the inequalities and injustice of the 1927 assessment and the state tax commission's order for the reassessment.

"Political expediency motivated the extravagant expenditures of the city, the school board, and the sanitary district in 1928. The results of political expediency in public office are at the base of the taxpayers' distrust of the method in which public funds have been spent in Cook county, and account in large part for the taxpayers' distress in meeting taxes resulting from such expenditures.

"Our deliberations bring us to the conclusion that no program shaped to conform to the demands of political expediency can pull us out of the morass into which political expediency has plunged our public bodies."

THE PROGRAM SUMMARIZED

[Briefly summarized our program covers the following essentials:

"1. Restoration of the public credit so that tax anticipation warrants of the various governments may again find a market as conservative investments for the savings of the people and cash again be available to meet the pay rolls and other obligations of the public bodies.

"2. The highest possible relief for distressed taxpayers through the following measures:

"[a] Provisions for new sources of public revenue, and for more effective taxation of personal property, the proceeds to be used to reduce the amount of taxes now levied upon real property.

Taxes on Installment Plan.

"[b] Provisions affording to distressed owners of real property opportunity to pay their delinquent tax bills in installments—the only practicable and constitutional approach to the so-called 'funding' of taxes.

"[c] Measures to reduce public costs and tax rates where possible, and to check public expenditures and costs of government by provisions for uniform public accounting, and the official publication of information as to expenditures of all public bodies.

"[d] Fiscal provisions to promote uniformity of assessments and calculated to make possible the consolidation of taxing bodies when desired by the voters."

Other Fields of Study.

The committee stated that other fields for improvement had been considered but, due to the necessity of avoiding an overload on the general assembly, these will be taken up in a supplemental report.

There followed at this point the detailed program proposed by the committee, which the conference was urged to adopt in its entirety. Set forth first were the measures designed to restore the credit of the local governments, second, those intended to provide relief for the taxpayers by provision of new revenues; third, those designed to reduce the tax burden, and, fourth, those to provide emergency relief for the local municipalities.

Assails Assessment System.

After describing the present financial crisis in local government, the report continued:

"The very nature of the present assessment and reviewing machinery in Cook county of itself invites and makes inevitable the abuses and evils which over a long period of time finally have sunk the entire community, helplessly in a morass of inequity and inefficiency.

"Cook county has a board of assessors of five members, each nominated and elected independently, the terms of not more than two of whom expire in any year. There is a board of review of three members, each nominated and elected independently, with terms expiring in rotation.

"It always has been the custom for each assessor and reviewer to determine for himself proper assessments, and the subsequent ratification by his associates is purely perfunctory. Even the employés of these offices have been known to take a hand in modifying valuations, and discipline among them has been destroyed for want of a single responsible authority.

"In addition, in Cook county outside Chicago there are 30 township assessors with responsibility for making initial assessments. Their assessments represent 30 unrelated opinions, 30 uncoördinated methods, only partly supervised. Their assessments are almost beyond hope of reasonable uniformity. Their chief activity has been competition in underassessment.

Can't Fix the Blame.

The public cannot place responsibility for underassessments and favoritism upon any one assessor or reviewer, and has been powerless to change the membership even of a majority of either board at any election.

Effective control at the polls has been further hampered because the names of candidates for these offices have appeared far down on unwieldy ballots, lost among scores of other offices and candidates. As a result, nominations and elections have been subjects of control and trade by political factions, and have involved the ability of the successful candidate to command large campaign funds.

"We have reached the conclusion that a change in the assessing machinery will not hinder or retard the work of the quadrennial assessment. Centralization of responsibility and systematic organization will expedite the work, and produce an assessment free from successful attack through the courts.

"This conclusion is based both upon analysis of the principles involved and upon the record of progress thus far made by the Cook county assessors with relation to the quadrennial assessment. The assessors told your executive committee that they expected to have the quadrennial assessment completed early in the year 1932. Up to Aug. 20 last no definite schedule of work had been outlined or planned or any organization for its execution created.

"If the board of assessors work as they have heretofore, in all probability hearings will not be completed by July 1, 1932—the present contemplated schedule. Only prompt action by the legislature in revising the taxing machinery pursuant to the recommendations set forth in this report will cure the situation, and it is vitally important to the taxpayers and to our government that the assessment be completed at least by July 1, 1932.

LEGISLATION PROPOSED

"In the place of the present board of assessors and board of review the legislation we have prepared creates a centralized body of three members, one of whom—to be designated as secretary—shall be the county assessor, with full and complete charge of the entire office and all employés thereof. He shall be solely responsible for maintaining equality in assessments.

"He is to have such expert and qualified assistants as may be needed, and the law provides for the publication of understandable assessment maps and lists which will inform each property owner of the value placed upon his own and his neighbor's property.

Two Others as Reviewers.

"The other two members of this body, which is to be known as the board of assessment and revision, are to act in a reviewing capacity to hear complaints filed against the valuations made by the assessors. The assessor is to sit on this board for the purpose of presenting the reasons for making the assessment complained of. [A similar body in makeup and powers is the board of assessment and revision in New York City. It has become a standard type of assessment organization in many large metropolitan centers.]

"It is proposed that the board of assessment and revision shall be appointed by the president of the county board, by and with the consent of the county commissioners. The secretary must possess general knowledge and experience as an appraiser. The other two members shall not belong to the same political party. The county board may remove any member of the board of assessment and revision for misfeasance or palpable omission of duty in office. The terms of office shall be four years."

As a corollary to this measure the committee proposed a bill authorizing the state tax commission to remove local assessing and reviewing officials "for cause," the purpose being to prevent a repetition of delays in assessments in Cook county and elsewhere.

Bills to Restore Credit.

The report then took up the measures it described as essential for the restoration of public credit in Cook county, five bills designed primarily to provide the municipalities affected with fiscal powers to finance delayed tax payments, to validate outstanding tax warrants and to provide means for outstanding municipal obligations.

In disposing of the requests for special bond issues for these purposes, the committee declared that the maximum amount of such bonds for the city and the county—omitting the school board—will not exceed $44,000,000 under its plan.

Bill Authorizing Bonds.

The committee's description of the bill authorizing these bonds read:

"A bill to authorize municipalities in Cook county to issue full faith and credit bonds, maturing in not to exceed seven years, for the purpose of anticipating not more than 85 per cent of certain 1929 and 1930 taxes, the collection of which has been unduly delayed as a result of the 1928 reassessment of real estate or has been or may be deferred by the operation of the proposed five year installment plan for the payment of 1930 taxes.

"The proceeds of the bonds would be used, first, to retire outstanding tax warrants issued against the levies of these years, so as to protect the public credit, and then to provide cash for the payment of expenses for which such taxes were levied. Such bonds and the interest thereon would be paid largely, if not entirely, from collections of the delayed or deferred taxes in anticipation of which the bonds were issued."

The next bill proposed, designed to give priority to tax warrants held by the public as separate from those in which the city's idle funds are invested, would prescribe that those in the hands of the public would be a first lien on the receipts from taxes. Another minor bill would authorize Cook county communities outside of Chicago to issue referendum bonds for the payment of teachers' salaries.

TWO TAXES PROPOSED

In the section of the report devoted to the relief of real estate taxpayers by the provision of new revenues, the committee commented at length on the fact that while all other expenses have been decreased governmental costs have either gone up or stood still. It declared, however, that the major expenses of government are more or less fixed and that if the load is to be lifted from the real estate owner it must be shifted elsewhere. This brought the report up to the income tax and the tax on tobacco.

This part of the document read as follows:

"Income tax laws have been enacted in the states of Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and Wisconsin. In general reports indicate satisfactory results and the production of revenues at the expense of those best able to bear the burden.

"The income tax law here proposed is technically a tax upon persons and fiduciaries based upon income, rather than a tax upon the income itself. The rates and graduations in varying respects are more lenient than in some states, and less lenient than in others. (The rates are those found tolerable in Wisconsin.)

Brackets Lower than U. S. Law.

"The exemption brackets are lower than those of the federal income tax law. There are many reasons for this. In the first place it is necessary 'to spread the base' in order to realize from a state income tax the revenues necessary to be raised. In the second place it is desirable that a larger proportion of citizens of every community than is represented by real estate taxpayers, share in the expense of government.

"A wider distribution of the expense of government among the electorate is not only socially equitable but politically desirable. The voter who recognizes the fact that his choice of public officials bears a direct relationship to the cost of government and that he pays his share of the cost of government unquestionably acquires a new viewpoint toward his public servants.

"The proposed income tax is to be paid in quarterly installments, staggered with respect to the federal income tax payments in order to distribute the load throughout the year.

$30,000,000 Yearly of Revenue.

"It is estimated that the bill will produce revenue of at least $30,000,000 per year.

"In this, as in the other two taxes provided in our report for additional revenue, we call attention particularly to the fact that we have insured the application of these new revenues to the reduction and batement of property taxes by providing, first, for replacement of taxes now levied on property for the state distributive school found; second, for an equitable distribution of the remainder between Cook county and the rest of the state; and, third, for distribution among the elementary school districts within counties. Your committee is convinced that the method of distribution of the fund is as fair as any that can be provided, both to the counties and to the taxpayers of the state.

Income Tax Bill Outlined.

"The chief features of the bill are as follows:

"1. Exemptions: Single persons, $1,000; married couples, $2,000; children under 18 years and other dependents, $200 each. A filing fee of $2 to be paid by every single person with a net income of $1,000 or more and by married couples with net income of $2,000 or more.

"2. Rates on taxable net income: 1 per cent on $1,000 or less; 2 per cent on $1,000-$4,000; 3 per cent on $4,000-$9,000; 4 per cent on $9,000-$16,000; 5 per cent on $16,000-$25,000; 6 per cent on all above $25,000.

"3. Deductions and offsets: The usual deductions are allowed from gross income in determining net income. In addition there may be credited against the tax computed upon net income the amount of taxes paid or accrued which have been imposed by state or local governments in Illinois, but not taxes of a character to increase the value of the property assessed. The amount of such credit shall not exceed that proportion of the computed tax which the net income derived from the taxpaying property bears to the total net income. Owners of their homes are allowed a credit against computed tax on net income of taxes paid on such homes, not exceeding in amount $100.

"4. Payments to be in quarterly installments, beginning April 15, 1932.

Tax on Tobacco Sale.

"In its canvass for other available revenues to abate real estate taxes your committee's subcommittee on new tax revenues has recommended the incorporation into the executive committee's program of a tax upon the sale of manufactured tobacco and tobacco products. Similar taxes are in effect in the states of Iowa, Ohio, Tennessee, and ten others states. This tax is recommended as a luxury consumption tax collectable by the sale of stamps affixed by retailers. It is estimated that revenues approximating $18,000,000 annually will be available from this tax. As in the case of the income tax, these revenues will be used to abate property taxes as described above.

"Your executive committee recommends the approval of the proposed tobacco tax and its adoption by the legislature unless more suitable methods of providing the necessary revenues shall be found by the legislature.

"The summary of the bill follows:

"The bill provides for a 20 per cent tax upon the retail selling price of all forms of manufactured tobacco, effective July 1, 1932, to be administered as a stamp tax, the revenues to be paid into the public school fund."

Tax for Heavy Trucks.

The committee reported that some additional revenue "may properly be provided by increasing the license fees for certain heavy type trucks and buses to put such fees on a parity with those charged in other states." It was estimated that $800,000 would be collected from this source.

The additional fees proposed, based on the weight of the vehicle and the maximum load, ranged from $10 to $25.

The next bills described in the report were those for the administration of the income tax law and the tobacco tax law by a new state department to be known as the department of revenue, with a director as its head. Then came the bills repealing the state school tax law and the bills providing for the distribution to the schools of the state of the proceeds of three new forms of taxation.

Considers Personalty Tax.

The committee reported that it had considered carefully all proposed methods to accomplish a more adequate assessment of personal property. It condemned the schedules now in use as "archaic and absurd," but said that better results are possible, although "archaic statutory and constitutional provisions are impossible of literal enforcement."

This led up to the specific proposal to put at least a few teeth into the personal property tax law by requiring that before an automobile owner shall be issued a state license he must file either a receipt showing personal property taxes have been paid upon the machine or an affidavit that he has scheduled it for taxation.

REDUCE EXPENDITURES

The section of the report devoted to measures to reduce expenditures opened with a discussion of the costs of local government. This included a statement that while the city administration and some other local officials have commenced to reduce expenditures there are some cases in which the committee found "small evidence of intent to reduce expenditures." The report said that retrenchment could not be enforced by the conference, and continued:

"Under the circumstances your committee is forced to limit itself to the issuance of a warning to the local municipalities and their citizens. Governmental expenditures must be reduced. There is no alternative. In this, the most serious depression within memory, the taxpaying public cannot afford to continue public expenditure at the rate which was tolerated in times of great prosperity.

"Inflated property values have been deflated. The 1931 quadrennial assessment may be expected to reflect the deflation. Taxes extended at the present rates will produce correspondingly reduced revenues. Unless the municipalities pare their 1932 budgets to anticipate these reductions, unless they eliminate unnecessary and wasteful expense at once, unless they accommodate their spending to reduced revenues, as the taxpayer has had to accommodate his spending to reduced revenues, the result will be hopeless deficits and further impaired credit. We are hopeful that the program we suggest will facilitate the financing necessary to carry us through the present emergency. But if the local municipalities fail to profit by the current year's experience and permit new deficits to occur in 1932 they will have only themselves to blame if the taxpaying and investing public refuses to come to their assistance."

Two Expenditure Commissions.

Contrary to some forecasts, the Brittain committee did not recommend the creation of a state budget control commission. Instead it proposed two public expenditure commissions, one for Cook county, to be appointed by the county judge, and one for the balance of the state "to be set up in the state department of finance." The commissions' powers, however, would be limited to audits upon the initiative and invitation of local governments and would have no control over appropriations.

Some observers attached more importance to a proposal for a bill requiring uniform systems of public accounting and requiring contractors doing public work to keep uniform accounts relative to such work. A third bill proposed in this same general category was one imposing the present budget requirements of the city, the county and the sanitary district upon other taxing bodies. Still another would amend the sanitary district law to require the board to keep its tax levy within the limits of its budget.

EMERGENCY RELIEF

In taking up emergency relief measures for local municipalities, the committee said that in general the local governments would be in satisfactory financial condition if tax assessments and tax collections had been made "upon a reasonable and normal basis."

The bills proposed in this field, it said, would provide "only for such bond issues as are essential to finance obligations already approved and payable and should add nothing to the present tax burdens of the county's municipalities."

The plan was described as providing a method for paying all delinquent tax warrants for 1928 and 1929 and all pay rolls and other necessary expenses during 1931 and 1932 and for retirement of outstanding tax warrants.

"Presupposing the adoption of our plan of legislation as a whole," said the committee as if hinting at definite information on the subject, "our investigation gives reasonable expectation that investors are available to provide the new money necessary for the adjustments involved."

Against Funding 1930 Taxes.

Then came the proposal for the five year payment plan for the 1930 taxes, except those due the state, and the committee here declared its complete disapproval of the Chicago Real Estate board plan of funding the entire 1930 levy by means of bonds.

"We are convinced," said the committee, "that complete funding of the 1930 taxes is both legally and practically impossible. Such a plan would involve the issuance of $250,000,000 of the full-faith-and-credit bonds of the county and its taxing municipalities. No one has yet succeeded in making plain to us where a market for such bonds could be found.

"But, assuming that a market could be found for the bonds, the very issuance of which would presuppose the inability of the community to meet its obligations—there would be thereby added to the annual tax burden, inexorably to be met in future years, approximately $15,000,000 in interest charges, and $12,500,000 amortization charges—an annual total of $27,500,000. The issuance of such bonds further presupposes an extension of the already distended bonding power of the city of Chicago.

Against Increased Valuation.

"The proponents of the plan purpose to accomplish this extension by increasing the assessed valuation of real estate from the present 37 per cent basis to a full 100 per cent value basis, discounting the fact that local municipalities will thereby inevitably be led to guard their expenditures less carefully, and disregarding the disturbance to the tax structure of other counties thereby involved.

"Approaching the subject with complete sympathy for the distressed real estate taxpayer and the utmost desire to adopt every possible measure for his relief, we have the unanimous opinion of committee's legal advisers that the so-called funding measure is unconstitutional, and that the practical difficulties are even greater than the legal obstacles. From the practical point of view, revenue provided by the requisite bonds, even if they could be sold, would not be available until the late spring of 1932 at the earliest, and in the meantime the local governments would continue without funds for the maintenance of essential service.

Want Installment Paying.

"Discarding the 'funding plan' as illegal, impractical and contrary to sound financing methods, we have adopted and submit as a part of our program an alternative plan of installment payment. This plan provides for the payment of approximately one-half of the 1930 taxes early in 1932. In our judgment, it is not practicable or sound to defer the payment of that part of the taxes necessary for bond interest and principal, state taxes, and school taxes.

"The remainder of the 1930 taxes shall be payable, at the option of the individual taxpayer, in five annual installments, beginning 1933. We propose that bonds shall be issued against these installments, payable within reasonable periods after the installments accrue.

"By this method, unless there are unusual defaults, the taxpayer who finds it possible to pay his 1930 taxes in full will not be charged with the interest necessary to be paid in behalf of the installment taxpayer. The installment taxpayer who pays the interest charge on the five deferred installments of his taxes will have in return the use of the funds which he withholds."

6 Per Cent on Installments.

The description of the bills to carry out the deferred payment plan said the installments would carry a 6 per cent interest charge. The bonds to provide interim revenue would run for seven years and would not exceed 85 per cent of the tax levy and would be paid "largely if not entirely" from collection of the delayed taxes. The proceeds of the bonds would be used first to retire outstanding tax warrants and then for the payment of expenses for which the taxes were levied.

One of these bils also would require an objecting taxpayer to pay under protest the amount in dispute with provision for a refund in the event his protest is sustained. The same measure contained a provision designed to put an end to the use of injunctions against the collection of taxes.

Move for Consolidation.

The last bill, described as "to pave the way for consolidation" of local governments, would require the state auditor to adjust the state tax rate upon a basis of equality throughout the state. In many counties now the ratio between assessed valuation and actual selling value varies so widely that inequalities in the state levy result. A companion bill requires the state tax commission to fix the full value of all property it assesses.

Except for minor matters, the report closed with this argument in favor of the revenue amendment to the state constitution:

"Your executive committee is thoroughly convinced of the necessity of amending and modernizing the revenue provisions of our state constitution at the earliest possible moment. No fully equitable and effective system of taxation can be set up in this state until this is done. We recommend to this conference the appointment of a special committee to prepare a definite program looking in this direction to be submitted to the next regular session of the general assembly—for constitutional reasons the earliest opportunity for legislative action."

Following this, the committee said that it has a subcommittee working upon a request of the governor's relief commission that means be found to raise $10,000,000, of which $3,000,000 would be used for charitable relief work, the other $7,000,000 going to provide a "made-work" fund to provide public improvement work for heads of families.

NATIONAL GUARD PLANES TO FLY IN CHARITY SHOW

More Noted Pilots Enter Lists for Event.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

Growing interest in the charity air show to be staged over Grant park on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 8, for the benefit of Chicago's unemployed, was noted yesterday, and there was increasing activity to make the show a thrilling and spectacular demonstration.

LIEUT. COL. MANN.

Traffic experts of the south park board prepared plans to handle the crowd of spectators anticipated for the show. Officials of air lines operating out of Chicago called a meeting for this morning to arrange for their participation in a parade of transport planes. The Autogiro Company of America telegraphed THE TRIBUNE that an autogiro would participate in the show.

Chicagoans were urged by the traffic experts who studied Grant park's entrances to purchase stickers for the windshields of their automobiles at any of the three Tribune public service bureaus, or in the lobby of the Tribune Tower, in order to facilitate the movement of cars. Automobiles bearing stickers will be routed directly into the park through special entrances, without any delay.

Guard Flyers to Take Part.

Lieut. Col. M. D. Mann, air officer of the 33d division, Illinois National guard, announced that he had received authority to order the participation of a squadron of five Douglas observation planes, powered by Hornet motors. These planes will be piloted by officers of the 33d division aviation, located at Chicago airport.

The National Guard squadron plans to execute a series of maneuvers in formation. They are powerful fighting planes carrying both a pilot and an observer.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, manager of the Harbor airport, who is in charge of coördinating airports in Chicago and so that participating planes may take off on schedule to meet in the air over Grant park, yesterday sent letters to all private plane owners and airport operators requesting their assistance.

Stinson to Bring Plane.

Eddie Stinson, who started flying in the days of the Wright pusher planes, when the pilot sat out in front on a plank and used his shoulders as well as his hands and feet to control the plane, yesterday promised to fly in a plane of his own make at the charity air show. Stinson is one of the outstanding pilots of the country, with probably more flying time than any other pilot.

Lee Reichers, racing and stunt pilot, and Bernarr MacFadden, publisher, will participate in the air show. They will leave an itinerary of twenty principal cities, which they are visiting in MacFadden's Golden Eagle, a Lockheed Sirius monoplane plated with gold, to visit Chicago.

MacFadden will be Reichers' co-pilot on the tour, as he received a pilot's license recently despite his 63 years of age. Reichers says the plane, powered by a Wright Cyclone motor, is the fastest two passenger plane in the world, having a top speed of 240 miles an hour. It is similar to Col. Lindbergh's plane, and Reichers promised to show its high speed performance to Chicago at the charity air show.

George W. Haldeman, whose transatlantic flight with Ruth Elder nearly ended in disaster when their plane's oil line developed a leak in mid-ocean, and they landed the craft near a cargo steamer, wired THE TRIBUNE from Wheeling, W. Va., that he would fly to Chicago to attend the charity air show.

CHICAGO AIR LINE ROUTES

Air routes emanating from Chicago for which weather forecasts in effect until noon of the day they are published will appear daily in The Tribune. The Chicago office of the weather bureau, of which C. A. Donnel is principal meteorologist, is providing this extra service for Chicagoans who fly.

TRIBUNE BEGINS FORECASTS FOR FLYING ROUTES

Data Effective Till Noon Each Day.

This morning the Chicagoan who flies, either in his own plane or in the air liners of one of the large transport lines, can pick up his copy of THE TRIBUNE and see what the weather is likely to be until noon along all airways emanating from Chicago.

The weather information is being supplied by the Chicago office of the weather bureau, of which C. A. Donnel is chief meteorologist in charge, as an extra service to air minded Chicagoans. The forecasts may be considered as reliable as forecasts usually are, but because of the extreme changeability of weather over long air routes, Mr. Donnel said, those who fly will request later and possibly more accurate weather reports before they act.

Other Forecasts Given.

These route forecasts, which remain in effect until noon, are only part of the weather information upon which the pilot or the private plane owner bases his plans for a flight. Later reports on actual conditions that have developed along the airways since the forecasts were made, additional forecasts for three-hour periods, which are summaries of reports and the original long-period forecast, are all coördinated to provide the last word in weather data for pilots.

This weather information is not all gathered at big stations of the weather bureau—it is continually being supplemented by the eye witness reports of beacon light operators every ten miles along the federal airways, and by pilots of transport air liners in flight over the airways. Radio plays a big part in the gathering and dissemination of this weather information, as does the teletype system, both of which are operated by the department of commerce.

Radio Helps Pilots.

Nowadays the cautious pilot, particularly the one who is carrying a cargo of human lives in his plane, does not rely solely upon the weather information he is given before he takes off, but keeps informed on the weather along the route ahead of him by means of radio during the entire flight.

A dull sky over Chicago now need not cause the abandonment of plans for a trip by air—an expert estimate of what the weather will be like in almost any direction from Chicago can be obtained in a glance at THE TRIBUNE'S airways weather forecasts.

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m., Oct. 30, 1931, to 12 noon, Oct. 31, 1931:

Chicago-Omaha—Overcast, occasional light local rains; fresh to moderately strong northwest winds.

Chicago-Kansas City—Mostly overcast, probably occasional light local rain; fresh to moderately strong northwest winds.

Chicago-St. Louis—Overcast, occasional light rain; fresh to moderately strong west to northwest winds.

Chicago-Cincinnati—Overcast, probably a few light rains more or less local; fresh to moderately strong west to northwest winds.

Chicago-Cleveland—Overcast, occasional light rain; mostly fresh to moderately strong west to northwest winds.

Chicago-Twin Cities—Overcast, occasional light rain; fresh to rather strong northwest to north winds.

Kansas City-Denver — Generally fair, west partly cloudy east portion, mostly fresh north to northwest winds except shifting winds extreme west portion.

Kansas City-Amarillo — Generally fair, except mostly cloudy extreme north portion; moderate to fresh northeast to northwest winds.

Kansas City-Dallas—Generally fair, preceded by cloudiness extreme north portion; moderate to locally strong winds, mostly northerly.

Chicago-Evansville—Overcast, probably a few light local rains; fresh to moderately strong west to northwest winds.

Chicago-Detroit—Overcast, occasional light rain; mostly fresh to moderately strong west to northwest winds.

Cleveland to New York—Mostly cloudy sky with risk of occasional light rains; fresh west or southwest winds near Cleveland and fresh westerly near New York up to 1,000 feet and fresh to strong westerly at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-Albany—Cloudy sky with risk of occasional light rains; fresh west or southwest winds up to 1,000 feet and fresh to strong westerly at 5,000 feet.

Dayton-Washington—Mostly cloudy sky with risk of occasional light rains; fresh westerly winds near Dayton and moderate westerly near Washington up to 1,000 feet and fresh to strong westerly at 5,000 feet.

Evansville-Atlanta — Partly cloudy sky except mostly cloudy with risk of showers in Kentucky; fresh northwest winds up to 1,000 feet and fresh to strong westerly at 5,000 feet.

Cuba Makes Capitol Dome Electric Chair for Buzzards

HAVANA, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Buzzards so imprudent as to alight on the gilded dome of Cuba's new capitol henceforth will be sorry. The senate, vexed by the tendency of the great black birds of prey to forgather on the dome, has decreed that their favorite roosting place be charged with electricity.

Mussolini Guarantees No More Cuts in Wages

ROME, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today assured Italy there will be no further general reduction of wages. Under his presidency the central committee of corporations rejected suggestions it had been studying for nation-wide cuts in industrial salaries. The committee declared decreases inadvisable despite the tendency of other nations to meet the depression in that manner.

TEACHERS GET CHECKS; SCHOOL ROOMS ARE GAY

But Employes Press Move for Full Pay.

Gay celebrations were staged in the corridors of Chicago's schools yesterday as the city's 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés received their September pay checks. It was the first cash most of them had received from the board of education since May.

But their joy was not unrestrained. Mingled with their gratification at receiving the checks was the knowledge that the majority of the school employés still have from three to six months' wages due them, with no cash in hand as yet to pay them.

In most instances the payments received yesterday were not sufficient to meet the debts the teachers have been forced to accumulate during the payless months. While some of them planned modest celebrations, such as a dinner party or a trip to the theater, most declared that the money would be apportioned among their various creditors.

Seek More Pay Roll Cash.

The teachers' situation was discussed yesterday at a meeting of delegates representing the teaching groups of north side elementary and high schools, held at the Darwin school under the chairmanship of W. R. Hornbaker, principal of that school.

At the meeting it was urged that teachers at each school ask large taxpayers in their immediate neighborhood to call on Mayor Cermak and President Myers of the school board and confer with them on obtaining further funds for school pay rolls.

"Obviously, the payment today will not enable teachers to meet the accumulated debts of the last six months," said Superintendent of Schools Bogan, "but it will serve to bolster the morale of a teaching body which has been remarkably faithful under most distressing conditions."

Urges Full Payment.

"This pay day was a life saver, but we must not relax our efforts until the teachers have been paid in full, and not let this payment become a stumbling block in the path of remedial legislation," said Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union.

The Halloween celebration which had been planned for the pupils at the Monroe school, Schubert and Monticello avenues, was turned into a pay day jubilation by the teachers. Max Furtner, postman, delivered the envelope containing the pay checks to Principal Ellen M. Sanders across a desk piled with jack o' lanterns, and the teachers of the school immediately made grotesque masks of paper bags and staged a parade led by one of their number, who tooted lustily on a bugle.

At the Lawson school, 1256 South Homan avenue, the "ghost walked" in actuality. A spectral figure robed in sheets distributed the checks to the teachers.

Aviation Notes

Passengers arriving yesterday on United Air Line planes operated out of Chicago to New York and the Pacific coast reported seeing numerous snow covered areas in Nebraska and in the mountain regions. All planes on United Air Lines have been equipped with heaters in anticipation of temperatures as low as 35 degrees below zero encountered in flying over Nevada.

Standard equipment on the Pilgrim, a new nine passenger transport, powered by a single Hornet motor, placed in service on the American Airways Line operating from Chicago to St. Louis, includes a new device that does away with wheel shocks by locking the wheels when the motor is being warmed up. The brake operates automatically and cannot become locked and cause an accident in landing.

The Buhl Aircraft company of Detroit expects to complete a new type autogiro of the pusher type next month. The plane will have a motor mounted behind the cockpits with no fuselage to the rear, but a complete tail assembly. The plane will be a two-seater, powered by a 165 horsepower radial Continental motor with an estimated speed of 95 miles an hour.

Russell Boardman and John Polando, who flew nonstop from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, and Giuseppe Bellanca, designer of their plane, will land their craft at the Chicago airport tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for a brief visit in Chicago. The flyers have accepted an invitation to return in one week to participate in the charity air show over Grant park.

CITE AGENT OF MAYOR WALKER FOR CONTEMPT

Sherwood's Property Also Ordered Seized.

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter legislative committee, moved today to have Russell T. Sherwood, Mayor James J. Walker's personal accountant, adjudged in contempt of the committee and to attach his property in New York state in anticipation of a fine up to $100,000.

Mr. Seabury obtained from Supreme Court Justice Glennon an order for Sherwood to show cause, seven days after service of notice upon him, why he should not be adjudged in contempt and included in this order direction to the sheriff of New York county and any other sheriff in the state to attach any of Mr. Sherwood's property that could be located.

Mr. Seabury served the order upon Sheriff Thomas M. Farley of New York county with a list of properties belonging to Sherwood which he wished to have attached. This list included the safety deposit box in the Chase Safety Deposit company, which testimony on Thursday showed that Sherwood shared with Mayor Walker, and any balances in Sherwood's bank and brokerage accounts which have been under investigation by the committee.

According to dispatches from Mexico City, Sherwood announced there that he would leave tonight for the United States by a train going to Laredo, Tex., but would not return to New York.

Sentenced to 1 to 10 Years for $23,000 Realty Fraud

George J. Gusse, 38 years old, accused of obtaining $23,000 from victims in fraudulent real estate deals, was sentenced to serve from 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge James J. Kelly in the Criminal court yesterday.

PUPILS GO HOME ILL; FIND THEY HAVE NO FOOD

Free Lunches Given at Thorp School.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4159 West Madison street.

Every day at Thorp school, 59th street and Buffalo avenue, at least one child is sent home sick, and often many more. The small ones complain of stomach ache and feeling cold. But the teachers knew without asking a physician that the trouble is starvation. They have seen too many children faint in the classrooms to think otherwise.

It was almost an endless line of pinched, eager faces that marched quietly into the free lunch room at Thorp school yesterday. They were 176 in all. No pushing, no gay banter, no childish laughter here. There had been no breakfast for most of them. Only the sandwich given by a thoughtful teacher at recess. No wonder the tables with their plates of macaroni, jelly sandwiches, apples and cookies looked like a feast.

Second Line Waits.

Only half the number could be served at once because, James McBride, principal, pointed out, that was the limit of the dishes. The second table line waited patiently. They knew there would be plenty. Their teachers, who sacrificed their luncheon hour to wait on the children, would see to that.

"Our teachers received their first pay check in months today," Mr. McBride said. "But I don't believe they feel any happier about that than they do to learn that THE TRIBUNE Hungry School Children fund will hereafter finance the free lunches for our children.

"The teachers have been doing it thus far, getting hold of the money or its equivalent somehow, begging from friends, giving benefit parties. They've collected clothing, too, and shoes. Every morning our teachers get up early enough to make several dozen sandwiches before coming to the school at 8 o'clock. These they give out to the children they are certain haven't had breakfast.

Mother Pleads for Food.

Mr. McBride told of one mother, used to better circumstances, who wept when she came to ask that her child be given a free lunch. He told how another family of six children, between the ages of 6 and 14 years, was being fed at the free lunch room because their father, a laborer without work for months, had been threatened with eviction.

Instead of the usual Halloween party, three lads will concentrate their efforts this morning on a benefit for the Hungry School Children's fund. Special moving pictures will be shown from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. in Hugh Eckert's playroom, 6145 Lakewood avenue. The show will be managed by Hugh, 11 years old, who lives at 1258 Hood avenue; John McKane, 1208 Granville avenue, and Fredric Wellmann, 1324 Isabella street, Wilmette, 13 years old.

An envelope containing $6.50 reached the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday with the following explanatory note from City Sealer Joe Grein's office:

"William J. Berry, who has been in the city sealer's office 40 of his 61 years, returned from his vacation yesterday and surprised the employes by informing them he had married Miss Edna Curtis, 34 years old.

"This morning his associates in turn surprised him with an electric chiming alarm clock. The fund from which the clock was purchased was oversubscribed $6.50, which was ordered sent to the Hungry School Children's fund."

| Chicago Mercantile Exchange | 1,350 |

Pleas that city employes donate one day's salary a month for the first six months of 1932 will be made next week by the various department heads.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting with Mayor Cermak in the office of Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague. All cabinet members members agreed to join in the plan adopted by B. F. Lindheimer, president of the board of local improvements, William A. Jackson, commissioner of gas and electricity, and City Controller M. S. Szymczak.

Meeting Set for Wednesday.

Another cabinet meeting will be held next Wednesday when the members will report to the mayor how their requests have been received and what amount of pledges have been signed.

Establishment of a concentration camp for the internment of homeless beggars and peddlers and the suggestion that they be made to work on a rock pile to discourage their staying in Chicago was suggested to Mayor Cermak by the Van Buren Street Improvement association. The association charged that Van Buren street in the neighborhood of State street was "infested with beggars" and declared that drastic action should be taken to eliminate the nuisance.

$200 TEMPORARY ALIMONY WON BY ALICE VAN TRUMP

Mrs. Alice Sims Van Trump, 43 years old, 7427 South Shore drive, was granted $200 a month temporary alimony yesterday by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude. She has filed suit for divorce charging cruelty against her husband, Isaac Van Trump, 46 years old, head of the Van Trump Testing laboratories of Chicago and Little Rock, Ark.

Mrs. Van Trump asserted that her husband had taught her expensive habits, and since leaving him she has been penniless, having been forced to pawn her diamond bracelets and rings.

Her husband, in contesting the alimony order, said their marriage had been happy until his wife met a 28 year old pianist, Robert Rix, 2047 Aubert street. His wife, Van Trump asserted, had left him when he objected to her acquaintance with Rix.

FASHION DECREES GLAZED FACES TO MATCH COIFFURE

Women's complexions must be glazed to conform to a shiny, colorful, and decorated coiffure if she is to take head of the latest decree of the 1932 mode. This was the announcement made yesterday by John Mueller, coiffure stylist, who has just returned from a tour of European salons as a delegate to the international exposition for the study of the art of hairdressing.

Mr. Mueller will portray each one of the new and striking styles he studied abroad at the "coiffure salon" sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association to be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. Models from the Chicago Hairdressers' academy will parade across the stage, showing the latest hairdress and makeup for sports, morning, afternoon, and evening attire. Max Hoefer, president of the Hairdressers' association, will head the reception committee for the affair.

Platinum blonds hold second place in popularity this season to the new Titian blonds, according to Mr. Mueller, but he adds that the bleaching and dyeing process is "hard on the hair and not to be generally recommended." He further points out that the Titian shade is only for formal occasions when glazed hair ornaments may be worn to give interest to the back of the coiffure.

Hair glaze, a new version of the old fashioned shellac, is used in setting the waves for some of the new styles and also in making the ornaments that adorn the formal modes and occasionally a street mode.

Mr. Mueller sounded the knell of bobbed hair in discussing the new styles. He explained that long hair, or at least a long "bob," is necessary as the basis for any one of the new modes.

U. S. SHIP LINES TAKEN OVER BY A NEW CONCERN

Dollar and Roosevelt Interests Join.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Control of the United States Lines passed today to the newly organized United States Lines of Nevada, a holding corporation controlled by the Dollar-Dawson Pacific coast interests and the Roosevelt-International Merchant Marine company of New York. A contract calling for complete reorganization of the lines by the new owners was signed today at the shipping board.

Under the terms of the contract a working capital of $3,500,000 is required and the completion of two new 30,000 ton liners now being built for the lines in Camden, N. J., is guaranteed. The new owners also assumed $3,170,000 of long term obligations owed the government by the original United States Lines as part of the price paid for the ships when they were bought following the world war.

A Tale of Hard Times.

The original United States lines was headed by Paul W. Chapman of New York. The ships were purchased from the government and put into service in the north Atlantic. Recently financial difficulties beset the lines, and Chapman appealed to the shipping board for relief. Months of negotiations by the interests involved culminated in today's contract.

Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the shipping board issued the following formal statement regarding the contract:

"This event culminates several months of negotiations between the board and leading steamship interests to preserve the lines to the American merchant marine and assures the continuous operation in the north Atlantic of the Leviathan and other vessels comprising the premier line in that trade under the American flag. Under arrangements made between the interests there will be no interruption in services.

Big Liners Included.

Among the ships concerned besides the Leviathan, is the George Washington and a number of other vessels taken over by the government when war was declared on Germany are also involved.

The contract was signed for the new owners by George Hinkins of New York, secretary of the United States Lines of Nevada, and by Chairman O'Connor for the shipping board. The latter said that stockholders in the old company had been taken care of and would receive junior preferred stock in the new company on a share for share basis.

ADVOCATE TRIAL OF NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS IN MICHIGAN AVENUE

Further advancement was made yesterday in plans to relieve motorists from the delays and hazards on Michigan avenue due to the antiquated simultaneous timing of the traffic lights. Traffic experts of the city of Chicago, the south parks and Lincoln park met at a luncheon in the Palmer house and agreed upon a plan for a trial installation of a progressive system of lights which, according to estimates, will increase the average speed of travel on the boulevard from 12 to 21 miles an hour.

The experts will urge that bids be advertised for the installation of a modern traffic light system, with the provision that after a sixty day trial, should the experiment fail to produce the desired results, the manufacturers will remove the equipment at their own expense.

This plan was suggested by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club which called the meeting, and it met the approval of George T. Donoghue, superintendent of south parks; W. I. Bell, electrician for south parks; Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer; Roy W. Weir, director of Lincoln park traffic; George Barton, the motor club's traffic engineer, and Robert H. Nau, secretary of the Chicago Association of Commerce traffic committee.

The manufacturers of traffic equipment have informally indicated their willingness to enter into such a deal. The system would be installed from Oak street to 22d street.

MALTBY, RURAL GRAIN CO. HEAD, SEIZED BY U. S.

E. V. Maltby, who was general manager of the Rural Grain company when it went into bankruptcy in June, 1930, was arrested near Seattle, Wash., last night by federal authorities. He is charged with nine violations of the grain futures act.

When he was found Maltby was living in a small cabin on Paradise lake. He had grown a full beard and had laid in a large stock of provisions, indicating that he intended to pass the winter in seclusion.

The Rural Grain company, a farmer owned concern, was reported to have a deficit of $134,000 when the voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed. S. J. Cottington, president, stated that this was partly due to speculations, which were unauthorized, by Maltby. The Board of Trade dropped the Rural Grain company from membership and Maltby was expelled by the same body. He formerly lived at 15246 Lexington street, Harvey.

URGES SCHOOLS TO GUIDE PUPILS INTO VOCATIONS

Plea Made at Conference on Courses of Study.

Although for many years the wisdom of guiding young Americans into vocational trends during their schooling has been a recognized fact, only 27 out of 77 high schools in Illinois have instituted courses in occupational or vocational training.

This statement was made yesterday to a conference of pedagogues meeting at Northwestern university, the subject of which was the reorganization and revision of curricula in elementary and secondary schools.

It was contained in a paper prepared by S. A. Hamrin, assistant professor of education at Northwestern university, which was read, due to Dr. Hamrin's inability to be present, by Dr. J. Monroe Hughes, professor of education at the university.

Guidance Held Major Factor.

Effective guidance of students in high schools is a major objective of educational systems, but it must be wisely and efficiently given, Dr. Hamrin stated.

Not only do many high schools fail to include vocational guidance courses but in the majority of those schools which do have the course only 15 per cent of the pupils are enrolled.

Dr. Hamrin suggested that the high schools should definitely abandon the old bugaboo that the primary purpose for their existence is the preparation of students for universities.

The paper pointed out that the great majority of high school students do not go to college. For these students a definitely useful course of study should be provided, instead of their being required to receive training in foreign and ancient languages.

Some Dangers Seen.

"It is perfect nonsense to suppose that all boys should go to college or that it is any more a disgrace for them not to go to college than to have blue eyes, wrote Dr. Hamrin.

Discussion of vocational guidance brought an expression of fear from a professor at De Pauw university that great dangers stood in the way. Students in high school are most often unable to decide for themselves what walk of life they will follow, and unless the adviser is most uncannily adept in his work, there is grave possibility that the student will be misdirected, the visitor stated.

U. S. MILLINERS LAY TROUBLES TO EUGENIE HAT

New York, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The hat manufacturers gathered for a conference at the headquarters of the Eastern Millinery association here today to see how many mean things they could say about the Empress Eugenie hat. Some of the manufacturers, considering how to meet a stagnation in the hat business, went so far as to say they wished they'd never even heard of the Eugenie hat.

There's plenty of reason for all this bitterness, but it isn't really the fault of the hat; it's just another case of the public smiling and frowning with devastating fickleness.

So many women bought Eugenie hats last August and September that by October everybody had one and they were just common and uninteresting. Because of the terrific Eugenie fad, every woman had a hat and no one entered the hat stores. The hat business is practically dead and some manufacturers are thinking of shutting down until Christmas. The wholesalers have hardly had an order worth mentioning in the last three weeks and have lost all the money they made during the Eugenie boom.

Some of the oldest hat wholesaling houses are said to be facing ruin because of the meteoric rise and fall of the little feathered hat.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Fred P. Loew, 62 years old, said to have been despondent over a four days' separation from his wife, ended his life by swallowing poison in his home at 4001 North Greenview avenue yesterday.

SOVIETS ARM TO FIGHT "ATTACK" FROM MANCHURIA

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 30.—While official opinion here is mute about the exchange of remarks yesterday between Ambassador Hirota of Japan and Acting Foreign Commissar Karakhan, regarding the situation in Manchuria as a result of the Chinese-Japanese dispute, foreign diplomatic circles regard the situation as grave.

Generally speaking, they do not believe the soviet government is planning to intervene in the Manchurian affair. However, they are aware of the fact that the headquarters of the far eastern Red army on the seaboard side of Manchuria at Khabarovsk is preparing for self-defense against a possible attack by White Russian generals, with or without the support of Japan.

Coup Is Foiled.

A pro-Japanese Chinese general, with the assistance of Gen. Semenoff, White Russian, has already attempted a coup against the Manchurian general, Ma Chan-shan, who holds Tsitsihar for Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria.

The coup was unsuccessful and, in foreign opinion here, the protest and statement of the Japanese ambassador look suspiciously like a pretext for the Japanese forces themselves to do the job which their Chinese-White Russian allies were unable to perform.

Moscow is far from the scene of the conflict, but the headlines in the press today show that public sentiment here is disturbed.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 30.—While Russia officially denies Japanese charges that soviet troops are concentrating on the eastern and western Manchurian borders, Japanese official sources today reiterated their declarations of Russian army concentrations. They cited particularly the movement of 8,000 soviet troops to a point near Pogranichinaya.

Japanese reports also insist that soviet Russians are aiding Chinese troops at Tsitsihar. The Chinese charge that White Russians are bearing Japanese rifles and reinforcing the Manchrian independence armies.

Several hundred Chinese troops last night assaulted the eastern gate of the walled city of Mukden. They were repulsed by a company of the 78th regiment of Japanese infantry, who used rifles and machine guns to repulse the attackers. Three Chinese were killed and one Japanese was wounded.

The Nanking government today notified the Japanese consul that Japanese military advisers, who late in September were given a month's leave, need not return to their posts.

Japan Is Unsatisfied.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Oct. 30.—The reply of Acting Soviet Foreign Commissar Karakhan to Foreign Minister Shidehara's message of Oct. 27, despite the vigor of its language, is considered by Japan still to leave some mystery in the frontier situation.

The Japanese are acting cautiously. A repair party with an escort, whose departure for the Nonni river was announced on Oct. 27, is held at Taonan pending Gen. Ma Chan-shan's answer to the Japanese consul's request that he repair the road himself. If Gen. Ma repairs the road, Japan will be satisfied, but if he fails to do so in time to allow crops to be moved, they intend to send their own repair party under an escort of eighty men.

Japanese Invade Customs Office.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Oct. 30.—Japanese soldiers, accompanied by one Chinese policeman, today entered the office and residence of Norman Shaw, British commissioner of Chinese maritime customs here, demanded his books and forced a Chinese assistant, an employé of the central government at Nanking, to read and translate them. Shaw produced the books under protest. He referred the matter to the British consulate because the British are interested in preserving the unity of Chinese customs due to the fact that they are pledged as security for foreign loans.

AL CAPONE MAY END BAIL FIGHT AND GO TO PRISON

Indications yesterday pointed to an early departure of Al Capone for Leavenworth penitentiary, where he would get credit on his eleven year sentence for income tax fraud pending appeal, but his lawyers still maintained silence as to their plans.

Capone's wife, Mae, and his younger brother, Matthew, visited him at the county jail during the morning, and Defense Attorneys Albert Fink and Michael Ahern conferred with him during the afternoon. The visit of Capone's wife and brother, the first since he was taken to jail on Saturday, possibly was to say good-by.

The fact that Mr. Ahern is still in Chicago was regarded as an indication that he has abandoned hope of going to Washington and obtaining bail from the Supreme court.

The Chicago Crime commission, through Frank J. Loesch, its president, recommended yesterday to Mayor Cermak that steps be taken toward the abatement of the Lexington hotel, former headquarters of the Capone gang, as "a menace to law abiding people" and a public nuisance. The recommendation called attention to Judge James H. Wilkerson's denunciation of the Capone gang and its "outlaw camp" in sentencing Philip D'Andrea, bodyguard to the gang chief, to six months for contempt.

VIRGINIA GROSS FILES APPEAL IN LITIGATION HERE

Bond was posted yesterday in the Superior court on behalf of Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross for an appeal from the recent order of Judge Joseph B. David holding her youngest child, Anna, to be the offspring of herself and Capt. Christian Channing Gross, who divorced her in August, 1930.

Attorney Thomas Hart Fisher, who represents Mrs. Gross, asserted that his client had no intention of attacking the legitimacy of her daughter. The appeal, which will be filed later, is a technical matter necessary to the carrying on of other litigation pending between Mrs. Gross and her ex-husband in the courts of New York and France, he said.

She is the daughter of Richard Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippines, and a great granddaughter of President Benjamin Harrison. Capt. Gross, a former Chicago lawyer, is now an attaché of the American legation at Ottawa, Canada.

WOMAN AIDS STORE ROBBERS.

Two bandits, aided by a woman accomplice who drove their car, held up Mrs. Harriet Grain, 3462 West 65th street, the manager, and two patrons in the National Tea store at 332 East 71st street, last evening. They escaped with $45.

POLICE TO STOP HOODLUM PRANKS ON HALLOWEEN

Police Commissioner Allman last night issued orders to his commanding officers to prevent destruction of property and hoodlumism tonight, Halloween. Even children are to be arrested and brought to a police station if discovered destroying property, the order stated.

Steps were taken by the board of education to provide for a sane celebration of the eve. Herman J. Fischer, director of the bureau of recreation, announced that civic organizations, parent-teacher associations and parents have arranged for celebrations to be held in all the 65 school playgrounds. There will be games and contests, bonfires, costume parades, from 7 to 10 p. m.

Mr. Fischer estimated that 25,000 children and young people would participate in these events.

It's not going to be all cooking Tuesday afternoon at the opening session of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE School of Cookery at the Trianon ballroom on the south side of the city. Among the entertainment features will be dancing and singing by Miss Floria West of "Girl Crazy," current loop musical comedy at the Garrick theater, and vocal duets by Miss Ruth Streeter, soprano, and Henry Phillips, tenor. The school will start promptly at 1:45. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, nationally known cooking expert, will conduct the sessions in cooperation with Miss Mary Meade, home economics editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Following the four sessions at the Trianon on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, schools will be opened at the Aragon and Paradise ballrooms and in the Coliseum.

Police Gazette Quaint Now as Prairie Flower

It's Keepsake Today as a Genteel Antique.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Sins of America," by Edward Van Every. [Stokes.] Published on Thursday.

THERE flourished in the days of our fathers and mothers a weekly which in word and picture chronicled America somewhat in the same manner as the tabloids chronicle it now. In those days, however, the home and fireside were not "polluted" (to quote one of the favorite words of that period) by the "obnoxious" (to quote another sheet. It was the special boon of barber shops and pool parlors in a day when the wooden Indian marked cigar stores.

EDWARD VAN EVERY.

Like the wooden Indian, which now has achieved the distinction of being a valuable antique, the Police Gazettes of the sixties and seventies and eighties and early nineties also have achieved the distinction of being rare collector's items, a quaint bit of Americana.

Last year Mr. Van Every published a volume called "The Sins of New York," which was a large volume of reprints of illustrations and text from the pink scandal sheets. It had an immediate and large success. He has just published a companion volume in "The Sins of America."

Sinning in America in the latter decades of the 1800's had a strangely familiar resemblance to the same type of American misbehavior and crime as chronicled in the current press. Naughty men and women in those days, so "The Sins of America" makes its readers feel, achieved notoriety in practically the same way in which they become first page news in ours.

There is a certain quaintness about the nation-wide spoofings in its pages about short haired women, about smoking, about champagne drinking—the quaintness of an era past if not forgotten. The records of murder and assorted crimes of passion were set down with a high moral indignation against the perpetrations which gave their recording quaintness. Murder is murder in any age, but the attitude toward it of, say a Borgia who flicked a mortal drop of poison into the cup of anybody whose gold lace might be tarnished (just to teach him a lesson) and an East Indian who daren't kill a flea lest his soul be eternally damned are so far apart as to seem one to the other not only incredibly quaint but criminally different.

Moral indignation was a flourishing, flowering shrub in the days of the old Police Gazette. It was used skillfully to glorify wickedness.

Except for that attitude toward them the events of "Sins of America" seem not so different from the criminal news events of today. Mr. Va.. Every tells of four famous murders of their day, the nation's greatest lynching, which is a story of racketeering in New Orleans, and the Jesse James gang. He gives the history of the most talked of kidnaping case of American news history, the case of little Charley Ross who was literally taken for a ride and never seen again. He recounts the famous Tilton case in the 1870's against Henry Ward Beecher, accused of improper relations with one of his parishioners, a case which filled American minds for months.

Mr. Van Every gathers his material from the files of the Police Gazette, quotes from it, and illustrates the pages copiously with reproductions of its shocking pictures, which are shocking more in the fact that all of the beautiful ladies in them have hourglass figures with generous curves and bulky legs, which haven't been a treat for years to the public any more than to a London busman. It was more for those amusing [and now quaint] illustrations than for the text that buyers rushed to the shops for "Sins of New York" and will rush to own "Sins of America."

There is one bit of text, however, which makes "Sins of America" a literary find. In it is printed for the first time in book form an article written by Mark Twain on Horace Greeley [Nov. 7, 1868], lost these many years in the file of the Spirit of the Times, a sister publication to the Police Gazette, and discovered by Mr. Van Every in his research. It is apparently, says the author of "Sins of America," the first article that the humorist was able to sell direct to a New York editor.

'U-Boats Westward!' Is German's Story of War Under the Sea

"U-Boats Westward!" [Putnam's], by Ernst Hashagen, a commander in the late imperial German navy, is a dashing and welcome addition to the many recent books on the war. Capt. Hashagen, who was one of Germany's most successful U-boat commanders, tells a smashing story of submarine destruction of the allied shipping, both mercantile and naval.

It's packed with undersea thrills and terrors and the reader, after the first chapter or two, unconsciously finds himself lined up with the Teuton crew and mentally hoping they won't get sunk by a depth charge. It's a well written and fascinating, though often cruel, tale of wholesale death at sea by a hidden foe that at one time seemed destined to win the war for Germany. It is well mapped and illustrated.

How Catherine of Siena Became Politician, Saint

"The Flame" by Jeanette Eaton [Harper's], is the life story of St. Catherine of Siena. It is a vivid and exciting picture of 14th century Europe, the age of blood and dissension, of corruption and intense individualism. Catherine, the daughter of a bourgeois, comes upon the scene and exerts perhaps the most powerful influence of her day. She is a diplomat and a saint; she serves both the church and the state, and her political advice is followed by the most famous of statesmen. Her character is a mixture of patriotism and spirituality and intellectual genius.

MARGARET A. BARNES IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF MIDLAND AUTHORS

Margaret Ayer Barnes, author of "Years of Grace," and winner of the Pulitzer prize for the best American novel of 1930, was elected president of the Society of Midland Authors at their annual meeting at the Bal Tabarin last night. The other new officers are: Secretary, Mary Dickerson Donahey; treasurer, Harlan Ware.

The following vice presidents are from the states from which the society draws its members: Illinois, Howard Vincent O'Brien; Indiana, Meredith Nicholson; Iowa, Edward Ford Piper; Kansas, William Allen White; Michigan, Arthur H. Vandenberg; Minnesota, O. E. Roovsag; Missouri, Jay William Hudson; Nebraska, Bess Streeter Aldrich; Ohio, Clarence Stratton; South Dakota, Joseph Mills Hanson; Wisconsin, Zona Gale.

The board of directors consists of Marion Strobel, Baker Brownell, Fanny Butcher, George Dillon, Alice Gerstenberg, Edgar J. Goodspeed, David Hamilton, Llewellyn Jones, Douglas Malloch, Arthur Meeker Jr., Harriet Monroe, and Clara Ingram Hudson. Rena B. Stern was made librarian for the society and Arthur Meeker Jr., chairman of the social committee.

South's Authors Compare Notes at U. of Virginia

List Includes Many of Noted U. S. Writers.

[Author of "Porgy."]

If I should through some evil fortune discover myself being interviewed upon the subject of the recent gathering of writers at the University of Virginia I would find myself in a most embarrassing position. I would not have a single definite answer to the usual devastatingly direct questions: "Why did you meet?" "What did you hope to accomplish?" "Will the meeting have any influence upon the future of southern letters?"

And yet, as I look back over the two tightly packed days that we spent with Mr. Thomas Jefferson and his successors at the university, I experience the conviction that, without passing a single resolution, without even protesting the evils resulting from the eighteenth amendment, we have marked a milestone along the highway of culture in the south.

As a matter of fact, there was an almost militant spirit present against organization, and especially sectional organization and identification. Miss Ellen Glasgow, who presided at the opening informal discussion, remarked that in meeting us she realized for the first time what a comprehensive term "Southern Writer" could be. Some present, although born in the south, have lived in various northern and western states and abroad, and there were those who, born elsewhere, have adopted the south. And yet the meeting could not possibly have been mistaken for a similar gathering in, say, New York.

The difference may have been found in the possession of a common point of view toward life, a state of mind that has been described [in some quarters with ridicule] as "typically southern," a sense of values opposed for the most part to the conventional standard of American success. Isolated by distance, many of us may have mistrusted these values. Meeting, we were able to discover that we were not alone, and we have returned home wondering if, even in the face of overwhelming contrary opinion, our scale of values may not endure.

The idea for the meeting originated with President Alderman of the university and James Southall Wilson and Stringfellow Barr, editors of the Virginia Quarterly Review. A preliminary conference was called last February to discuss the project and a central committee of writers was invited to serve. The committee extended invitations in this manner: Each member submitted a list of thirty names and from these lists the thirty writers whose names appeared most often were invited to attend.

From the first it was realized that the project was highly experimental. The ultimate success has left us all a little dazzled.

It was rather a thrilling adventure when, on the occasion of our first meeting, we were able to look about the comfortable, well filled room, and identify the authors whose books we had been reading, and as to whose personalities there had been, naturally, wide speculation. Miss Ellen Glasgow, Miss Mary Johnston, and James Branch Cabell had come down from Richmond. Donald Davidson, Allen Tate and Mrs. Allen Tate [Caroline Gordon] were present from Nashville. Chapel Hill was represented by Archibald Henderson and Paul Green, who arrived from the successful opening of his play, "The House of Connelly," on Broadway. The Struthers Burts and James Boyd came from Southern Pines, and although Lawrence Stallings was prevented at the last moment from attending, Mrs. Stallings came from their North Caroline home.

Speaking for the Charleston group was Miss Josephine Pickney, who was met at Charlotteaville by the Du Bose Heywards, returning from a week in New York. Sherwood Anderson left his newspaper in Marion, Va., to attend, and Maristan Chapman arrived from Sewanee, Tenn., to astonish us by being a husband and wife who write under a composite name, her's being Mary and his Stan. Alice Hegan Rice and Cale Young Rice were present from Kentucky, and William Faulkner from Mississippi. Emily Clark, former editor of that gallant publication "The Reviewer" attended, as did Katharine Anthony, biographer of Queen Elizabeth, and Isa Glenn, formerly of Georgia, author of "Southern Charm."

Among those who can best be described as nonresident southerners were Ulrich B. Phillips of Yale, William E. Dodd of the University of Chicago, and John Peale Bishop, who now lives in Paris. Herschel Brickell came down from New York. At the last moment Mrs. Julia Peterkin, Thomas Wolfe, and Stark Young were prevented from attending, but greeted the meeting with telegrams of good wishes.

Meetings and Lectures

"Broken Hand," by L. R. Hoten and W. J. Ghent, will be discussed at the meeting of the Bookfellows this evening at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

Dr. John Haynes Holmes will lecture on "Russia After Ten Years—My Personal Observations in 1922 and 1931," at the Emil G. Hirsch center on Monday at 8:15 p. m.

The Saints and Sinners will give a reception in honor of Dr. Gustav Eckstein, the author of "Noguchi," on Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in Mr. Kroch's bookstore. At 4 o'clock Dr. Eckstein will give an informal talk on his experiences in Japan.

On Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock Maybelle Prutsman Johnson will give a reading from the works of Edna St. Vincent Millay at the Book House, 1775 West 95th street.

On Tuesday afternoon Ellery Walter will lecture at the meeting of the Daughters of Indiana.

Prof. Percy H. Boynton will give his fourth lecture in the series on "Five American Citizens" on Tuesday at 4:45 p. m. at the Art institute, when he will discuss "Walt Whitman."

On Thursday afternoon at the Elms hotel Mrs. Alfred Hamburger will discuss "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "The Shaw-Terry Letters," and "American Beauty," by Edna Ferber, and on Thursday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel she will talk on "Current Political and Literary Events."

Casey Christens Them; Enjoys Talking with His Scornful Gods

Our fellow townsman, Robert J. Casey, newspaper humorist by profession and explorer between times, who alternates the shivers of mystery with the thrills of travel in his book output, has written a combination of travel and ethnology in his new volume, "Easter Island, Home of the Scornful Gods" [Bobbs-Merrill].

His voyage across the south seas to this isle of mystery occupies all too little of his narrative. Perhaps he's saving details for another south sea volume; we hope so. He arrives at Easter island on the wings of a hurricane, told about vividly and with what one seldom encounters either in a fictional or real sea gale—humor.

Most of his book, of course, is devoted to that tiny bit of land in the south Pacific which has puzzled and baffled every visitor, no matter how learned, with its four hundred or more sneering stone gods—if such they are. Mr. Casey dips into the past and modernizing the dialogue of his imaginary conversations built up from shadowy legend, paints a vivid and human picture of conditions and events that led up to the carving of the scornful gods.

Through it all bobs up the Casey knack of turning a solemn and serious (to the participant) moment into a chuckle for the reader. So "Easter Island" is not only a well written and intelligent treatise on an ethnological puzzle which just can't seem to get itself solved, but it's a delightfully jolly travel tale.

It's a colorful volume of gorgeous blue and gold covers, and orange top, with quaint end papers reproducing an Easter island scene from "Voyage de la Perouse autour de Monde," many illustrations and two maps.—A. C.

Marquess of Lothian Is to Sell Famous Old Books, It's Said

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—It is understood the Marquess of Lothian has arranged for the sale at auction in New York early in January of a valuable library of early books and manuscripts housed until recently at Blickling hall, Aylsham, Norfolk.

The collection contains an Anglo-Saxon manuscript book of homilies originally written in the year 971. Other early manuscripts include a 10th century psalter, a French 13th century manuscript of "Romant de la Rose," an illuminated manuscript of Boccaccio's, "Des Cas des Nobles Hommes et Femmes," dated 1409, and a rare 14th century metrical romance of "Floriant et Florette." There also are early manuscript Bibles, including a perfect copy of the original two volumes of the first printed Bible issued from the Gutenberg press at Mainz, Germany.

News of the projected sale in New York was commented on adversely by British professional book collectors, as they are being deprived of a big event in the home market.

NAN BRITTON'S BOOK ON HARDING READ TO JURY

Judge Orders Minors from Courtroom.

Toledo, O., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Intimate details of the alleged love affair between the late Warren G. Harding and Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," were read to the jury today. Miss Britton is suing for $50,000 C. A. Klunk, Marion, O., hotel man, as the seller of a book called "The Answer to the President's Daughter." The 13 year old child which Miss Britton says is hers, and who occupies the title rôle in "The President's Daughter," was not present in court.

Where Klunk's attorneys had devoted two days to reading excerpts from "The Answer" and from Miss Britton's book, "The President's Daughter," that were unfavorable to the young author, the other side immediately began to paint Miss Britton in the rôle of a school girl swept off her feet by the attention of a man old enough to be her father.

The excerpts from "The President's Daughter" read to the jury concerned a long series of purported love letters written by Mr. Harding to Miss Britton. He suggested, according to the text, that she destroy these.

Another section of the book placed in the record included the chapters concerning events after President Harding's death.

Miss Britton, she wrote, was in Europe at the time and in an effort to secure the future of her child, Elizabeth Ann, she soon married Capt. Neilson, an ocean navigator, after he agreed to put $5,000 in trust for the child. But the sum never was paid, and divorce followed, the book sets forth.

Defense Has Final Fling.

The defense earlier in the day rested its case after quoting from "The Answer," to refute Miss Britton's claims of secret White House meetings with Mr. Harding.

After pointing out that Miss Britton claimed to have gained admission at will, day and night, to the executive mansion, without the knowledge of the President's wife, "The Answer" goes on to state:

"It is impossible for any one to enter the White House except under rigid surveillance. If you doubt it, try it."

For almost five hours the attorneys and Federal Judge John M. Killits conferred on the case before Miss Britton's version of the facts in the suit were permitted to be put in the record.

Ruffled by the scramble of spectators to get front row seats to hear the spicy details being read to the jury, the court delivered a lengthy oration barring miners from the courtroom and threatening to exclude the public and the press if advisable.

Mills of Gods Grind Slowly, but Not Reno Divorce Courts

Reno, Nev., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Ties that fettered more than 3,000 unhappily married couples were severed by the Reno courts during the first half year of Nevada's new six weeks' divorce law.

During the same six months it is estimated that Reno divorce lawyers were enriched by nearly $500,000 and approximately $128,000 was paid out in court and filing fees.

Enacted by the last legislature as a "boon to humanity" and to meet threatened competition by Arkansas and other states, the six weeks' law more than fulfilled the fondest expectations of its authors and definitely resulted in the graduation of divorce into big business class.

Other Counties Also Gain.

The 3,234 divorce complaints filed in Reno during the last six months alone exceeded by more than 1,000 the high total for any preceding twelve months in the history of Washoe county. A corresponding increase was noted in several of the sixteen other counties in Nevada.

Marital misfits from every state in the Union, the District of Columbia, Philippine Islands, Hawaii and thirteen foreign countries were in the grist ground out by the six weeks' mill since the wheels began turning on May 1, effective date of the new law. Sons of the wealthy, barons and baronesses, the wife of an opera singer, artists, directors of talking pictures, a former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, business leaders and just plain every day people were included in the heterogeneous collection.

Greatest Speed in July.

The mill whirred at its greatest speed during July when 707 complaints were filed with the Washoe county clerk. In May 517 complaints were filed, 189 of them on a single day. In June there were 357, August 688, September 572, and this month 413. Reno's two divorce judges granted 112 decrees on June 20.

An estimate today was that each one of the 3,217 divorce seekers paid an average attorney's fee of $150. All told they contributed approximately $482,550 to Reno lawyers and left an additional $128,680 with the county clerk for court and filing fees, which average about $40. Many more thousands were spent for entertainment and living expenses, which are not exactly low in Reno.

Dempsey Among Them.

Among those who got their divorces here were Jack Dempsey, Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Tibbet, Lady Inverclyde, who was the British musical comedy star "June"; Peter Arno, the caricaturist; George William Hill, famous director; Mrs. Charles J. Haines, daughter of the mayor of Philadelphia; Dorothy Doster Lyson, Denver heiress, and a few dozen society people from various sections of the country.

U. S. AGENTS ARE A BIG BOTHER TO MR. MARDEN

Affairs of the Continental Gold Coast club, 19 Cedar street, went from bad to worse yesterday. And the worse they got, the more Ben [Welsher] Marden, the proprietor of the gambling establishment, complained that police and federal agents were persecuting him and ruining his business.

J. E. ERICSSON.

One development that gave Mr. Marden cause to worry was Building Commissioner John E. Ericsson's announcement that he planned to ask Corporation Counsel Sexton for an opinion about the legal way to handle the gambling house. Commissioner Ericsson said that an application for an amusement license for the place had been rejected because it would have violated the zoning ordinance.

Visited by U. S. Agents.

Mr. Marden's most recent troubles began early yesterday morning when six prohibition agents, acting on the request of Assistant United States District Attorney Edward Fisher, paid the club a visit.

In search of Arthur Moore, Harry Lewis and Philip Harris, defendants in a liquor case since the day when the Epicure club operated at the same address, the government investigators examined the building. They failed to find the three men.

Mr. Marden's Lament.

Upstairs, the agents reported, they found twenty hostesses. When the agents prepared to leave, two couples came in the front door, saw the six men, and departed hastily. "You're ruining my business," cried Mr. Marden. "In that case we'll stay," replied the agents. They stayed for two hours.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH WEATHER . . . USE EVEREADY PRESTONE

You can GO BROKE

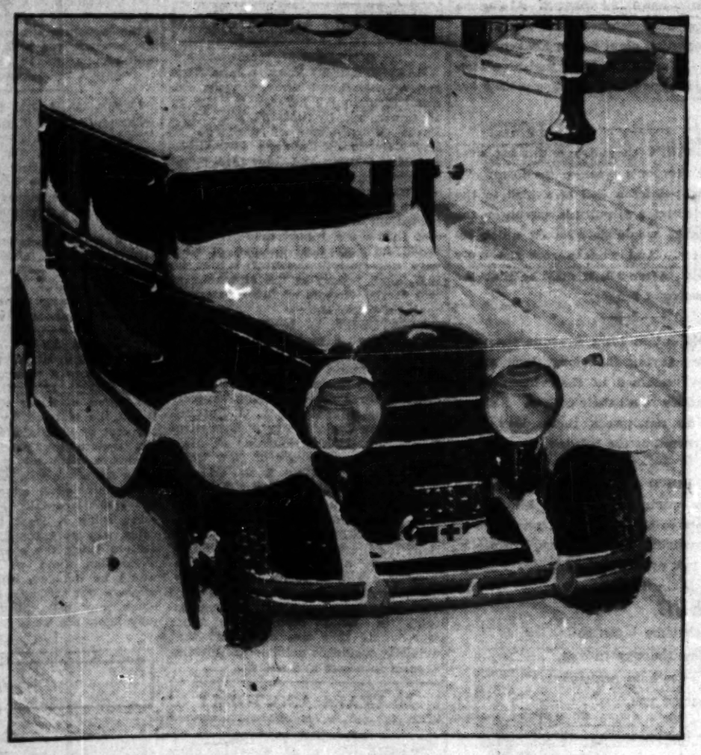
GAMBLING WITH AN ANTI-FREEZE THAT ISN'T SAFE IN EVERY CHANGE OF WEATHER



NOT even the Stock Market can match winter weather for ups and downs. When you risk that car of yours with an anti-freeze that boils away on mild days, you're apt to wake up some blizzardy morning to find your engine frozen — and a big repair bill staring you in the face.

There's one sure way to end guesswork and worry. Use Eveready Prestone, the product scientifically developed for the one purpose of keeping automobiles from freezing. It flows freely at zero, yet it can't boil off. It has less tendency to leak than water. It does not decompose at high engine-temperatures. It has no unpleasant odor. It will not damage the expensive finish of your car. It retards rust.

Eveready Prestone is accepted by leading car manufacturers and automotive engineers. Famous explorers use it on their polar expeditions. New scientific discoveries now make it better than ever.

The first cost of Eveready Prestone is the last; you don't have to test it — and replace it — every few days. Don't be deceived by the per-gallon cost of other products. Find out what they cost per season. Then remember that Eveready Prestone gives you safe and absolute protection all winter long!

Why gamble with the old, chance-taking methods? Right now, before cold weather threatens, have your cooling-system cleaned, tightened and filled with the proper amount of Eveready Prestone — then let Old Man Winter do his worst!

9 POINTS OF SUPERIORITY

1. Gives complete protection.
2. Does not boil off.
3. Positively will not damage cooling-system.
4. Will not heat-up a motor.
5. Circulates freely at the lowest operating temperatures.
6. Will not affect paint, varnish or lacquer finishes.
7. Non-inflammable and odorless.
8. Prevents formation of rust in the cooling-system.
9. Economical — one filling lasts all winter.

NOTE: When you drain your cooling-system of Eveready Prestone in the spring, put in Eveready Rustone, for all-summer protection against rust, clogging and overheating. Then your car will always be free of rust.

THE PRESIDENT'S COURT OF NAVAL INQUIRY.

President Hoover has announced that he will investigate statements made by the Navy League of the United States. He will appoint a special committee to do this. He anticipates its findings and says he will expect an apology from the president of the league, William Howard Gardiner. Mr. Hoover also says that the inquiry will absolve members of the Navy league who did not participate in the statements made by the organization.

The criticism of the President's naval policy which has caused this unusual indignation in the White House was contained in a pamphlet issued Oct. 12 in Washington. The league has a membership of some 4,000 citizens interested in the maintenance of the navy. One of its activities has been in the preparation and circulation of information relative to efficiency, the effect of treaty agreements on sea power, proposals for building or for reductions, comparative strength, etc.

In the Coolidge administration a conference was held in Geneva to consider the limitation of cruisers, this class not having been included in the Washington conference in which the United States agreed to dispose of the capital ships which would give its navy first rank if retained. The American delegation at Geneva refused to surrender on the point of eight inch gun cruisers and was supported in this attitude by Mr. Coolidge. One William Shearer, an American citizen, was in Geneva for the conference. He made himself useful to American newspaper correspondents by furnishing considerable information, naval facts and statistics, with which he was evidently familiar. The American point was sustained, the American delegates were applauded, the conference came to nothing, and that outcome was received in the United States with general favor.

When Mr. Hoover became President it was made known that the American government was willing to take up the cruiser question again and that Mr. MacDonald, the British prime minister, would come to the United States to talk over this and other international questions with the President.

Just then Mr. Shearer unexpectedly popped up. He brought suit against three shipbuilding companies, alleging that he had not been completely paid for representing them at the Geneva conference. President Hoover took immediate notice of this and instructed the attorney general to consider what action should be taken. He said Shearer had been a severe critic of the administration's effort to secure international agreement for the reduction of naval arms and had opposed "the movement which I have initiated within the last three months."

As soon as the President had announced that he would not have international conferences interfered with in such fashion Senator Borah procured an investigation of Mr. Shearer by the senate. It made an astounding noise for a while, but in the end came to confirmation of the fact that the shipbuilders' press agent had done his publicity work to prevent an American surrender on the very point, big cruisers, for which the American negotiators, the American naval experts, and the American government of that year stuck to the bitter end. That appeared at the time to have the approval of the government and of the people. It was an American cause for which the press agent had worked. Although the President had said that international conferences were not to have such interference, anything Mr. Shearer did at the time covered by the complaint had the support of the American government of that day.

In advance of Mr. MacDonald's visit and of the subsequent London conference, where the eight inch gun cruiser point was surrendered, Mr. Shearer was made to feel the weight of government anger and so far as an unfavorable impression could be created he was made to appear as a man who had intended an injury to his country. THE TRIBUNE could never see the affair at Geneva in that light. This newspaper lacks the power of conviction to condemn any man for serving the conceded interests of his country. At bottom that seems to have been the fault which irritated the government.

One treaty reducing the navy only prepares the way for another, although the administration never goes through with a building program which would satisfy the American rights conceded in the agreements. Another conference will be held early next year, with the league of nations in charge, at Geneva.

In preparation for the London conference President Hoover suspended the building of five cruisers, the first of fifteen authorized by congress, and Mr. Shearer was investigated.

With the Geneva conference ahead, Mr. Hoover has ordered $81,000,000 cut from the navy budget for economy and the proposals of the navy department have had to include the laying up of battleships and the reduction of personnel. Mr. Gardiner has criticised this policy, as the head of an organization of citizens, and Mr. Gardiner is to be investigated.

In this instance the visit of another premier, Laval of France, has already been made, but that of the Italian foreign minister impends, and, as has been said, the Geneva conference is in preparation.

The President says Mr. Gardiner's statements contain untruths and distortions of fact, as will be proved before the committee of inquiry by the agencies of the government, and that it is desirable for the public "to know the character of this indirect campaign of misinformation to defeat the efforts of high officials of the navy department and the administration for reduction of federal expenditure not immediately essential in order that we may avoid increased taxation of the people in these times."

The court of inquiry will not be unlike a star chamber body. The President will appoint its members. The evidence to confute Mr. Gardiner will be presented by government agencies, including officers of the navy. It is regarded as insubordination for a naval officer to oppose a government policy publicly. Mr. Hoover has announced the verdict in advance and has indicated what he expects Mr. Gardiner to accept as the penalty for a prejudged offense. Members of the Navy league who did not join in the statement will be absolved.

Nevertheless it is possible, in spite of these conditions of inquiry, that the public will be given a better understanding of the actual condition of the navy and of what is intended as to its future. It is desirable to learn the truth before another international conference undertakes to make new rules for the American fleet. That, we take it, is the purpose of the proposed court of inquiry.

ANOTHER DEFEAT FOR THE CITY'S EXPERTS.

The United States Supreme court has found against Chicago in the elevated fare case. This defeat closely parallels other defeats in rate litigation undertaken by the city ostensibly on behalf of the public. There was the great to-do about the 5 cent fare on the street cars, for example. The surface line fare is still 7 cents and the elevated fare is still 10 cents, but meanwhile the taxpayers of Chicago have paid upwards of a quarter of a million dollars to lawyers engaged in these litigations in the last six years.

The practice grew up under the previous administration of employing experts outside the corporation counsel's office to conduct these cases. Many of these special attorneys were distinguished for their political connections.

Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora, who was appointed in the previous administration to represent the city in the elevated fare case, collected more than $21,000 from his client between 1928 and 1930 in the futile attempt to reduce fares. Previously, in the 5 cent fare litigation, Chester Cleveland, paid at the rate of $150 a day, received more than $70,000 between 1920 and 1922, when the case was decided against the city.

In the wicked old days the city's elected representatives were found on the side of the street car barons; and how they got there was a generation's favorite scandal. Meanwhile great progress has been made. The city is no longer betrayed by its elected officials. They order gallant and extremely expensive battles to be fought by high priced counsel at the expense of the taxpayers and straphangers. Nobody can say that old John Citizen nowadays doesn't get a run for his money or that learned counsel doesn't get the money.

It is too bad that the city's batting average in these lawsuits is low, but the facts appear to be unmistakable. Admirable as are these spirited defenses of the public interest, the net gain, except to the lawyers and other experts, appears to be negligible. No doubt the city is warranted from time to time in contesting utility rates on behalf of the citizens, but it would seem advisable in future to intrust these matters to the city's salaried legal staff. The results could hardly be less favorable to the straphangers.

Editorial of the Day

THE SHEARER FIASCO.

[Reprinted from THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 2, 1928.]

While the Shearer inquiry and its dramatis personæ are enjoying the thrills of world-wide publicity we take leave to remark that in no other country in the world would such an occurrence take place at such a time.

That is to say that, upon the threshold of a momentous international event, signalized by the first official visit of a British prime minister to the President of the United States in our national capital, and involving decisions of the gravest possible consequences in our national policy and in our most important international relations, our government undertakes a sensational investigation which has to do solely with a past event but which cannot fail to cast suspicion if not discredit upon American diplomacy and the protection of American interest.

What is the implication of this investigation? First, that the conference at Geneva in 1927 failed to arrive at agreement because private corporations in search of profits were able, through the miraculous efforts of a press agent, to defeat the purpose of the American government to reduce naval shipbuilding; second, that it is necessary, or at least advisable, to expose this sinister influence in order to prevent a similar miscarriage in the present negotiations.

We think both implications are preposterous, and the inquiry thus far has not produced a scintilla of evidence to support them. But if they are not to be taken seriously, what is to be thought of the wisdom of dignifying the charges against Shearer and his employers by presidential indignation and by a sensational drama of inquiry solemnly staged by no less an institution than the senate of the United States?

The only assumption that can justify such an undertaking at such a time as this is that the American press is so gullible or so corrupt as to fall a victim to corrupt deception, and that the representatives of the United States at Geneva and at Washington were so corrupt or so feeble as to permit the conspiracy to succeed without exposure or protest. A senatorial investigation at the request of the President is not so light a matter as to be undertaken because a few foolish individuals engaged an agent to muddy the waters of publicity with press agent yarns. If an American government's plans can be so cheaply defeated we are indeed humiliated in the eyes of the world.

* * * * * *

The Shearer inquiry, in our opinion, is untimely, undignified, and offensive in the only implications or assumptions that could explain or justify it. It is injurious to the credit of the American press and to the American government and its representatives in 1927. It is injurious to the American effort to procure equitable conditions in naval agreement, and to the high cause of national defense at the very threshold of such agreement. It is confusing to public opinion and subversive of public judgment. And it is completely futile thus far in disclosing any important force or fact relevant to the most grave and momentous issues involved in the negotiations the President now has before him.

SHALL THE WHITE RACE PASS?

"IT is said that if the whites do not breed they will go under." This statement is taken from a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association of the proceedings of the second general assembly of the International Union for the Scientific Investigation of Population Problems.

These are some of the facts on which the conclusion was based:

In practically all of North America, northwestern Europe, and Australia and New Zealand population is now stationary. If any section is increasing in population it is at the expense of some other section. There is no material increase, by reason of excess of births over deaths, and in many regions the deaths are in excess of births.

The birth rate of Great Britain is only 16.2, and that is about three points per thousand less than the rate required to maintain population. Furthermore, the increasing average age of the population points plainly to an even more rapid fall in birth rate ten years from now. The birth rate of the last decade was only three-fourths that of the decade just preceding the world war.

The official report for New York City for 1930 shows that they had a birth rate of 17.6, only one point higher than that of Great Britain, and the rate of fall is even greater than over there. The indications are that the birth rate of the cities of America will be much lower in 1931 than it was in 1930.

The low birth rate of Great Britain is not peculiar to them. That of Sweden is even lower and in no country of northwest Europe is there a birth rate materially higher. On the other hand, the birth rates of Japan, Russia, eastern Europe and, so far as we can judge, the rates of the yellow, brown, and black races are not declining materially. Thanks largely to the efforts of the whites, the death rates of the yellow, brown, and black peoples are falling rapidly in all sections where white men are boasing the job. On the other hand, the decline in the death rate among white peoples has slowed down almost to the stopping point.

Furthermore, the increasing average age of the populations in white countries is bringing them to the point where some increase in death rates can be expected.

The population density of Great Britain is 685 per square mile, a greater density than prevails in any other European country except Belgium. The census just completed gives London eight and a quarter million people. Keith, an outstanding British authority, says that 80 per cent of the British population is now living under urban conditions, and more than half reside in cities of 50,000 and over, and half of them are in the thirteen large cities. It is very much to the point that Dr. Keith, whose opinion is entitled to the greatest consideration, says that urban life is profoundly harming British physique.

WEIGHT AND HONEY.

Mrs. H. M. writes:

1. What should I weigh? I am 62 years old, 5 feet 5½ inches.

2. Are maple sirup or honey, being natural sweets, fattening? I am told that honey is not, and can be eaten by a person dieting.

3. What is the caloric value of a slice of bread, thinly buttered, and one medium portion of ice cream?

REPLY.

1. About 140 pounds, although your build, the size of your bones, and your nationality are factors.

2. They are. Who says maple sirup and honey are natural sweets, unless molasses and most other sweets are too? Where is there proof that natural sweets—whatever they are—are less fattening than unnatural sweets—whatever they are?

3. About 300 calories if you go light on the butter and do not pile up the ice cream.

WAGES.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been working for a company for the last seven years or so. For the last four years I was on a monthly basis salary. I took sick and was off from work for about four months. They kept telling me that my position would be waiting for me when I came back. When I did come back they did not come out and tell me that my position had been filled until several weeks had passed and then they put me working on another job where I was on an hourly basis at a much smaller salary. During the time I was sick they paid me about three weeks' salary. I figure this was my vacation money. Since then I have left the company. Would like to know if it would be possible for me to get any back salary due to the fact that I was not given any notice. H. O. D.

"Where the hiring is by the day, or from week to week, or from month to month, either party has the right to terminate it at the end of any particular day, or week, or month" [39 C. J. 71] without previous notice, but if the employe is discharged without legal ground during one of the recurrent periods of the employment, he is entitled to pay to the end of such period. The Illinois cases tend to hold that the wage payment interval is not conclusive in determining whether the employment is by the day, week, month, or year.

BUILDING TO BE WRECKED.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if there is a possible way to stop the children and grownups from disposing of the vacant house next door to our place. They have taken away flooring and joists and anything they can pry loose. It won't be long before the walls only remain and some one is liable to get hurt. R. C.

The owner of the building has been notified to wreck same, and he advises that he is taking bids to demolish the building.

LICENSE REQUIRED.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to sell notions from house to house and flowers on the street. Would I have to secure a license first, and if so, how much would it cost? C. E. S.

You would need a license. Apply to the city clerk, in the city hall.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEY'RE GETTING ROUGH down in Washington. The President has revived Theodore Roosevelt's Ananias Club. The Navy League tossed an awful phrase at the White House with a hissing fuse. The darned thing went off and now there is war along the Potomac. What the Navy League hurled at the President was a terrible thing, horrible. It was nothing less than "abysmal ignorance." That's a good phrase, not fully worthy of ranking with "Byzantine logothete," which was what T. R. called Mr. Wilson, but pretty fair at that. If any one turned on you and said "I am appalled at your abysmal ignorance!" how would you feel? Right offhand the thing doesn't seem to have the kick that "Byzantine logothete" did, but then lots of people don't know yet what a "Byzantine logothete" is, and almost any mind is able to appreciate and get as mad as all getout if some one speaks of their "abysmal ignorance." Anyhow, the "abysmal ignorance" thing has stirred up the White House with "untruths and distortion of facts." Another commission was appointed right away. Every time the administration gets mad it appoints a commission. And the fur is simply flying all over the place. Which is good for the rest of us. We can forget our other troubles and sit in the front row and watch the fight. And glory be! who doesn't love a fight?

PIONEERING.

Now across the plain they pass—
Tumble-weed and Tickle-grass:
Tumble-weed, the pioneer,
Seeking for a new frontier,
Tickle-grass, his tender bride,
Dancing bravely at his side.

Tickle-grass and Tumble-weed,
Far across the plain they speed
On the wind, a broncho, panting,
Goaded by the raindrops, slanting,
Spurred by keen autumnal sun,
On and onward still they run.

Tumble-weed and Tickle-grass—
Fearless rover, faithful lass,
Riders of November's gale,
Soon your foaming steed will fail
And your journey, wild, will end
Where the sky and prairie blend.

There you'll find a lone frontier,
Bleak and rugged, never fear,
Stake your claim and build a home,
Vowing never more to roam—
Vowing never more to stray
For forever and a day.

Tumble-weed and Tickle-grass,
Restless lad and fickle lass,
When another spring shall fetch
Rue and roses, corn and vetch,
Genteel neighbors, settling near,
You will seek a new frontier.

EOLUS.

"BUT," buts Gen. Smedley Butler, "Capone is not in the penitentiary and I doubt that they'll get him there." All right, Smedley, just for that we'll not send you a Chrismas present. It is very evident that you do not believe in Santa Claus.

ANYHOW, there's one thing about it. Al Capone may still be quite some distance from the government's big incineration plant out in Leavenworth, but he won't be sliding in to a front seat at a football game this afternoon. [But we wouldn't bet on it.]

OVER IN LONDON they are enthusing over Admiral Charles Gordon's election platform: "I am going to give politics a hell of a kick in the pants." If Charley tried to pull his speech on the radio in America he would be shut off quick because of profanity. And what a row the truly good would make. After all, it may be that the English have a sense of humor.

A PROFESSOR out in Iowa explains the word "honeymoon" by saying that long, long ago a newlywed couple remained in their home for a month and fed honey to all their callers. Not any more. Callers on newlyweds these days have nothing handed them but the baloney.

MR. HENRY FORD explains most ingeniously why cutting the minimum wage in his factory from seven bucks to six a day is a sure sign of the return of prosperity. All right then, Prosperity, we don't care if you never come back.

I let a lightsome lover go
Who knew the way to woo,
I wanted something permanent
So I selected you.

The other lad knew many things
Garnered here and there,
You were sure, dependable, . . .
I thought that you would wear.

But, oh, I'd be relieved, my dear,
If you would shrink or fade.
Qualities that never tear
Can be so doggoned staid.

HELEN WELSHIMER.

HALLOWEEN tonight and maybe you'll have to make up your mind mighty quick whether the strange thing that jumps out at you in the inky blackness of midnight is a spirit or a mortal. If it says: "Oh-o-o-o-o-o-o-o" like that, and smells of brimstone, then that would be a ghost——

BUT—if it jams a gun up against your ribs and says: "Stick 'em up, guy, an' keep 'em up!" and goes through your pockets and takes all your money and your cigars, and your watch, and your overcoat, and then makes you take off your pants and stand there freezing in the chilly wind——

THAT would be a mortal. Spooks aren't that darned mean. R. H. L.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 31, 1915.

LONDON.—A fierce Austro-German drive to the southwestward from Batocina, Serbia, was reported in Athens messages. The Teutonic forces were believed to be aiming at Kraguivats, where the Serbs have their arsenal. Batocina and Kraguivatz are about ten miles apart. Bloody fighting between Montenegrins and Austrians is progressing in the ten by ten mile quadrangle in southern Austria bounded by the Serbian and Montenegrin frontiers and the Drina and Limx rivers, according to advices.

BERLIN. — The Overseas News agency says: "A dispatch from Athens reports that the entente troops have begun to retire from Saloniki. Gen. A. B. Hamilton, commander of the British forces there, communicated the fact to Prince Nicholas of Greece, who ordered the Greek authorities to help the Anglo-French staff in the task of retirement."

LONDON.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army before Riga has suffered the first serious setback in many weeks. According to the admission of the German war office the forces which several weeks ago crossed the Missa have been thrown back upon the southern bank of the river by the Russians.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

BARNSTABLE, Mass. — Jane Toppan, a professional nurse, 45 years old, was lodged in jail here on the charge of murdering by poison Mrs. Mary Davis Gibbs, sister of the wife of Harry Gordon of Chicago. Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Gordon and their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alden P. Davis of Cataumet, died here within three weeks last summer. Miss Toppan attended all four as a nurse. The arrest followed a report made by Prof. Wood, an analytical chemist of Harvard university, who stated that he had found poison in the stomachs of two of the victims of the mysterious chain of coincidences.

WESTBURY, L. I.—In a collision here between a motor vehicle run by Henri Fournier, the famous French chauffeur, and a wildcat engine on the Long Island railroad, six persons were injured, three of them being severely hurt. The injured are A. G. Batcheldder of New York, Henry J. Everall of Manhattan, Henri Fournier of Manhattan, H. B. Fuilerton of New York, J. H. Gerrie of New York, and Arthur Lewis of Manhattan. Those in the motor vehicle were on the way from the Meadowbrook clubhouse.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The negotiations for the ransom of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, are progressing satisfactorily, it is understood. But beyond this statement those having the negotiations in hand maintain absolute secrecy, as they are convinced that publicity would be detrimental to Miss Stone's interests and safety.

OCTOBER 31, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The star-route cases are to be called in District court tomorrow on motion to quash the information. Distinguished counsel on both sides will argue the question. Postmaster General James denies that he will leave the cabinet on Dec. 1. He will remain until some result has been obtained in the star-route cases.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Maj. L. P. Younger and Mrs. Sophie L. Regan, uncle and aunt of the murderous Younger boys now serving life sentences at Stillwater for the Northfield bank robbery, are now here to bring influence to bear upon the governor to secure a pardon for the desperadoes.

NEW YORK. — Miss Lotta and Edwin Booth are said to be the richest representatives of the dramatic profession. She is worth a half million and Booth estimates his wealth at $450,000. Joseph Jefferson comes third on the list and John McCullough has made $140,000 in the last three years.

PARIS. — The Figaro announced that for several days the Empress Eugénie has been in France. She was said to be staying at Viscount Agnado's country seat and has been seen both in the palace of Fontainebleau and in Paris. "Napoleon III.'s widow," says Figaro, "is in deep mourning. Her hair is quite white."

WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 27.—The people who make up the states west of the Mississippi today have just as correct a conception of the significance and limitations of the federal government as the people who make up the states to the east of the Mississippi. Your editorial writer seems to have overlooked these facts: [1] That the west was settled by some of the best stock that had developed the east and the federal government; [2] that the "original formative influences of the republic" have not endured in the privilege-asking east; [3] that the states are not abstract things, but groups of people which change from generation to generation and with which change comes inevitably a change in thought; [4] that this thought in the realm of politics today is modern in the face of modern needs; [5] that the west is not alone in asking special privilege or concessions from the federal government, as the east's industrial tariff bears evidence.

The personnel of the nation has changed since its formation. The states which were involved in the evolution and defense of American doctrines are now peopled by men and women who have no better or more developed an understanding of the functions of the federal government than the people who make up the states to the west. It is evident that throughout the whole of the country today people have lost sight of many of the fundamental principles upon which this country was built, but it is not a fault peculiar to the west.

THE A. M. A. ON PROHIBITION.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The news from Washington quotes Congressman Britten of Chicago as saying that the American Medical association has asked for modification of the Volstead act, or repeal of the 18th amendment. Congressman Britten's quotation is not quite clear to me. At any rate, the American Medical association has asked for neither of these things, and I do not understand why a man in Congressman Britten's exalted position should endeavor to bolster his beer cause by so complete a misstatement. SILVER AND GOLD MIXED.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Oct. 23.—The silver dollar was at a premium for 74 years—from 1800 to 1874, when the excessive production of silver changed the ratio. It can be restored by using a certain per cent of gold alloy in the silver dollar, maintaining parity and restoring commerce with all the countries now using the silver standard. The gold dollar contains silver alloy. The silver dollar should contain gold alloy. Both coins being a legal tender, parity of value will be automatically secured by debtors using the cheaper money. The redemption fund of the government would be doubled, affording additional security for federal and bank notes. Some may call this inflation. If so, they know not what they say.

UNMUZZLED DOGS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Is there an ordinance to the effect that dogs must be kept muzzled when turned loose? If so, I fail to understand why the police aren't instructed to see that it is enforced. I live in the Woodlawn district, where German police dogs seem to be quite numerous, and twice in the last month I have seen these vicious brutes jump on smaller dogs and kill them outright and in another instance knock a small child over and probably would have treated it the same way had not the child's parents rushed out of the house and driven it off. Such animals should not be permitted out alone even when muzzled, but here they roam the streets day and night. I believe that a man who deliberately turns such a brute loose to endanger the lives of children is almost as vicious as the dog itself, and should be told in no uncertain terms that people are not going to stand for that sort of thing any longer. SELECTING A SUIT.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Go into a woman's store and the dresses are arranged so that they are easily available to the inspection of the customers; the customers, in fact, are invited to make their own selections for try-ons from the racks. In a man's clothing store the arrangement is reversed. The suits are hung in closed cases and the salesman gives the customer to understand that he, the salesman, will select from the racks if any selecting is to be done.

Finally, if the customer has courage enough, the salesman wearily and somewhat contemptuously permits him to look over the rack himself and make his own selections. But the joy of victory has been taken out of any sale that might follow, for ah! the customer has been permitted to approach the sacred rack, look over the entire stock, and make his own selection! SETTING ASIDE DIVORCE DECREES.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Somethin; should be done about the newest racket, having divorce decrees set aside.

My brother has been separated from his wife for three years and got a divorce last year. His former wife knew of it but never bothered him until last week when he married. The case is coming up in court to have the divorce set aside. She claims he got it on default and she never knew about it.

Something should be done with cases like this. There have been too many of this kind within the last six months. It's the latest fad that the attorneys have hit upon now. Alimony was first and now this racket. Mrs. S.

CERMAK OFF FOR EAST ON PARTY HARMONY TRIP

To Meet Al Smith and Raskob.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Mayor A. J. Cermak and local Democratic chieftains will seek to do some national party harmonizing in the east tomorrow on presidential politics. Before departing last night for Pittsburgh for the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech football game the mayor announced his intention of going to New York after the game for conferences with Al Smith, the party nominee in 1928, and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The trip follows a growing uneasiness among Illinois Democrats in recent weeks that reports of a growing rift between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith might jeopardize the chances of the Democratic party in 1932.

The Chicagoans are to take a harmony message from Cook county, where the Democrats for some years have done notable work in factional harmonizing.

Must Have Smith Support.

Mayor Cermak is expected to place before the New York conferences a belief among western Democrats, who have been canvassed in several states, that it will be no use for the party to nominate any candidate who will not get the Smith and Raskob support.

At the same time the Chicagoans will lay it down that the western Democrats are not going to be run or stampeded by the Hoovercrats of the south who bolted to the Republican ticket three years ago on the prohibition and religion issues. What they will strive to get is an assurance that, no matter who is nominated for President, the ticket will get unqualified support in the campaign from both the Smith and Roosevelt camps.

Among those who accompanied Mayor Cermak to New York are Judge Henry Horner, Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district; Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer of the district; Albert J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board.

Other Conferences Held.

Late last July Mayor Cermak went to New York and held conferences with Al Smith and with Gov. Roosevelt. He afterwards voiced the conclusion that there was no real conflict between the two New York Democrats.

After his talk with Roosevelt Mayor Cermak said that his judgment, based on what he had learned of his views, was that "Gov. Roosevelt is wet enough to be acceptable to our wet party in the west."

Mayor Cermak at the time said his conferences with Mr. Smith led him to the conclusion Smith did not entertain the idea of being a candidate again for the nomination, that he seemed to be friendly to Gov. Roosevelt and "certainly not against him."

The Illinois delegation, under present plans, is to go to the national convention prepared to vote for Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Manwhile a Roosevelt for President club, said to be the first in Chicago, was opened at 75th street and Exchange avenue. It was disclaimed by the regular Seventh ward Democratic organization. James W. Ryan, ward committeeman; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conley, national committeewoman, and James Igoe, brother of Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, declared they knew nothing of the club. It was opened by William Rand, an excavator, who was with the regular ward organization.

Boom Alfalfa Bill.

Likewise a "Murray for President" headquarters has been opened in the loop by old friends of Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma. The secretary is C. A. Cunningham, a Chicago real estate man who knew Alfalfa Bill when both lived in Tishimingo, Okla.

As to the governorship, Mayor Cermak and the local leaders who accompany him to New York plan to consider the question of a state slate with a view of picking candidates most capable of winning in the election next year. Michael L. Igoe, minority leader and national committeeman, is an active candidate for governor, and so is Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis and Belleville.

JUDGE RESTORES DANIEL O'REILLY TO POLICE FORCE

Judge Joseph David yesterday quashed the proceedings of the city civil service commission and restored to the department Daniel O'Reilly, a former patrolman at the Chicago avenue station. O'Reilly was dismissed on Aug. 13, 1927, with Capt. Daniel Murphy, his commander, and five other patrolmen.

Capt. Murphy, an attorney, appeared yesterday to represent O'Reilly. The captain and the other patrolmen have since been restored to their civil service rank, but Capt. Murphy did not rejoin the department. He stated yesterday that O'Reilly, himself, and the others were dismissed at the instance of the last city administration on charges that they had worked for the reelection of Mayor William E. Dever in 1927.

O'Reilly, an ex-service man who several times won creditable mention for his work during his seven years on the police force, explained to Judge David that he had been in Ireland to take over his share of an estate and therefore had not sought reinstatement earlier.

7,800 PROTEST PLAN TO CHANGE LANE TECH NAME

Students Oppose Move to Rename It "Edison."

Students of Lane Technical High school protested against the proposal to change the name of the school in three massmeetings yesterday. The school is named after Albert G. Lane, prominent in the beginning of the modern Chicago public school system and known as the originator of industrial and technical education in free public institutions.

The proposal to honor Thomas A. Edison by naming the new Lane Tech after him is now being considered by the school administration committee of the board of education. It will be voted on next Wednesday. At that time a delegation of students, parents and alumni will appear at the board chambers in protest.

7,800 Students Attend.

Yesterday's massmeetings, attended by 7,800 students who called themselves "Lane Indians," were held in the old Lane building at Division and Sedgwick streets, in preparation for that protest. Four speakers, members of the executive committee of the alumni association, addressed the students at meetings held in the gymnasium, the auditorium, and the shops. They were Ian M. Robertson, Hobart Summers, R. M. Bodach, and Medard W. Welch.

"Somebody downtown had a bad case of indigestion," Mr. Bodach said, to the laughter and boos of the students. "As a result they want to change the name of our school. In 1913 I helped draw the plans for the new Lane. It should have been finished ten years ago if the board members had sat up all night thinking about that instead of other matters. And now that the school is almost finished they want to make us orphans. They want to make a new high school there, change the name and leave you here to rot."

Loud cries of "Let them try it!" "We will take care of our name!"

Want to Keep Name.

"We want to keep the name of our own school," Mr. Robertson said. "There are already more than 120 schools named after Edison. But there is only one Lane in the entire world. I believe that Edison should be honored, but we will not permit them to do so by taking honor away from another and making thousands of honorable citizens, helping this city in all walks of life, homeless with no school to be proud of."

On Monday two letters addressed to the board of education will be handed to each of the students. One will be signed by the student. The other will be signed by his parents. Both will then be taken to the board of education to signify their protest against the change. According to officials of the alumni society, almost a thousand persons already have signified their intention of joining the protest delegation. Others will be recruited at meetings on Monday.

WILLIAM HINCKLEY, RETIRED REALTY DEALER, IS DEAD

William Brewster Hinckley, 64 years old, retired real estate and insurance executive, died yesterday in the home of his son, Harold, at 195 North Washington street, Hinsdale.

Mr. Hinckley was born in Galesburg, Ill., and educated at Exeter academy and Harvard. For many years he was vice president and secretary of the American Real Estate company. He also served as manager of the life insurance department of the Bartholomay-Darling company. Mr. Hinckley was a resident of Hinsdale for more than half a century.

Surviving are his widow, Blanche; three sons, Harold, William B. Jr., and Edward S. Hinckley, all of Hinsdale, and one daughter, Mrs. Walter H. Cheadle of Winnipeg, Canada. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday. Burial will be in Bronswood cemetery.

Postman Retires After 40 Years' Loop Service

William H. McLean, veteran mail carrier, has delivered his last letter. He retires today under the pension act after forty years of service in the loop. Mr. McLean was appointed to the postal service in 1891 by Postmaster Sexton, and began service in the La Salle street district. He became acquainted with many of the financial lane's most prominent figures. Mr. McLean plans to make his home in Florida later.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

U. S. RADIO BODY CLOSES TRIO OF FORD STATIONS

Fail to Serve General Public, Is Ruling.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The federal radio commission today refused permission for further operation of three radio stations maintained by the Ford Motor company in connection with its Detroit-Chicago airplane freight line.

The stations are WQDW and WFO at Dearborn and WCQ at Lansing, Ill. WQDW is the only station in this district broadcasting regular weather reports and airway information for airmen. The other two are beacon stations used for the guidance of pilots while in flight.

The commission refused further extension of the company's permits on the ground that the stations are helpful only to Ford airmen and do not benefit aviation in general. William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford company, denied this and said the decision would be appealed to the courts.

Four Ordered Off Air.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Continuing its new campaign designed to "equalize" the distribution of broadcasting facilities among the states, the federal radio commission today ordered off the air four additional stations, two of them in Chicago. Just two weeks ago it ordered deleted stations WIBO and WPCC, Chicago, as the beginning of the project. WJAZ and WCHI, each of 5,000 watts but operating the equivalent of only one day a week, were those stricken from the lists today, effective in 20 days, unless the courts intervene.

At the same time the commission settled the year old controversy involving the existence of station WEVD, New York, operated by the Debs Memorial Radio Fund, Inc., as an independent forum for free speech. In renewing the station's license by majority vote the commission sustained the view of Louis S. Caldwell, radio attorney, that free speech within the bounds of law must be permitted.

Two Others Closed.

Besides the two Chicago stations, the commission today ordered the supreme radio penalty for stations WIBR, Steubenville, O., operating on 1,240 kilocycles with 50 watts, and for WMBA, Newport, R. I., operating with 100 watts on 1,500 kilocycles. Both were accused of violation of radio regulations and failure to serve the public interest, as were the two Chicago stations.

In snuffing out WCHI, operated by the Peoples Pulpit association, and WJAZ of the Zenith Radio corporation, the commission made way for full time operation by station WCKY, Covington, Ky., on the 1,490 kilocycle channel with 5,000 watts.

Gun Toter Freed After Appeal Upsets Conviction

Robert Emmett Ryan, police character, was dismissed by Judge Edward B. Casey in the jury court on a gun-toting charge yesterday. Arrested when he emerged from the Minuet club on Aug. 4, 1930, police found a revolver a few feet from him. Ryan was sentenced by Judge John H. Lyle to serve one year in the house of correction and to pay a fine of $200. The Appellate court reversed Judge Lyle's decision and remanded the case for trial.

C. E. RUSHMORE, LAWYER, DEAD IN EAST AT 74

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Charles E. Rushmore, 74, for whom Mount Rushmore, now a national memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota, was named, died today after a brief illness.

As a young man Rushmore went to the Black Hills as attorney for some mining interests. The peak which Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, in recent years converted into a monument, then was unnamed and the residents named it after him and sent him a map showing his name applied to the peak.

Ill health prevented him from taking part in the dedication at which President Coolidge delivered the principal address.

Mr. Rushmore was senior partner in the law firm of Rushmore, Bisbee & Stern until his retirement several years ago. He was considered particularly skilled in banking law and the law of negotiable instruments, being for many years counsel for the New York Clearing House association and a number of leading New York banks.

DR. D. W. ROGERS, HIGHLAND PARK, TAKEN BY DEATH

Dr. Daniel Weston Rogers, north shore physician, president of the Highland Park board of health until illness interfered early this year, died last night in the Highland Park hospital. He lived at 441 St. John's place, Highland Park.

Dr. Rogers was 65 years old and a native of Holbrook, Mass. He was a descendant of Peregrine White, first white child born in Massachusetts colony, and of Gov. Winslow. He was educated at Amherst, Northwestern university, and the Universities of Berlin and Vienna. Dr. Rogers served for a while as principal of Hopkins academy, Hadley, Mass., and as an instructor in sciences at the Harvard school of Chicago. He was at the Mexican border in 1916 with the 7th Illinois infantry and saw action overseas as a lieutenant colonel, 33d division. He was a Mason and belonged to numerous medical associations and various clubs.

Surviving Dr. Rogers is his son, Robert.

DR. WILL R. NEFF, EARLY ROTARIAN, IS FOUND DEAD

Dr. Will R. Neff, 56 years old, a dentist, active in the affairs of the Shrine and the Rotary club, was found dead in bed yesterday in his home at 424 Melrose street. He joined the Chicago Rotary club, the parent organization in 1905, the same year it was founded, and for thirteen years was financial secretary and statistician of the club. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday from the Oriental consistory, 919 North Dearborn street, followed by burial in Forest Home cemetery.

WORTHINGTON, LAND PROMOTER, GETS 5 YEAR TERM

Clyde L. Worthington, "fig land" promoter, was sentenced to serve five years in the Leavenworth penitentiary, and his office manager, Mrs. Eleanor Freiburger, was sentenced to a year and a day by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday. They were found guilty by a jury of using the mails to defraud on Wednesday.

Through the operation of his real estate business Worthington fraudulently obtained $100,000 from Chicago investors, according to Assistant United States District Attorney Francis Kennedy, who prosecuted the case.

Judge Barnes fined Worthington $2,700. After the sentence was imposed the defendants made a motion for new trial, which was denied. Worthington's appeal bond was set at $7,500 and Mrs. Freiburger's $2,500.

During the ten days' trial Prosecutor Kennedy placed fourteen witnesses on the stand. Most of them were widows. All testified that Worthington had persuaded them to invest their money in his Arizona "fig lands," with the promise of a 16 per cent return on their venture, but that they had never received a cent.

E. T. TOMLINSON, WRITER, PASTOR, IS DEAD AT 72

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Everett T. Tomlinson, 72, weaver of tales of truth and fiction about American historical characters, died today.

To millions of boys he was known as the author of "Young Peoples' History of the American Revolution," "Boys' Biography of Gen. Pershing," and countless stories dealing with the heroes of the new world. His boys' books were believed to have attained a circulation of more than 2,000,000.

In this city, where he had lived and labored most of his life, he was the Rev. Dr. Everett Titsworth Tomlinson, Baptist leader, educator, and organizer.

He is survived by his widow and three sons. His funeral will be held tomorrow.

POLISH FALCONS URGE CORRIDOR RETENTION IN PLEAS TO LEADERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 30.—[Special.] Protests against proposals to revise the Versailles Treaty so as to reinclude the Polish Corridor in German territory were made in telegrams made public here today, sent by Dr. G. A. Starzynski, president of the Polish Falcons of America, to President Hoover and to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee.

Both telegrams assert that the Polish Corridor in the beginning was an integral portion of the Polish state, and that even under German rule the territory maintained its adherence to Polish customs and retained its Polish nationalistic individuality.

The telegram to the President compliments him for his disavowal of the plan, and the message to Senator Borah contains a statement that the citizens of Poland will actively protest against any "meddling with their boundaries."

"Driven to desperation by the injustice of such changes as you propose," said the message to Senator Borah, "the citizens of Poland will rise in arms to defend the integrity of their domain. The responsibility for the resulting world strife, which will certainly follow in the steps of any attempts to partition Poland, will then fall heavily on all those who suggest such changes."

Prof. Frost of Yerkes Observatory in Hospital

Dr. Edwin B. Frost, director of the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., and professor of astro-physics at the University of Chicago, is at the Billings Memorial hospital on the university campus, where physicians are to decide whether it will be necessary to perform an operation for gallstones. He was taken to the hospital on Wednesday. His condition last evening was described as good. Dr. Frost, who is 65 years old, became ill while at work in the observatory.

DR. TERRY, EARLY PROFESSOR AT U. OF C., IS DEAD

Dr. Benjamin Stuytes Terry, a member of the first faculty of the University of Chicago and for thirty-three years professor of English history on the Midway, died yesterday in his suite at the Hotel Windermere, following a long illness.

Dr. Terry was one of the scholars brought to Chicago in 1892 by William Rainey Harper, and held the first chair of English history in the United States. He continued in active service until he was made professor-emeritus in 1925. From 1895 to 1899 he was dean of the Senior colleges at the university.

Dr. Terry came of a pioneer family that was prominent in the settlement of the Northwest Territory. A maternal grandfather, Judge John A. Wakefield, led the expedition for the relief of Fort Dearborn, and was one of the earliest settlers in Illinois. Dr. Terry's father, John Carlos Terry, was the first editor of the Pioneer Press of St. Paul.

Born in St. Paul, April 9, 1857, Dr. Terry received the A. B. degree at Colgate university in 1878 and the A. M. at the same institution in 1881. He took the doctorate of philosophy at the University of Freiburg in Germany in 1892.

In 1881, Dr. Terry married Miss Mary Baldwin of Troy, N. Y. His widow and three children survive; Schuyler Baldwin Terry, vice president of the Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation; Mrs. Edith Terry Bremer, general secretary, immigrant girls division, the Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. Ethel Terry McCoy, who formerly was assistant professor of chemistry at the university.

Funeral services will be held in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TRAPPED MINER'S HEROISM SAVES SELF AND CHUM

Mocanaqua, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The rescue o ftwo miners entombed for 133 hours after an explosion which killed four others in the West End mine, today cast John Thomasunis in a hero's rôle. He is 40 years old, the father of seven children and in his long fight against death he never gave up hope.

With Joseph Matzoni, 22, he was taken from the mine early today and placed in a hospital which tonight reported both men fully recovered.

While steadying his younger companion, Thomashunis directed the exhausting fight against cold and dined out food rations he had carefully hoarded.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Rose Curtis, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and fiancé Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's solicitous as his wife. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of her universe. Wallace and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma spoils their pleasure because of her worry over the baby. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred eludes her guard and elopes with Scott. Wallace accuses Irma of marrying Mildred off to be rid of her. They quarrel and Irma leaves, taking the baby with her to New York. She meets Carlos Gonzales and they form a dancing partnership. They get an engagement in a second rate night club.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

IRMA DEVELOPS NEW WORRIES.

On Thursdays Miss March was free from dinner time till ten thirty. It was a paltry amount of recreation, but it was all she required and all that Irma could give. As it was every Thursday saw Irma with a blinding headache due to worry lest Miss March overstay her time.

It was on a Thursday evening while Irma lay on her daybed reading the evening paper that the baby coughed. She ran in to look at him. He was not feverish. Perhaps just a tickling in the throat. Before Irma left that night he had coughed many times and when she looked in on him at five-thirty his head felt hot and he was wakeful. She returned to the living room and dozed till eight o'clock, then from the telephone book she picked the doctor who lived nearest and called him.

He proved to be a gruff, middle-aged man and one with very little time to spare. "Him, slight temperature," he said. "Have this prescription made up. Give it to him every three hours. Don't give him any solid foods. Keep him in bed. Telephone me at six o'clock tonight."

All the thoughts that tortured Irma whenever the baby caught cold gathered about her now in full force. Cold was a harbinger of so many dread diseases. That cough was tight and rasping. Now would be a fine time for a serious seige. What a sap she'd been to expose the baby to such circumstances. Who knew anything about this doctor?

All day long she tended the baby, sending Miss March to sit in the living room. He would take no broth or oatmeal water. All he did was cough. At five-thirty she called the doctor. He had not returned to his office yet. At six he was not in. At six-fifteen she told him there was no improvement.

At eight-thirty when his office hours were over he came again. After a day of distracted mothers he was in no mood to be polite to another one. At three dollars a call a man can't be expected to give strength, courage and good cheer with every call.

"Put some mustard plaster on his chest."

"What's the child doing?" he asked.

"Coughing," Irma replied.

"Well, he was doing that this morning, wasn't he?"

"Yes, but I expected it to loosen up some by now."

"It hasn't, eh? Put some mustard plasters on his chest. Know how to do 'em? Get a pencil. I'll give you the proportions to use."

He gave her the proportions for mixing the old faithful mustard plaster. "There, stick that on his chest every four hours. Keep it on till the skin starts to react, gets pink, I mean. Take it off then or it'll blister his chest. Call me tomorrow if there's no improvement. Thank you. O, haven't you anything smaller than that?"

Miss March, having just been paid, was able to furnish three dollars and the doctor with a brief "Thank you, goodnight" was gone.

It was hard to pull herself away that night. At one o'clock Miss March headed to give him the second mustard treatment. Would she be able to do it without burning him? Probably not. And was it only a cold? Did that doctor know what he was talking about? Poor baby, the harsh grating sound of his cough was terrible to hear. His throat must be raw and painful.

Irma went to the Club Denise feeling miserably heavy of heart.

At half past one Irma went into the patron's ladies' room and telephoned home. Miss March said that she had applied the plaster, had not burned the child's chest, and that he could not get to sleep because of the coughing. Rather could she, Miss March added.

"Well, don't go to sleep," Irma ordered. "Suppose he should strangle with the cough. You stay up. When I get home you can go to bed and sleep all day."

"All right," said Miss March.

Promptly upon Irma's arrival at five-thirty Miss March went to bed. She said she was dead tired. Irma could understand that. She was dead tired, too. She sent Miss March to the daybed and the exhausted lady slept till half past three that afternoon. Then Irma went to sleep.

When she awakened at half past eight the world had a rosier hue. She felt rested and refreshed, but, best of all the baby's cough had loosened greatly, his temperature was normal and he had willingly taken some broth.

Yes, the doctor had been right. It hadn't been a thing under the sun except a cold. Still for a day or so it had been alarming enough to make her stop and think. Where the hell was she going anyhow? Not her so much but the baby. Where was he going? What was his future? Certainly she was never going to be a tremendous wage-earner. Even a good salary in Loop business was only temporary.

And was she going to be able to earn a good salary? Carlos thought so, but then he was not a great one for facing facts. Probably by saving carefully while the sun shone it would be possible for her to always keep and feed herself and little Martin. But giving him a place to sleep and food to eat wasn't enough. She wanted so much more than that for him.

He should have his own little room, oceans of amusing, instructive toys, some one to prepare nourishing, well-cooked meals, some one else—O, very much one to care for him, and when he was ill he should have good physicians of good reputations were well-known and reassuring. The best was none too good for him. The roses in his cheeks should become pinker, there should be a glowing tan upon the little body and a brighter, clearer look in his eyes. Should he have to spend this coming summer in the stuffy little apartment as he had every other summer in apartments like it? Was there nothing better in store for this child than sketchily educated nursemaids who neglected to clean his mind of him than sketchily educated nursemaids who couldn't answer questions intelligently?

Thrace would have given him little more than she could provide. In fact nothing more than a secure roof over his head. That much, she vowed, she would always give him. She had done the child no wrong by taking him with her on this uncertain adventure. Wallace didn't want him. If he had by this time he would have found him. Still it was an uncertain adventure that she had embarked upon. The passing years would cripple her for money-making while they would bring the baby ever closer to the time when he needed a fine education, good clothes, and all the advantages to which youth is entitled.

The hours during which she should have slept were hideous now with worry and fear. When she arose tired and heart-sick the baby's first question to her was answered with a sharp command for quietness after which Irma usually burst into tears.

It was after the "Saint's Day" dance one night that Robbie came to Irma's dressing room.

"Dear," he said, "there's a gentleman sitting in a banquette along the wall who'd like to talk to you."

"Robbie, you promised that I wouldn't have to meet men. Why didn't you put him off like you did the others?"

"This is different, dear. He knows you."

"He knows me? What's his name?"

"He didn't say. He called me over and said 'Ask the lady in the Spanish dance to step over here when she has time.' I said 'She doesn't speak English and her husband is a tough Spaniard with two knives.' And, my dear, he said—not that I believe a word of it—but he said 'She speaks better English than you do and her husband works in a collar factory up state.' I said 'You have the wrong lady,' and he said, 'her name's Graham and do as I told you.' So there you are, my dear."

Irma's heart beat swiftly as she changed into the brief costume for the dance. Her first guess had been that the stranger was Wallace. But Wallace would never have referred to his business in so disrespectful a manner. Bill Fitzroy then? Robbie's description of how the conversation went didn't sound like Bill, either. Who then? As soon as she was through she ran into the little foyer that adjoined the main room. Only part of the east wall was visible from that point. Wide, gilded pillars hid many of the patrons from her view and evidently her acquaintance was behind one of them. Perhaps he was one of a dozen Thrace husbands whom she knew.

But as it turned out the man who had asked for her was not from Thrace. During the second dance she ran her eyes along the banquettes and encountered the smiling gaze of the red headed giant whom she had met at Zelli's in Paris. He had given his cabin to her and Wallace. She had promised to get in touch with him, but for the life of her she could not recall his name.

He gestured to the vacant seat beside him and sent her a questioning, inviting glance. After the dance, though it was her custom to stay in her dressing room between shows, she changed into street clothes and joined him.

Good morning!

A treat certainly awaits you at the Chicago this week! See "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" and die if you must, but DON'T die until you HAVE seen it!

Here is a truly fine picture. The story is simple, human, incredibly touching. Its presentation is one of the most adroit ever accorded a moving picture. Its star—WELL——

Helen Hayes is one of earth's comparatively few really "dear" people. You love her for herself, and you adore her for the undiluted joy her acting gives you. Stage training, unquestionably, is a great asset in the talking pictures, but God did a lot for this delightful little woman before she ever heard of the theater. As Madelon Claudet she inspires your laughter and your tears—and a positively ferocious allegiance.

If her acting is a triumph—her makeup is a revelation! You see her as a young, innocent and carefree Madelon; as a Madelon with face drawn and gray from childbirth; as a helpless, baffled, cornered Madelon in jail for a crime she didn't commit; as an old Madelon who has drunk to its dregs a bitter cup with lips that have never shrunk nor lost their faculty of smiling—and always she is in character, with perfect makeup ringing the changes of the years on that wonderfully mobile face.

Not from me shall you learn the story of this gay, indomitable French Madelon who takes the blows of Fate on the chin, with never a quiver, her eyes set on her goal, counting no step false that brings her nearer to it. I wouldn't tell you the story for anything! It must do to you what it did to me—and that was plenty. The "sin" of Madelon Claudet! Sin for which you could kiss the hem of her garment . . . !

See you tomorrow.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Haste makes waste is such an old saw that I hesitate to use it at all. Yet, like most smug proverbs, it contains much obvious truth, particularly when applied to defensive play at the bridge table.

Translating this thought into equally ancient bridge advice, we are told: Do not win the second trick if you cannot win the third. Like other don'ts in bridge, this rule is filled with exceptions. However, in the majority of situations it is sound advice, indeed. Take yesterday's play-a-problem, for instance:

NORTH
♥—7,3

WEST
♠—K,10,9,5,4

EAST
♥—J,10,9,5
♦—K,5,2

SOUTH (Dealer).
♦—Q,J,9

South bid one no trump. He held a no trump count of 15. There is some question whether an original heart bid should not have been made and certainly an opening bid of one heart could not be criticized.

However, the hand is of the no trump type of distribution and it is probable that it will play better at no trump. If it should be opened with a bid of one heart, West would pass, North would bid two diamonds, East would pass, and South would bid two no trumps, which would be taken to three by North.

With the slightly preferable opening of one no trump West passed, North had a no trump count of 11, more than sufficient for a raise in no trumps. At the same time he had a biddable diamond suit.

He, therefore, bid two diamonds, which told his partner that he had sufficient strength for a raise to two no trumps, but that he also held a five card diamond suit, headed by a high card trick. East passed and South bid three no trumps.

South pictured North as holding some strength aside from the diamonds and hoped that this strength lay in spades. He also felt sure that he could set up the diamonds since he held the Q, J, and 9 of the suit in his own hand.

This bidding was sound enough and ordinarily would have produced game. South reckoned, however, without West's shrewdness.

West opened the ♠ 10, on which South played the J from his dummy, which was overtaken by East's A. East then led back the ♠ 5, South played the 7, and West stopped to think.

He knew that if he took this trick with his K and then led back the 9 that his two remaining spades would be good. He also knew that his partner would have no spades left. West was not at all sure that, with the long diamond suit in the dummy, he would ever be allowed to get back in the lead with his only entry, the ♥ K. It looked as if South must establish his diamonds in order to make game and that East's one chance to get in the lead would be with a high diamond, if he had one. Assuming that East would get in with a diamond, it would do West no good unless East has a spade to lead. West, therefore, decided not to take the second trick in spades, since he could not take the third.

Consequently he played his ♠ 8 instead of his king and South, taking the trick with the queen, dummy, led a club back to his own hand and then led the ♦ Q for the finesse. East won with the king and led the ♠ 3, which stopped game and set South. Had East had no ♠ 8 to lead, any other lead would have put South back in control and allowed him to run out his game.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K. etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Doctors, Social Experts Meeting Here.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The United States occupies a shameful position among nations with regard to its maternal mortality rate, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, commissioner of health, told members of the Chicago regional White House conference at a dinner in the Palmer house last night.

"The United States is not a safe place in which a woman may bear a child now," said Dr. Bundesen. "Our maternal death rate is 7 per 1,000 births, one of the worst records afforded by any country. Every year 16,000 women lose their lives in child bearing, most of them needlessly.

"Chicago has lowered its infant death rate to 53 out of 1,000, a lower rate than that recorded in most large cities. But it is still too high. A significant thing is that 50 per cent of all infants who die in Chicago before they are 1 year old die within four weeks after birth, which means that with proper prenatal care they probably could have been saved.

"For every child we must create two things: full preparation for birth, with prenatal care and instruction, and adequate prevention against communicable disease," Dr. Bundesen continued. "The morbidity of children is highest before the fifth year, concentrating in the third year. It is the pre-school child we must reach with immunization.

"In 1930 there were 411 deaths from diphtheria in Chicago," Dr. Bundesen added, "and about half of these were among children of pre-school age. The Chicago health department is entering an intensive diphtheria prevention campaign among the children of from six months to six years of age, and is developing a routine plan of procedure for regular all-year-round immunization. The work in the schools will be continued as before.

"Mothers are advised to take their children to the doctor for toxoid injection at six months of age. If unable to have a doctor they are urged to go to one of the health department infant welfare stations or to the nearest school, where treatment will be given free."

William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools in Chicago, presided at the dinner. Governor Louis L. Emmerson spoke, pointing out that a recent statewide survey showed that 10,000 children in Illinois are suffering from serious physical handicaps, and indicating that a further examination might swell the figure to 16,000.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago spoke briefly.

"There is no use attempting to conceal from ourselves that before the present crisis is over it may demand a new attitude on our part toward the function of the United States government in relation to just such work as you're engaged in," Dr. Hutchins said.

"It does no good to utter vague generalties about the beauty and value of the child. That is no more important than singing 'Sonny Boy,'" Dr. Hutchins said. "A children's charter, such as was formed at the White House conference, is nothing unless something is done about it, unless it carries rights and duties recognized throughout the United States."

Dr. H. E. Barnard of Washington, representing Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior; Miss Julia C. Lathrop, Rockford, former chief of the United States Children's bureau; Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor Journal of American Medical Association; Henry P. Chandler, chairman governor's commission on child welfare; Dr. John Dewey of Columbia university, Miss Mary McDowell of the University of Chicago settlement, and Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to the president A Century of Progress exposition, also spoke.

Earl of Dumfries to Wed Eileen Forbes, Kin of Ogden Mills

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Lady Eileen Forbes, younger of the two daughters of the Earl and Countess of Granard and granddaughter of the late Ogden Mills of New York, has announced her engagement to the Earl of Dumfries, son and heir of the Marquess and Marchioness of Bute. Lady Eileen, who is 19, has frequently visited the United States with her mother.

The Earl of Dumfries is 24 years old. He is a keen ornithologist and recently purchased the Island of St. Kilda to preserve bird life there and provide opportunities to study.

Three years ago his coming of age ended a tragic tradition that the head of the Bute family would never see the coming of age of his heir. Bonfires blazed at Rothsay and along the Kyles of Bute to celebrate the end of a curse which stood for five generations. One of the heads of the Dumfries family which is descended from the kings of Scotland, was executed for murder in 1612 in the palace yard at Westminster.

U. S. Gets Old Home of Francis Scott Key; Antique Shop Now

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—For years a hardware store and an antique shop, the residence occupied for two decades by Francis Scott Key has been purchased by the government. The old building, remodeled recently for a business structure, was taken over by the national capital park and planning commission. The author of "The Star Spangled Banner" also maintained his office in the home during the many years he practiced law here. The planning commission seeks to have some patriotic society take over the building and restore it.

Friendly Foes Get Chance in Bridge Contest

For Charity Goes to the Outsiders.

This Chicagoland Golden Cards bridge tournament which is to be held on Dec. 3 will settle a lot of discussion about relative abilities at contract and auction.

One snappy, usually good natured business executive who signed up yesterday for a table expressed his sentiments thus:

"My wife and I have been playing bridge several times a month with—or rather against—another couple. Call them the Smiths. They are fine people, but how I hate the way they play contract! Whenever they beat my wife and me they crow, not openly, but in a subdued, pitying sort of way.

"They hold postmortems and tell us, in a kindly way, where we made our mistakes. Now, the truth of the matter is that our bridge is as good as theirs—in all modesty I think it's a little better. But you can't beat the fall of the cards, and naturally they win sometimes.

"This is our chance. We are going to get those Smiths into a real contest, where the cards are equalized and only skill counts. If we win I am going to crow because it will be settled definitely who is better. Besides that, I am going to have the good knowledge that I have done a little bit more to help the poor in these hard times."

How many homes are there in Chicagoland where Smiths are lording it over neighbors who play well enough, but are outtalked? Here is a chance to make them prove they are good, and if they aren't they can be put to silence any time by showing them the Golden Cards that go to the winning team at each table. Either contract or auction may be played.

The Chicagoland Golden Cards tournament is for the expert, the average player and the one who admits he is a dub. For the expert there is always ahead the finals, in which those chosen form the contestants in the Dec. 3 battles are to fight in team play against the other most skilled players in the district.

Whether you want to settle the neighbors or to try out against the bridge scientists, this is the time. All you have to do to enter is to forward to THE TRIBUNE your order for cards. Four hands will be played and the four prearranged packs are needed for each table. The price per pack is $2 and a table thus comes to $8. All the proceeds over the actual cost of the cards go to relief funds. In other words, more than $6 out of every table's remittance goes to buy food and clothing for the distressed.

For those who enter the finals there will be chances to win handsome trophies.

The method of play is simple. Four deals are to be played. Charles True Adams, bridge expert for THE TRIBUNE, will explain the rules at 8:15 the tournament evening and at 9:15 will explain the correct solution of the first hand. The play is to begin at thousands of bridge tables promptly at 8:30. Rules will be made plain frequently in these columns before the tournament day.

Already the response to the tournament's announcement has been splendid. Twenty-one hotels have volunteered to give parties in their card rooms, a number of clubs, lodges and other organizations are cooperating, and several newspapers in towns outside of Chicago are conducting their own Golden Cards tournaments.

"Feminine, but Not Fluffy," Fashion's Latest Admonition

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whether you believe that clothes make the woman or not, you've got to agree that they do a powerful lot in making the woman beautiful. In fact, to the dress they wear, to the style they adopt, may be ascribed the pictorial success of countless numbers of our present day good looking women.

It looked for a time as if this fashion friend of the beauty seeker were going to hat her out of being. But things are getting more settled as time goes on. Women are treating themselves to cheapeaux that are modified versions of the hated, hard lines of earlier presentation. Their former pained expression of face is ironed out with the appearance of more human cine of brim and trimming. So, times (hat times) look brighter.

Now, there was another little edict issued early in the season that can use modification, too.

Women were urged and sworn into looking feminine. Some took the order so to heart they managed instead of looking chic, to look fluffy. So at the current moment there is a movement on foot to prevent women from going fluffy. Their slogan is: "Be feminine—but not fluffy." And a certain amount of propaganda is being aimed at the coiffure.

Women were told that they must let the hair grow. Well, they let it grow—and in a good many cases they would have been smarter looking if they hadn't let it grow. They've let it grow wild around the ears, back of the ears, and along the back of the neck. There isn't always that neat touch of care and grooming to the head that there was when the short locks drove women more frequently to cut and trim and wave.

There are a lot of gee-gaws interpreted by the feminine mind as feminine touches. Garish, if not trashy, costume jewelry is one of these. A surfeit of this sort of ornamentation, I mean. Not well chosen, tasty costume jewelry, which often makes the ensemble what it should be. And frilly collars that sometimes destroy the neckline beauty. We women can't take fashion orders too seriously. There's always that later order, in which modification is the big note, that we can hold back for.

Mother Who Rears Her Child Single Handed Needs Vigorous Touch

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The same parent I mentioned the other day scolded me some more. Women are too soft and gentle, he said. They stand for too much from the children. They need men to supply the brutality in the family, to counteract their tenderness.

I wasn't shocked, "hard boiled" as it may sound, for I knew just what he meant—and agreed with him. For, of course, he didn't mean it literally when he said fathers supply the brutality.

Probably Nature, when she, for purposes of her own, divided the one cell organism into the higher form of two sexes, arranged for a division of qualities, too. The masculine represents the aggressive, the fighting, the tougher fibered qualities; the feminine, the more nurturing, the more gentle, the more conserving qualities—both essential to the physical and spiritual life.

Even if she does become stern, the sternness of a mother is usually different from the sternness of a father. The maternal love is different from the paternal love. The maternal protectiveness is different from the paternal protectiveness. The fun of a father is different from the fun of a mother—a father's fun is more apt to be physical rough and tumble and even slapstick and nonsense, while a mother's is more apt to be humorous and joking, not so rough.

In each case the quality is modified by the essential differentness of the two sexes. Both are good for the child—they represent a natural balance that is an integral part of what we mean by the family.

There are exceptions where the natural balance is destroyed—such as, where one or the other parent has to bring up the children single handed. Under these conditions you have to try to restore the balance. If you're a father you have to supply the patience and gentleness their mother would give them.

And if you are one of the many mothers who are trying to bring up their children single handed, you should try to get into your handling of them some of the robustness, the vigor, the heartiness, the sternness and the strength that the ideal father represents. Make yourself conscious of the need and you will find yourself less easily shocked, more ready to laugh, more definite in your management and living with a more vigorous gesture.

Cinderella Girl Explains Miracle of Transformation

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A tiny drop of perfume, a clever bit of paint, may make the unpopular maiden a girl of many dates.

Anway, "Nevis's" formula offers the cosmetic lures, along with others, to girls who pine away under telephones that never ring. And "Nevis" is sure she knows. She used to be one of the girls men forget. For a long time it wasn't her fault. She was an only child, brought up so strictly that she couldn't bob her hair when all the other girls did. She couldn't use rouge. She was allowed out only with a boy whose parents were known and approved by her parents. Her clothes were few, economical, practical, and hideously sensible, to date with the waving iron. She much so, but of a color her mother disapproved of, as too hysterical. Then, for the big extravagance—a bottle of perfume. She bought a good make, delicate, teasing.

Then, one day, Nevis decided there was only one person who could help her fill up that lonesome evening program of hers. Her name was Nevis. She was over 21, earning a good living, and had the right to dictate her looks, anyway. In return for a searching mirror gaze, she saw a passable face, but colorless; rather nice eyes, but inch thick eyebrows; good hair but old maidish coiffure.

She took herself to a beauty parlor, had the hair cut off and brought up to date with the wavin giron. She had her eyebrows thinned and got a manicure. The operator suggested the rouge. And when the mirror was turned over for final inspection, Nevis felt like Cinderella on the way to the ball.

A new kind of dress followed, as the next purchase. A bit fluffy, not too

Next day, a man in the office noticed her, who'd never given her more than a curt "good morning" before. She enrolled with a gym class just to have somewhere to go to "brighten" her, she tells. She got in on a dancing class and tuned up her toes so she wouldn't be a drag at a party.

"I was a terrible dancer, at first," she reports, "but believe it or not, the time came when every dance was taken."

Nevis learned another trick as she watched how the other girls did it. She didn't let them know how much she knew. She practiced letting them think they knew twice as much as she.

Reed Athletic Field to Open Next Saturday

BY THALIA——

THE splendid new athletic field and fieldhouse known as the Kersey Coates Reed campus and given to the Chicago Latin school by Mrs. Reed and her sister, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, in memory of Mr. Reed, is to be dedicated with appropriate and quite elaborate ceremonies next Saturday morning.

Dr. George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation and A. Alonzo Stagg are each to give a dedicatory talk, and besides there is to be a brass band and singing by the school boys. The program will wind up with a football game between the Latin school and the North Shore Country day. (Can't you imagine how those lads will play with Coach Stagg looking on?) The program is to begin at 9:30 and the game at 10:30. Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. are making the arrangements for the dedication.

The campus is located at Addison street and California avenue. Ask any of the boys, though, if they'd rather have the old days back with football practice in Lincoln park. They go out after school in a bus for all the various athletics. The fieldhouse is beautifully equipped with showers, locker rooms, and a big general assembly room. The property is 10 acres in area, and some day the school may be there, too. Now there are the tennis courts, the football field, and the baseball diamond.

Elsa Armour's Wedding to W. I. Osborne Jr. Set for Dec. 2.

The marriage of Miss Elsa Armour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour of 209 Lake Shore drive, and W. Irving Osborne Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Osborne of Evanston, is to take place on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 4:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's, with a small reception following at the Casino. The wedding date has just been set, but the bridesmaids and ushers haven't yet been asked to be in the bridal party.

The presentation of two debutantes, Miss Jane Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine of 1322 Ritchie court, and Miss Garrigue Gallagher, daughter of the Michael Gallaghers of Highland Park, took place yesterday at receptions and teas at their respective residences.

Miss Valentine wore a gold metal cloth gown trimmed with kolinsky and carried her grandmother's gold and ivory fan in place of the usual bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine gave a small supper party for their daughter and her assistants after the tea.

Miss Gallagher's coming out dress was of white lace with a deep band of fur trimming and her flowers were an arm spray of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher are to take Miss Garrigue and her assistants and escorts to the Cradle dance this evening at the Drake.

Junior Leaguers Take Several Roles Each in Their Show.

Such a getting into and getting out of costumes as there's going to be behind the scenes of "The Strange Adventures of Dr. Doolittle," the Junior league's first children's play of the winter, to open a week from this morning!

Almost all the actresses, except Mrs. Richard W. Gambrill Jr., who's to be the doctor himself, are taking several rôles, and the costume mistresses, Mrs. Richard Fleming and Miss Sophie Harrington, will have to be on the watchout or a pirate will "go on" as a monkey or a bull or something.

Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. is to be Matthew Mugg, the cat's meat man, and Prince Bumpo; Helen Pope, Polynesia, the parrot; Helen Tieken, Sarah Doolittle; Katherine Drake, Miss Bentover, a sailor, the bedmaker in Spain, and a bull in the bullfight; Mrs. Robert McKenna, a bailiff, an organ grinder, and a pirate; Mrs. Frank Sims, a baboon, a pirate, a bull, a bailiff's assistant, and a cannibal; Mrs. Wilbur Calhoun Smith, Jyp, the dog; Jane Condon, Gub-Gub, the pig; Mrs. Horace Holcomb, Dad-Dad, the duck; Mrs. Edward L. Hersey Jr., Mrs. Bulgy, Ermintrude, and Ben Ali, the pirate captain; Mrs. Prentiss Andrews, Chee-Chee, the monkey, and a pirate; Mrs. Ronald Chinnock, a horse and a pirate; Mrs. James F. Oates Jr., the king of Jolliginky, Don Enrique, and the head of the bullfighters; Frances Weary, captain of the Jolliginky army, the Grand Gorilla, and Pepito, the bullfighter; Mrs. Robert White Jr., Tiny Monkey and a bull; Mrs. Allen Newton, the chief chimpanzee; and Ann Robinson, Shoo-Shoo, the small monkey. Betty Jane Norcott, Charlotte Robertson, and Mary Fortune are to be in some of the dances, also. It's certainly an exotic assortment of characters, isn't it?

The league is to give a performance, really the last dress rehearsal, the afternoon before the opening, for an audience of crippled children.

Living Tableaux Nov. 17 for Olivet Institute Benefit.

The "who's to be who" in the Olivet institute's tableaux vivants to be given on Nov. 17 at Orchestra hall is a deep, dark secret not to be divulged until the evening of the performance. Even then, I believe, the audience is going to have to judge for itself just which local beauties are representing each of the pictures of international stage, screen, and society beauties in Cecil Beaton's "Book of Beauty" to be vivified, because the exact identification isn't to be made in the program. There are evidently to be 15 tableaux, because the cast includes 15 Chicagoans.

They are Mrs. Frank Wilhelm, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Shreve Badger, Miss Marjorie Horton, Mrs. J. Andrews King, Mrs. Adail E. Stevenson, Mrs. Thorne Donnelley, Miss Jane Schuttler, Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, Miss Eleanor Holden, Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, Mrs. Volney Foster, Mrs. Lloyd Laflin, Mrs. John Wentworth, and Mrs. Walter Paepcke.

Official announcements about the charity ball for the benefit of the unemployment relief fund will be forthcoming next week from the committees in charge under Howard Gillette's chairmanship. The date has not been definitely set as yet, but it is to be held early in December, and will be a revival of the charity ball held in the Auditorium in 1901.

The hunter trials committee of the Onwentsia Hunt has decided to make "a small charge for admission" for the trials, which were postponed from the Hunt meeting early in October until Nov. 7, and to give the proceeds to the unemployment relief fund. The trials are to be run off on the John F. Jelke Jrs.' farm at Wadsworth, Ill., at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Another pair of debutantes will make their bows today, Mr. and Mrs. Vail Rhodes Bucklin of 1415 Astor street will hold a reception and tea for their daughter, Imogene Edna, from 4 until 7 o'clock, and at the same time Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Gordon will receive with their daughter, Isabel, at their residence at 1430 Lake Shore drive. After the teas Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Bucklin will give a joint dinner-dance at the Tavern this evening for both buds and their assistants.

Charity Affairs Tonight at Drake, Tavern, Onwentsia.

Tonight's affairs will include the annual Cradle dinner-dance at the Drake, the Halloween dance at the Tavern, and the Halloween fair in the Onwentsia arena to benefit the Lower North Child Guidance center. Miss Elinor Farwell, chairman of the latter affair, is to give a large dinner party beforehand, as are also Miss Beatrice Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Otis, and Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith.

This thing and that—the women of the St. James parish guild will be busy on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week making mince meat from Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson's famous recipe for the annual bazaar to be held on Nov. 24. . . . "Tried Temptations," Mrs. J. Allen Haines' book of culinary treats, has just been brought out in a new edition that's larger and handsomer than the first one. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Blair are moving in from Lake Geneva next Wednesday to their new apartment at 70 East Cedar street. . . . The Gustavus F. Swifts have moved into town but are keeping their Lake Forest place open for week-ends. . . . Miss Margaret Quan is back from 7 months' travel abroad with her aunt, Mrs. John Holland. . . . Reservations for the English Speaking union dinner on Tuesday at the Blackstone have been made by Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Dixon, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Granger, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Mrs. William Burry, and Mrs. Andrew MacLeish.

The marriage of Miss Marion Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lewis of Honolulu, to Lieut. Oliver S. Picher, son of Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of Hubbard Woods, is to take place tomorrow in Honolulu, according to announcement received from Mrs. Picher, who is motoring in the east. Lieut. Picher is stationed at present with the army aviation corps at Wheeler field, Hawaii.

DEBUTANTE

Repeats Her Opposition to Censorship of the Movies

An educational program to replace censorship of motion pictures to raise the general quality of films was advocated yesterday by Mrs. Robbins Gilman at a meeting of the members of the Woman's City club, 6 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Gilman is returning to her home in Minneapolis from Rome. There she was the chief speaker at the International Cinematographic institute. She made a similar speech there.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was accompanied to the Library of Congress this afternoon by Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, widow of the secretary of the Smithsonian institution; Mrs. Henry Robinson of California, guest at the White House, and Miss Goss, newest of Mrs. Hoover's secretaries. They heard a program of Beethoven music played by foreign instrumentalists in the auditorium built by Mrs. Frederk S. Coolidge of Massachusetts who made possible these concerts through the establishment of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation. This morning Mrs. Hoover attended the morning session of the Goucher college alumnae in Baltimore, returning in the mid-afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Eskridge Saltzman, daughter of Secretary and Mrs. R. P. Lamont, was among the guests at dinner this evening of Col. and Mrs. Alfred T. Smith, who gave a dinner dance at the Shoreham.

Seeks Best of Indians for Restored Native Village

Herkimer, N. Y., Oct. 30.—(AP)—An Indian village which stood near Fultonville, N. Y., before the coming of the white man will be reproduced there by a wealthy Cleveland woman who hopes to people it with the best types of red men the United States department of interior can find for her.

Byrd's Chief Aid Will Talk Here at Luncheon Today

Dr. Laurence M. Gould, second in command of the Byrd antarctic expedition, will be the guest of honor at the annual post vacation luncheon of the Geographic Society of Chicago today at the Stevens hotel. The society's gold medal will be presented to Dr. Gould.

Rufus Dawes will speak on "Bringing the World to Chicago." Katherine Ewing, daughter of Charles Hull Ewing, a past president of the society, will talk about her experiences on a recent trip around the world. Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, president of the society, will preside at the luncheon program.

Dr. Gould's book, "Cold," telling of his 525 mile trek by sledge and ski to the spots where his scientific observations could be made, was published recently. Dr. Gould is a geologist on the University of Michigan staff.

Votes for Women of Philippines Urged by Mrs. P. J. Hurley

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The hard working, capable, and charming women of the Philippine islands gave Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley a crusader's conviction that they ought to be voters.

The young wife of the secretary of war revealed this today in telling what she did while her husband pondered independence problems in the light of first hand study of conditions. She said in effect that she had what is known as a grand time.

"It is my opinion"—Mrs. Hurley spoke earnestly—"that no nation can rise above the moral or intellectual standards of its women.

"The Philippine women will lead in the advancement of education and the building of the Philippine nation. They should be permitted to participate publicly in this work by having the right to vote."

Halloween Dance Tonight at the Congress Hotel

Delta chapter of Alpha Chi fraternity of De Paul university will hold its eighth annual Halloween dance this evening at the Congress hotel. Alumni and members of other chapters will be guests. Miss Marjorie Walsh will act as hostess. Charles Duffy, vice president of the fraternity, is chairman.

Beta Alpha chapter of Alpha Phi sorority will give a subscription dance after the Northwestern-Illinois football game this evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Funds will be used for a chapter house, building fund.

Minnesota University Plans 2 Year Law Course

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The University of Minnesota plans a new department of one and two year courses for students lacking financial means or ability for a four year course.

Sorority Dance Tonight.

The formal dinner dance of Theta Lambda Gamma national sorority will be held this evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Tomorrow afternoon the sorority will elect officers at a tea which will be given at the same hotel.

HOSTESS

MRS. C. E. PATTERSON.

Mrs. Charles E. Patterson, 1129 Columbian avenue, Oak Park, is hostess at the card party to be given today by the Mothers' club of Trinity High school, River Forest.

Cordon Club Tea.

Cordon club will be guests at a tea this afternoon at the studio of Miss Anna Lynch in the Tree building.

Carnegie Medals Given for Bravery; Some Heroes Dead

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Bearing the inscription "Greater love hath no man than this—that a man lay down his life for his friends," 43 silver and bronze medals today were awarded by the Carnegie hero fund commission to persons in 22 states of the Union.

In ten of this year's cases, where the recipients lost their lives in their attempts to save those of others, the awards were made posthumously, to relatives. Of the 43 awards three were silver medals and 40 were bronze. No gold medals, the commission's highest honor, were given.

The recipients of the silver medals were Dana R. Moody, 34 years old, of Elizabethton, Tenn., cited for his heroic attempt to save two persons from drowning at Hunter, Tenn., June 15, 1930; Theodore R. Wall, 22, a ship engineer, of Jersey City, N. J., who died at San Francisco Jan. 2, 1930, in his attempt to save another man from suffocation in a ship's hold, and Crescencio D. Fernando, 30, a chauffeur, of Cambridge, Mass., who rescued another man from rough waters at Nahant, Mass., May 20, 1930.

Infant Welfare Meeting.

The infant welfare committee of the Chicago Woman's club will give a benefit program this evening in the club theater. Mrs. Edward Lindeman, of the New York School of Social Research will speak and Miss Jane Addams will preside.

Who's Halloweening in your family today?

Homemade doughnuts are just the thing. Honey colored, crispy homemade puffs are excellent for many occasions—in-between bites, midnight snacks, the children's school lunches or to be served with cider for Halloween affairs. Have a large batch on hand for Halloween evening. The youngsters will like nothing better than to "dunk" brand new doughnuts in a glass of milk or a cup of hot chocolate. More than likely they will bring in their young friends for a snack after their exhausting Halloween activities.

You can do so many things in preparing doughnuts—fill them with fruit jams or jellies, lemon or orange custards blended with crushed berries, chopped nuts and raisins, or you may dress them up with cocoanut filling and then roll them in shredded cocoanut.

If you are going to make a large quantity of doughnuts you will want a straight-sided kettle; but if you're going to make only a dozen or so a heavy aluminum saucepan and an ordinary strainer are much better. The pan is much lighter than the kettle and it is both easier to handle and to clean, which means a saving in time and energy.

While even the best cooks do not turn out two doughnuts exactly the same, you can learn to make good doughnuts by following the instructions. A good basic recipe follows:

DOUGHNUTS.

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ teaspoon of soda
½ teaspoon of salt
¼ teaspoon of nutmeg
½ cup of sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon soft butter
1-3 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift the flour once, measure it, and add the cream of tartar, soda, salt, and nutmeg. Then sift the whole mixture together three times. Combine the sugar, egg, and butter and beat the mixture until it is light. Add the flour mixture alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time. Beat it after each addition until it is smooth. Turn it out on a floured board and knead lightly for two minutes. Roll the dough about one-third inch thick. Cut it with a doughnut cutter and let is rise for several minutes.

Fry in deep fat, about 385 degrees Fahrenheit, until the doughnuts are a rich brown. Continue turning the cakes frequently until they are done. It should take about two minutes, and then they should be a deep, even golden brown. Lift them out carefully with a fork through the hole, and be careful not to pierce the cake or break the crust. Lay them on unglazed paper on a wire rack to drain.

Should you want to serve fresh, hot doughnuts for special occasions in the afternoons and evenings make the dough and cut it into balls about one inch in diameter. Then put this into your refrigerator, board and all. Before serving time quickly fry the balls in a heated aluminum pan and when done roll in powdered sugar.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

A circular shaped peplum flounce added to the full circular skirt gives this smart dress individuality. And the neck and sleeve frills, the tailored jabot, button trimmed, and the tie belt add chic. Brick red sheer woolen with white organdy will be stunning, and tweed mixtures, ribbed wool jersey, and challis prints are other smart fabrics that are suitable.

The pattern, 3396, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Marabout Lines Our Winter Evening Wraps

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Among the most successful revivals from old time fashions may be counted the marabout lining for velvet evening wraps. Jane Regny is showing short and longish evening capes entirely lined with clipped marabout, and they are not only warm enough to wear in the worst winter weather but charming, too.

The short, dark red velvet evening cape shown here is lined throughout with pale pink clipped marabout, arranged in horizontal bands, and the two colors thus combined are simply ravishing. The cape is circular in cut, and edged around the bottom with a circular ruffle that extends up the front. One the left side at the neckline this ruffle straightens out and becomes a scarf that is draped around the neck. The cape is so cut that it may be held in, like a dolman around the waist, and is most warm thus worn.

The dress that goes with this cape is made of chiffon metal brocade in pale pearly tones of blue, pink, and silver. The bodice extends down in a deep point in front, and is low waistline length, also, in back. At the actual waistline it is shirred so that it drapes.

The décolleté is square in front and round in back, and the front shoulder straps are tied at the back of the neck as shown in the small sketch. The back shoulder straps are snapped on to the front under these ties. The skirt of this dress is instep length and flared by three circular godets from the hips set in at the sides and the center front.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Scarsdale, N. Y. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Franklin Hardinge Jr., son of Franklin Hardinge of Chicago. Miss Mitchell was graduated from the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry, and attended the School of Fine Arts in Boston. Mr. Hardinge was graduated from Dartmouth in the class of '31, and is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, and the Dragon honorary senior society. The wedding is to take place in January.

Mrs. Henry J. Bohn of 10930 Prospect avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth, to Donald P. Blake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Blake of 10835 South Hoyne avenue. Mr. Blake is a graduate of Cornell university and a member of Phi Delta Theta and Phi Alpha Delta fraternities. Miss Bohn is a member of Lambda Phi sorority. The wedding will take place in December.

Methodists to Share in $1,000,000 for Doctrines

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The will of Worth Kirkpatrick, Connellsville banker, filed for probate here, specifies that the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is to share in his $1,000,000 estate, if the church does not depart from these doctrines.

"The creation of heaven and earth and mankind as set forth in the book of Genesis; the virgin birth of Jesus Christ; the earthly mission of Jesus Christ, his crucifixion, death, burial and ascension into heaven as taught in the present King James or revised version of the New Testament."

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 30.—Wisconsin and Minnesota have had their football differences over such a long stretch of years that it should be old stuff by now. But it isn't. They're going to add the 40th chapter to their gridiron lore tomorrow and 50,000 people are expected to see the struggle which will oust one or the other from the unbeaten class in the Big Ten.

For some reason, perhaps because the moist gloomy weather of the last week has depressed them, the Gophers fear they are going to be the ones forced out of the unspanked conference ranks. On the other hand, the Badgers, who arrived late this evening, were making no boasts of their prowess. They mentioned casually that they are protected by reserves such as only a Notre Dame team usually possesses. Point also was made of the fact that the team is up again out of the depths into which it was tossed by Pennsylvania last week. These are exactly the two things that are making affable Frits Crisler's Gophers a bit fretful.

Thistlethwaite Happy [?].

Wisconsin, in football, is a traditional puzzle. It loses when it should win and frequently comes up with an unexpected victory over some team with championship possibilities. Also Wisconsin has a traditional blues singer in Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite. This year he has been as mute as a stringless violin. With more than a dozen shifty backs and at least a couple of good replacements for each line post he hasn't had the courage to moan one of his favorite melodies. That he isn't worried about his strength on offense has been demonstrated by his inclination to devote work for several days on a defense against the kind of attack the Gophers will try to shove down the throats of his young men.

The Badgers for several days have been given intensive instruction on the stopping of the canny Scot, Kenneth [Pee Wee] MacDougall, a 150 pounder with a fondness for going long distances afoot. The tiny Scot needs a dry field on which to exhibit his specialties and that's why all of Minnesota was praying tonight that rain or snow doesn't come down tomorrow after the canvas cover is yanked off the stadium turf. Another reason the Gophers hope for dry conditions is that anything else will hamper their passing attack, which with MacDougall's sprinting, is to their way of thinking all they possess. Not much faith is housed in their ability to gain by plunging.

Gopher Stars Out.

Crisler, after a final limited workout of his youthful talent this evening, conceded that he probably would have to get along tomorrow without Marshall Wells, regular left tackle, and Quentin Burdick, who is one of the two heavy men in the back field. Wells has a bad arm and Burdick a weak knee. Ken Gay, whose brother was a Gopher star of a few years ago, will fill Wells' place and Walt Haas will be where Burdick would be if his legs could carry him. Oen, the center, also is in such physical shape that a concerted Wisconsin power drive against the middle of the line might force him out of action.

What the Gophers have, and they admit it, is one of the best punters in the conference. He is Clarence Munn, whose folks would have selected a more formidable front name had they realized how well and fast he would grow. Munn, no relation of the famous Nebraska stars, is a bulky guard who in high school was a full back. The Gophers pull him back out of the line for punting purposes, but there is a possibility that on the morrow he also will be used as a ball carrier. In that rôle he might offset to a certain extent Minnesota's professed lack of driving power in the back field.

Badgers Have Casualties.

Wisconsin also has its injury problem, but it may not mean much. Buckets Goldenberg, quarterback, possesses a badly cut eye. Hal Smith, captain and left tackle, is supported by one sound and one injured leg. Simmons, who replaced Kruger as regular center in both the Purdue victory and the defeat at Penn, is another with a weak leg. Schiller will operate in Goldenberg's place and on offense is expected to prove the better of the pair. Goldenberg is powerful on defense and a good blocker, but as a ball carrier he is not so hot.

McGuire, the Hawaiian Irishman, is one man the Gophers are particularly concerned about. He's an excellent punter, but from a kicking formation can't be trusted. He might pass, which is another of his specialties. Schneller is another excellent lad at throwing 'em.

RIVALS CLASH FOR 23D TIME AT EVANSTON

Illini Seek First Big Ten Win.

The 23d renewal of one of the oldest football rivalries in the middle west will be staged at Dyche stadium in Evanston today when Northwestern meets Illinois before 40,000.

Today's encounter, held as it is amid all the tradition and sentiment engendered by games of the past, finds both teams set upon victory, but for widely different reasons. Victory for Northwestern means the Wildcats will continue in the race for the Big Ten title. The Illini will be seeking their first Big Ten victory in three starts this season.

In recent years Northwestern and Illinois have produced some of the hardest fought gridiron battles in Big Ten history. Barring last year's one sided Wildcat victory the engagements have all been evenly matched. The present series dates from Coach Dick Hanley's arrival at Northwestern in 1927, when the Illini upset Northwestern 7 to 6 at Dyche stadium. The following year the Orange and Blue once again won after a stubbornly fought game by a score of 6 to 0. The first Purple victory was hung up in 1929 by a score of 7 to 0. Last fall Northwestern defeated an inexperienced Illini eleven 32 to 0.

Illini Rely on Zuppke.

Northwestern figures a heavy favorite. The convincing fashion in which it disposed of Ohio State last Saturday proved the Wildcats are in good shape to wage a successful campaign in defense of their co-championship.

The Purple has flashed a running and passing attack in its appearances to date that is likely to overpower the visitors from Champaign. Much of the effectiveness of Northwestern's offense this fall has been offset by loose ball handling that has terminated numerous scoring opportunities. Throughout the last week Coach Hanley has endeavored to correct this weakness on the part of his ball carriers.

Illini supporters hope to balance the inexperience of their football talent with the oft-proven genius of their brilliant little coach, Bob Zuppke. He has seen the odds stacked heavily against him many times and has come forth with colors flying.

Upon his arrival in Chicago Thursday night Zuppke hied his squad to its retreat at the Wilmette Golf club, where it has remained in seclusion, not even venturing forth for the customary workout at Dyche stadium yesterday. Thus has fuel been added to the feeling that Zuppke plans something in the way of a big surprise today.

Olson Is Star.

Much of the reason for Northwestern's favoritism is the presence in the Wildcat back field of Pug Rentner, whose frequent sorties have made him a marked man. Rentner's ability to outstride his opponents, coupled with his passing proclivities, has made him the spark plug of the Wildcats' attack.

Ollie Olson, Wheaton sophomore, who stepped into the full back position following the injury of Reb Russell, has developed into a crack ball carrier. His punting ability likewise has made him a formidable performer. Al Moore, who replaces the injured Ken Meenan at left half, and George Potter, another sophomore, will complete the back field.

Although not so heavily publicized as the ball carriers, the Northwestern line has been giving a creditable account of itself and is expected to play a prominent rôle in today's proceedings. The bulwark of the Purple forwards is concentrated in a quartet of seniors, Marvil and Riley, tackles, and Evans and Engebretsen, guards. With the exception of Evans, who weighs less than 180 pounds, the other three members of this group scale well over 200 pounds each.

Cook Will Play.

Against such an array of talent the Illini will present an eleven composed largely of sophomores. It is highly probable Zuppke will start a lineup in which seven players will be first year men. The only veteran in the Illini starting line is Nusspickel, left guard.

The back field boasts of three upper classmen in Berry and Evans, half backs, and Schultz, full back. Waiser, quarter back, is the only sophomore in the ball carrying brigade. However, Cook, who is nursing injuries at the moment, is slated to see action at half during the afternoon.

Game on Air

Beginning at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon, Quin Ryan goes on the air for WGN with a description of the football game between Northwestern and Illinois. The game will not start until 2 o'clock, but Ryan will use the extra 20 minutes to create the proper picture in the minds of his listeners.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Taking a stroll through the cauliflowers over at Brown's gymnasium any of these afternoons you will meet up with Art Winch of the firm of Pian & Winch, holders of the managerial rights to Earl Mastro, who next Wednesday night may be the featherweight champion of the world.

And what will Mr. Winch be doing? Probably he will be thumbing the record books searching for evidence to convince you that the bout at the Stadium between Mastro and Battalino Wednesday evening is a momentous occasion for your Father Dearborn.

Mr. Winch is not primarily a conversationalist. He speaks in one inch words, calling a spade a spade and a Latin root something entirely different. But as a historian he knows it all, from the days of John L. Sullivan right down to Max Schmeling.

After three weeks of intensive research Prof. Winch came up the other night with the amazing discovery that it has been 37 years since a Chicago born fighter has had a chance to win a world's championship.

"Think of that!" he exclaimed. "Not since the days of Jimmy Barry has a native son been among the fistic elite. Sammy Mandell, Bud Taylor, and a few others adopted Chicago as their home, but none of them was born here.

"If there is an ounce of civic patriotism left in the ranks, Chicago will show its appreciation for this unusual opportunity by stampeding the Stadium box offices in their support of Mastro. It may be 37 years before the boys have another chance to whoop it up for one of their own.

"Another thing," added Dr. Winch, with a flare for the historical, "never has a title match been presented in this neighborhood with a $5.99 top."

By this time we were purple with excitement.

"Who do you think will win the bout?" we inquired.

"Well, I'm not much for bragging, but Earl is in the best condition of his life. Fighting any other featherweight in the world he would be a cinch. But this boy Battalino is a puzzle. He's had more strange battles than the Illinois Vigilance association. Against palookas out in the sticks he looks like a cheese champion. But when he tosses his crown into the ring he's a fightin' fool. Anybody who can whip Kid Chocolate and Fidel La Barba the way he did has got something. You can't figure what he is going to do unless you believe the weather prophets are always right.

"I can say with all sincerity that Earl is prepared to uphold the glorious traditions of his home town. If Battalino is in as good condition their match will be a saga of fistiana (Atta boy, Art) and if he isn't my boy will chase him back to Hartford."

The strange angle of Mastro's preparation for Wednesday's title fight is that no anonymous correspondent has informed him that Battalino will win by two touchdowns.

No sporting event is official these days unless some unidentified gentleman gets a column in the papers about what is going to happen to so and so unless he does such and such. It started when Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame revealed that a dear friend who forgot to sign his name warned him that the Pittsburgh Panther would chew his team into fine bits.

Then a correspondent whose name was not disclosed sent a piece to the Daily Maroon, student paper at the University of Chicago, urging Mr Stagg to resign. This was followed by letters from a mysterious W. Burzik to three Minnesota players offering them $1,500 to throw the football game with Wisconsin.

It must be pretty good.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 30.—Folks in these parts like to see Notre Dame play football and 70,000 are expected at Pitt stadium tomorrow, even if the home boys, Wally Steffen's Carnegie Tech Tartans, are on the short end of 5 to 1 betting.

Pitt's big bowl never was full until last year when the Irish filled it against Pitt. And just to show the Skibos they play no favorites in the matter of drawing in the customers, Hunk Anderson's lads propose to pack the establishment to the top rails tomorrow afternoon. The ticket sellers say it's a sell out if the weather man behaves as he has promised to.

There were some showers today, but not enough to keep the Notre Dame squad from taking a workout along the sides of the big tarpaulin at the stadium. At the same time Tech was working out on its own athletic field.

Forecast: Cloudy, But Dry.

The prediction for tomorrow is cloudy but dry and a temperature somewhere in the forties. A crisp day, perhaps, but isn't it about time for the players to work in an invigorating atmosphere?

Pittsburgh observers say Coach Steffen has the weakest squad in five years and two defeats, 10 to 7 at the hands of W. and J. and 13 to 6 from Purdue, seem to carry evidence in this contention, despite a 13 to 0 win over Georgia Tech and a 25 to 0 licking accorded Buffalo.

Coach Anderson anticipates no trouble in disposing of the Tartans if his team plays the kind of football he expects them to play—the kind of football they've been playing all season. But Hunk isn't posing when he warns against overconfidence.

Hunk Remembers 1926.

No one writes or talks about Notre Dame, Carnegie, and Hunk Anderson without recalling the shocking happening in 1926 when Notre Dame, bent on winning a national title, got knocked off by Carnegie here, 19 to 0. The late Knute Rockne, as you've been reminded in recent items, was in Chicago that day to see the Army and Navy game. Anderson was in charge of the team during its shocking experience.

Much more is made of this 1926 upset than a 27 to 7 blistering which Carnegie was able to fashion in the 1928 campaign. The 1928 Carnegie victory was not so much of an upset, thought it gave the Irish the only home defeat since Wabash turned the trick in 1905.

So, still thinking about the shooting pains of 1926, Coach Anderson is taking no chances. He will start his first string tears, or at least his first string back field, in the interests of forward pass defense.

Tartans to Start Fast?

It is believed that tomorrow the Tartans will follow an old policy of theirs, that of shooting the works at the outset. Most of the advantages they have gained over Notre Dame in recent years have been through the landing of precipitate punches immediately after the gong, and there now seems more reason for this type of attack than ever before. At least that's the way Notre Dame dopes things.

There also is certainty that Coach Steffen has been sitting back a bit for this contest. The Judge's talents

PREP COACH DIES AFTER BLOW BY HEAD LINESMAN

Statesville, N. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Ray Perdue, 24 years old, Statesville High school coach, was injured fatally today at Taylorsville, in a fight with Garfield Jennings, 22 years old, of Taylorsville, head linesman for a football game between Taylorsville and Perdue's team.

Near the close of the first half Coach Perdue stepped to the side lines and protested a decision to the referee. Jennings, witnesses said, struck him in the face with his fist and he dropped unconscious. Medical aid was given at once, but he died of concussion.

Michigan Pays Princeton Its First Grid Visit Since 1881

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 30.—Suffering from an epidemic of stiff neck after a two hour stopover in New York, where they looked at the high buildings for the first time, the Michigan football team will meet Princeton tomorrow in the first game between these schools since 1881.

The Wolverines came to Princeton under the general charge of Fielding H. Yost, their athletic director, who did not play in the 1881 game for one of two reasons. Either he was too young for the varsity 50 years ago, as he himself maintains, or too old, as other parties suggest. Princeton won the game by three touchdowns, two home runs, a straight flush, and two lengths, under the old rugby system of scoring, but in view of the comparative strength and proficiency of the two teams now, Michigan is expected to take belated revenge tomorrow.

Yost Predicts Fair and Warmer.

Mr. Yost, who is a goosebone weather prophet among other remarkable talents, examined the bark on the trees of the Princeton campus this afternoon and expressed a belief that because the wind was out of the north at that time the weather would be fair and warm for the game.

The team came east under the direct charge of Harry Kipke, the head coach, who will take the responsibility during the game. Mr. Yost, as athletic director, becomes active in the coaching only at times when Michigan is preparing to play the University of Illinois. After the boys beat Illinois last week, Mr. Yost took great pleasure in consoling his old friend Robert Zuppke, the Illinois coach, in Mr. Zuppke's own dialect, and promptly turned the team back to Mr. Kipke.

Show Historical Spots.

The historical and traditional background of Princeton interested the Michigan boys very much. They were shown where Woodrow Wilson had his office when he was president of the university, where Johnny Poe lived and, from a distance, the approximate location of the field in New Brunswick, N. J., where Princeton and Rutgers met in the first game of intercollegiate football which presently gave rise to the great autumn football dementia of the United States.

The practice was light and harmless on the Michigan side.

The Princeton team is composed largely of sophomores and the record to date consists of one victory, over Amherst, followed by three successive beatings by Brown, Cornell and Navy, in the course of which Princeton scored only seven points, those against Brown. Even this sophomore strength has been largely reduced by injuries at times, but the team probably will be close to normal tomorrow.

Michigan Not Inflated.

The Michigan athletes are not particularly inflated with the importance of their victory over Illinois last week. Still, there was some risk that the Wolverines might match the same temperamental error that betrayed the Wisconsin Badgers in their game with Penn last week. The Wisconsin boys were amazed and well pleased

UNCLE TOM, DOES MR. STAGG AGAIN FEAR PURDUE?

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Purdue university, which has long been the subject of Coach A. A. Stagg's number one brand of fears, comes to the Midway this afternoon for the thirty-seventh football encounter with the University of Chicago. And Coach Stagg's fears, once subject of jest, now are no longer synthetic but almost border on despair.

The Boilermakers, although they are out of the 1931 Big Ten race unless some team can stop the rampant Wildcats of Northwestern, remain one of the most versatile teams in the conference. They possess reserve strength, a factor in both overwhelming victories scored by Yale and Indiana over Chicago in the last two games.

Kizer Fears Stagg.

It has been publicly announced that Coach Noble Kizer will not show favor to the harassed Maroons. The score will be just as large as Purdue can make it.

However, between choruses of "There's a hole in the whole Chicago line," at the annual Purdue alumni dinner last night, Kizer stressed the fact that this policy was one of self-preservation. Purdue has been fooled by Chicago too many times, he said.

"Despite what some Sunday morning quarter backs say about Stagg, the Old Man is the greatest defensive coach in America," he admitted to the alumni. "No other coach has ever stopped the Purdue offensive as completely as Stagg. Chicago is set for us and for that reason we are going to start the strongest team we can put together and get as many points as possible before those Maroons pull a Badger on us."

This Will Be 37th Battle.

The rivalry between Boilermaker and Maroon is one of the oldest in the Big Ten. Since 1892, the year Coach Stagg came west to organize Chicago's first team, the universities have met 36 times in 39 years. The only lapse in the games was in 1895, 1896 and 1897.

In these 36 games Purdue has been able to win only eight times. Chicago triumphed 27 times, while once, in 1905, the universities battled to a 5 to 5 tie.

Purdue's ambition to overwhelm Stagg's forces has ample excuse. In 1907 Chicago sent the Boilermakers back to Lafayette smarting under a 58 to 0 defeat. The best Purdue ever has done was a 40 to 0 triumph in 1928, which was two points over the total by which Purdue won in 1892.

More times than not Purdue has failed to score on Chicago. In 20 games Chicago's goal line was not crossed. To delve further into the figures, four of Purdue's victories have been registered in the last five years.

Purdue Wins Last 3.

Purdue started with a 6 to 0 victory in 1926, only to fall again into losing ways the next season when a point after touchdown gave the Maroons a 7 to 6 decision. The last three games have been more decisive, Purdue winning 40 to 0 in 1928, 25 to 0 in 1929, and 26 to 7 last year.

Chicago will have greater strength today than against Indiana a week ago. While Hamberg will not be able to play at his guard position, Capt. Horwitz is pronounced ready for the entire battle. Wallace is scheduled to start at quarter back in place of Paul Stagg, while Sablin and Buzzell, at the half back posts, and Temple, full back, complete the back field.

BADGERS VS. GOPHERS.

Most important Big Ten game of the day is that between Wisconsin and Minnesota at Minneapolis. If played to a decision it will eliminate one of the three unbeaten and untied conference elevens. If Badger strength was properly represented against Purdue and not against Pennsylvania, and Minnesota's large score against Iowa was Gopher strength and not Hawkeye weakness, there will be a battle royal between these traditional rivals on Northrup field. It's anybody's pick.

This Wake Is Conducted By Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

The Wake's convalescence, we believe, was hastened by reading that Gov. Emmerson disapproves tax reforms increasing the aggregate amount of taxes, that teachers will receive pay checks calling for real money, by desire to witness the Northwestern-Illinois football game in rôle of spectator, since our journey to Ohio State-Indiana was prevented. Our ailment was diagnosed by the attending staff as footballitis which settled in the tonsils.

GOLF PLAYING PASTORS TOLD TO CHOP WOOD

Austin, Tex., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Golf playing Methodist pastors were advised today by Bishop Sam R. Hay, Fort Worth, to "go chop some wood" if they needed exercise.

Speaking as presiding officer at the 73d annual west Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, Bishop Hay said he had received many complaints recently from laymen criticizing golf playing pastors. The reports stated that one minister was playing golf every afternoon in the year, Bishop Hay asserted.

"If you want some exercise, get out and visit your congregation or go chop some wood," Bishop Hay said. "Don't spend your time dilly-dallying around among useless things."

WHAT ABOUT OLD JIM DANDY? WHY, HE CAME IN LAST

Lamp Black Leads Field Past Waning Star.

BY FRENCH LANE.

That old scalawag of the turf called Jim Dandy, which once beat the champion Gallant Fox, simply isn't a race horse.

If you think differently, try to tell it to some of the 11,000 who watched him run in the Richard Herndon purse at Hawthorne yesterday.

Where did old Jim finish? Well that's an unfair question. He wound up last, of course. Anybody could have answered that one. There were no Gallant Foxes in this race.

Lamp Black Is Victor.

In fact, there wasn't a real topnotcher in the bunch, yet Lamp Black turned up as the winner, Ald. Coughlin's Very Well was second and Silver Lake, quite fleet when associating with the top grade platers, ran third. Joe Leiter's weak hearted 2 year old Princess A. O. was fourth.

With Jim running around in such ordinary company and the end of the Chicago racing season only one day away, a lot of the folks at Hawthorne thought this race might have been made for Jim. "Surely he can beat these plugs" was the whisper which fluttered up and down the lawn.

Not Even a Threat.

Yet Jim couldn't do it. He never even made a dangerous threat. He was away fast, immediately dropped back into last place and stayed there all the way. Jockey M. Lewis was in the saddle, but Jim just wouldn't run any place but last, and he was far out in the middle of the track most of the way, losing many lengths by racing so wide.

Lamp Black, with the clever Corbett in the saddle was the medium of quite a plunge near post time and became the second choice at 3 to 1, Silver Lake ruling as the favorite. But Jim Dandy had a lot of backers and would have been at only about 5 to 1 if he had triumphed. That's a big difference from the 200 to 1 he paid when he trimmed Gallant Fox in the mud at Saratoga.

Whats' a Little Rain?

Showers came down on a half dozen occasions during the afternoon, but it did not dull the track, for Lamp Black ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5.

In the Neville Westman purse at a mile and a sixteenth Broad Meadows, regarded only as a sprinter, made a show of the rather stylish band which competed with him. He leaped into the lead at the beginning and stayed there until the finish. He beat Prince Tokalon by two and a half lengths. Prince Atheling was third. The heavily backed Try It and Sister Zoe were always far back and never threatened the three leaders.

This was another fast race, for Broad Meadows ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1-5 and was only playing near the finish. His many failures here this season caused him to be overlooked in the betting and he paid $19.84 for a $2 ticket. It was the second race the Bradley stable has won at Hawthorne during the fall season.

Robin's Egg Pays $20.40 in Laurel Win

Laurel, Md., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Robin's Eggs won the featured West-over purse at six furlongs here today, carrying the silks of the Greentree stable and the light impost of 100 pounds. Fortunate Youth was second and Pennate third. Masked Ball, odds on favorite and the early leader, could get no better than fourth. Robin's Egg paid $20.40. The time was 1:13 3-5.

Fortunate Youth raced Masked Ball into defeat and appeared to have the race at his mercy, when Robin's Egg charged, and rushed by the leader to score by three-fourths of a length.

Gully Jumper Wins.

The first mile and six furlongs race on the flat was run as the fourth event today, and was won by Gully Jumper, an outsider, ridden by D. Meade, and owned by A. Snyder. Buck Hero was second and Glenno third.

R. E. Tawney's Fire, in the field group, won the third race for 3 year olds by three lengths and paid $41.60. The Nevada stock farm's Shiva was second and Night Vintage third. Chatty broke in front, followed by Shiva and Line of Fire in the order named.

Night Vintage Pays Well.

Night Vintage was $21.20 to show. The time was 1:48, the distance a mile and seventy yards. The other field horses sharing in the pay-off were Miss Suppress and Inevitable. Leishman rode the winner.

Outlaw won the Front Royal steeplechase by two lengths from Tequila. King's Own was third and Frolic fourth. Jockey Miller had the mount on Outlaw, which was coupled with Templemore. Tequila set the pace for a mile and a half, stumbled, and Outlaw, which was second, went to the front. The winner paid $4.70. Supremity fell with Jockey King, who was uninjured.

Joe Savoldi Displays Mat Skill Monday

Jumpin' Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star, will show wrestling fans of Chicago what he has learned of the mat game the last year when he appears at the Chicago Stadium Monday night.

Savoldi, who turned to wrestling after leaving Notre Dame last fall, will clash with Pat Evans, 210 pound wrestler from Salina, Kan., in one of the five bouts on the champ-ship card for the joint emergency relief fund for the unemployed.

Ed [Strangler] Lewis and Jim Zbyszko will clash for the world's heavyweight championship in the main bout. Charlie Cutler, midget world's middle and heavyweight champ, will defend the latter title against Zack Malkey, Rosers Park motorcycle policeman, on the same program.

Don Osterpovitch of Michigan, a newcomer to the mat game in the Chicago district, meets Everett Marshall, Pacific coast favorite, and Lou Talaber, former middleweight champ, meets George Kogut, heavyweight, in other bouts. There also will be a mixed match, between Johnny Meyers, former middleweight wrestling champion, and a boxer as an added attraction.

All proceeds above actual expenses will go to the emergency fund for the unemployed. Lewis is donating his services, paying his own training expenses.

LOU COMISKEY AT SOX HELM; BEGINS REBUILDING PLAN

No Will Left; Estate Goes to Old Roman's Son.

Development of a new White Sox baseball team was gotten under way last night by J. Louis Comiskey a few hours after he had been elected president and treasurer of the club. Comiskey's first moves were to summon Lew Fonseca, recently appointed manager, from his California home and select a downtown office in the Congress hotel from which to carry on the renovation of the once powerful south side aggregation.

Comiskey's election to the club presidency to succeed his father, Charles A. Comiskey, followed announcement earlier yesterday that the elder Comiskey had died without leaving a will and that as the nearest heir, Louis inherited ownership of the team as well as the bulk of his father's substantial personal estate.

Grabiner Is Vice President.

At the meeting of the stockholders, at which Comiskey's election took place, Harry Grabiner, who had served under the old regime for years as secretary, was reelected to that position and also was named club vice president.

Comiskey's announcement that he would retain ownership of the White Sox and seek to build them up to the previous formidable state quieted rumors of a possible sale to one of the several persons reported to be seeking a controlling interest in the team. It was pointed out, however, that the absence of a will makes it possible for the new owner to dispose of the club at any time and in any manner he sees fit.

Worth Several Millions.

Announcement of disposal of Charles A. Comiskey's estate made no mention of the amounts involved, but it was said by Attorney A. S. Austrian that the estate would total several millions. Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, and other property owned by the club is said to be valued in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 alone. The elder Comiskey was known to have carried one of the largest individual cash bank deposits in the city.

Mr. Austrian's statement said in part:

"The Chicago American league baseball club owns the real estate and ball park unincumbered. In addition, the ball club has a cash working capital of several hundred thousand dollars, without any indebtedness. The same may be said of Mr. Comiskey's personal estate."

Hawkeyes Shift Lineup for Colonials

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Three replacements were used in the University of Iowa lineup tonight as the Hawkeyes took a final light workout before the George Washington game, and Coach Ingwersen indicated he will use this combination against the Colonials. Kriz, injured half back, may be inserted into the game if he is needed as a punter.

Swaney and Merten, former reserve ends, will take precedence over Trickey and Fisher in the hope of adding more speed to the Hawkeye line. Stutsman, guard, is likely to start in place of Hantelmann.

Hickman and Moffit, half backs, did most of the punting today and will probably share the kicking responsibilities in Kriz' absence in the intersectional game.

The George Washington squad arrived in Davenport today and held final practice. Probable starting lineups:

| IOWA. | | GEO. WASHINGTON. |
|---|---|---|
| Merten | L. E. | Mulvey |
| Fosler | L. T. | Nielsen |
| Tompkins | L. G. | Stewart |
| Dolly | C. | Blackstone |

Catholic Youth Amateurs Start Their Punchfest

The amateur boxing tournament of the Catholic Youth organization, which will bring some 1,800 simon pure glove swingers from all parts of the archdiocese of Chicago into action before championships are determined, got under way in the De Paul university gymnasium last night.

A crowd of 2,000 watched 12 boys from St. Sylvester parish fight it out in the opening skirmishes and they cheered Jack [Plum] Sweeney and Jack [Red] Farrell, the heroes of the night, so loudly that folks who happened to be in the neighborhood might have come to the conclusion a title was at stake.

The archdiocese of Chicago has been divided into four sections for the big amateur tournament, the north section, west section, south section and Joliet section. The championships will be decided at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Dec. 4. The preliminary rounds will be in process throughout the month of November with the quarter finals scheduled at Loyola university gymnasium, St. Mel gym and De La Salle gym in Joliet next month.

The preliminary battles last night, which consisted of three two minute rounds, provided excitement from the time Fred Bailley whipped Clarence Russnak in the opening bout until the finish.

But it was Sweeney who was the biggest favorite of the crowd. He brought a left jab into action which had Arthur Allen bewildered from the beginning, and his right, which he used only a couple of times, would have sent Allen spinning into the bleacher seats if he had connected.

The next of the preliminaries are to be fought at Waukegan High gymnasium Nov. 9.

Comiskey's Career Woven Into Strife with N. L.

[This is the fifth of a series of articles on the life of the late Charles A. Comiskey.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles A. Comiskey, like his predecessor, Ted Sullivan, was destined to have differences with the famed Chris Von Der Ahe, combination baseball club, grocery store, and saloon proprietor. Chris, a trusting soul, having seen his first team step right into American association championships in '85, '86, '87, and '88, thought baseball was child's play. The team made money for him and, not unlike some of our present day magnates, he figured he could make more money by selling his stars and picking up others as he had picked up the first. Chris finally broke himself, hurried on, of course, by the schemers who were associated with the trusting Dutchman.

After the Browns of 1887 had won the flag but lost the series with the National league team of Detroit, Von Der Ahe began selling his talent. He sold Outfielder Curt Welsh. Bill Gleason went to the Athletics of Philadelphia. Catcher Doc Bushong and Pitchers Bobby Carruthers and Sizzors Foutz were disposed of to Brooklyn. But luck remained with the trusting Dutchman for at least another year. Replacements were made and they proved good enough to let Manager Comiskey win the '88 flag.

Comiskey Joins the Brotherhood Movement.

When Chris was ill and broken financially he had a regular visitor. When that visitor had gone Chris would say: "Charley always leaves a hundred dollar bill in my hand when he says good-by." The Charley was Commy.

During Comiskey's regime at St. Louis the National league was steadily becoming better organized and more powerful. Its desire to dominate is supposed to have brought on the Brotherhood movement in 1889-'90. This was an organization of players, but it was destined to a short life of one season—1890. Comiskey joined the movement. He signed with the Chicago team, which, strangely enough, played its games on the northwest corner of 35th street and Wentworth avenue, which 20 years later was purchased by Comiskey.

On the west half of this block stands the present White Sox park.

Who Gave Him the Name of Old Roman.

When the Brotherhood movement broke up, attributed by some to the tunneling tactics of the National league, which resented intrusion, Commy went back to St. Louis and Von Der Ahe. But he remained there only through 1891. He had differences with the little Dutchman and the next season played the rôle of manager of the Reds. Events then began to move speedily in the life of the Old Roman.

There has been much discussion as to who hung that pseudonym on Commy, but those who knew him in his days at St. Louis insist that it happened before that. The name was suggested by the fact that Commy had a sort of stoical, gladiatorial expression.

The Brotherhood, otherwise the Players' league, took the course adopted some ten years later by the American league. It adopted a schedule which, where possible, did not conflict with the National. But the National immediately changed its schedule so as to combat the Brotherhood attractions. The National league, having a better organization, naturally won with the same methods that made it a winner in 1920 when Ban Johnson's powers were curtailed and the honest old national commission was broken up. Having won that fight and cleared the field for itself, the National league promptly resorted to salary cutting tactics.

Player and League Differences Perpetuated.

When the Brotherhood revolt was finished it was under the stipulation, among other things, that the players who had joined the crusade should be returned to their former clubs. One Allen G. Thurman, an Ohioan, was selected to referee whatever disputes might arise as the outcome of the adjustment. In spite of the agreement the Boston Nationals signed Harry Stovey, a standout of the period. Pittsburgh signed Louis Bierbauer.

There were protests over these moves, but the referee, knowing the side of the butter on his bread, as is the case today, permitted the consummation of both deals. Thus the underlying difference between player and league was perpetuated. It broke out seriously when the American league began to push out its chest in 1900.

The peace between the Brotherhood and National seemed so unfair to those whose sentiments were not with the former that oppositions sprung up long before the organization of what now is known as the American league. Another American association came back into existence, but at the end of the 1891 season another compact was signed. The National league, in a desire to expand so that future opposition might be combated, became a twelve club league. What the National thought was a move to safeguard itself became eventually an opening for the second major circuit—the American league.

FIRST VICTIM OF HUNTING SEASON DIES AT ELGIN

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—John M. Molnar, 36 years old, died in St. Joseph's hospital here today, first victim of the hunting season in the Elgin region. Molnar, married and a resident of this city, was fatally wounded yesterday afternoon while hunting in McHenry county, near Crystal Lake.

He was shot when a gun in the hands of James Hagner, amateur welterweight boxer and contestant two years ago in the Golden Gloves tournament, accidentally discharged as the latter was crawling under a fence.

with their victory over Purdue and lost handily to Penn.

Mr. Kipke tried to impress his athletes this evening with the well known ferocity of Princeton teams which have been beaten repeatedly. But it is very hard to impress young men with mere words, and they may learn about Princeton's fighting fury, which always has been something extraordinary, by harsh and disillusioning experience.

There may be eight sophomores in Princeton's starting lineup and the starting back field, as announced this evening—Craig, Draudt, Ceppi, and McPartland—is composed entirely of newcomers.

Large Crowd Expected.

The price of admission to the game is $5, but notwithstanding this and the unimportance of the game in the eastern championship reckoning there probably will be a good crowd in Princeton's stadium with its capacity of 50,000, and the usual congestion along the motor highways.

It is not likely that Roy Hudson, the Michigan captain and full back, will play very long. He has been gentling a bruised muscle and some X-rays were made this afternoon by Keene Fitzpatrick, the Princeton trainer, who used to train the Michigan teams, to help the diagnosis. However, he is expected to start.

Notwithstanding the juvenile character of the Princetons, their line will outweigh Michigan's slightly.

The Michigan team spent two hours pounding the pavements of New York between trains and went on to Trenton after the practice to spend the night at a country club. There were two heavy rains today, but the weather cleared later.

KING LEVINSKY WHIPS SLATTERY IN TEN ROUNDS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP)—King Levinsky, Chicago, won a ten round decision from Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo here tonight. Levinsky weighed 190; Slattery, 169.

Levinsky, who tried at first to box with the eastern boy, soon discovered that he could not get inside Jimmy's long reach and in the third round resorted to slugging, his natural style. He won this round and the fourth with long overhand rights.

In the fifth round Levinsky shook Jimmy several times with his hard right and slowed the Buffalo boy. From that moment until the final gong sounded Levinsky was far ahead on points.

Duck Season Is on Tomorrow, but Watch Your Step

BY BOB BECKER.

When thousands of waterfowl hunters invade the northern Illinois lake country tomorrow to open the Illinois duck season they will find a regular staff of game wardens cruising around the lakes to see that the federal and state regulations are obeyed.

According to the Chicago office of the department of conservation, an unusually large crowd of hunters is expected for the starting day fireworks, and wardens will be drawn in from several points to assist the regular warden usually on duty in the lake country.

The duck season does not officially open until 12 o'clock noon tomorrow. Published reports indicating that hunting may begin at sunrise are incorrect. According to the ruling of the United States government [biological survey] it will be illegal to shoot at or take any kind of waterfowl in Illinois until 12 o'clock noon Nov. 1.

Opening day hunters who can not or do not want to travel a long distance for a little sport should find many thousand coots or mudhens in the Grass-Fox-Pistakee lake country in northern Illinois. The heavy aquatic vegetation in several of the lakes [especially Grass lake] furnishes the coots with an ideal hangout and plenty of meals.

Last week there also were a goodly number of mallards in the lake country and a sprinkling of other species.

Hunters are warned to have their licenses with them and to observe the daily bag limit of 15 birds because there will be plenty of wardens on hand to check.

The cool weather and stiff northwest wind the weatherman gave us Thursday brought down thousands of birds from the north country, judging by reports and our observations in the field. We were plodding around in the rain and muck of the upper Illinois river with Frank Collins, Morris, Ill., sportsman, and throughout the day we could see scattered flocks of ducks as well as several flocks of geese, coming down the valley.

BEARS, PACKERS SET TO ENTERTAIN RECORD CROWD

The largest crowd ever to see a National Professional Football league game in Chicago is expected at Wrigley field tomorrow afternoon for the second meeting of the season between the Green Bay Packers and the Bears.

This is indicated by the largest advance sale in the ten year history of the north side club. The record gate was attracted by Red Grange in his professional debut in 1925, when 32,000 paid to see the Bears play the Cardinals.

It Always Sounds Better When Someone Else Says It

Aitch Jay writing his "Metropolitan Impressions" in the current issue of Men's Wear Magazine, a recognized international Style Authority on Men's Dress, made the following unsolicited statement:

"The best looking shoes in town these days, regardless of price, are to be found in the windows of the Regal Shoe Shops. Their styles are correct and smart and they show a larger assortment of models and lasts than any other shoe store in the city.

"There are really nice looking riding boots, skiing boots, hiking boots, Newmarket boots, dress shoes, heavy shoes, and a great variety of styles for business dress, many of which are admirable replicas of expensive, custom bootmakers' products."

This article was written the day before the announcement of our price reduction. Today, every style described by Aitch Jay and all Styles in all Leathers, in every Regal Store are now ALL ONE PRICE, $5.85.

UTAH RADIO TO MOVE HERE FROM SALT LAKE CITY

Leases Factory on Near North Side.

BY AL CHASE.

One of this season's most interesting industrial leases, involving the moving to Chicago of a large manufacturing plant from Utah, was negotiated yesterday. The Utah Radio Products company has rented the entire three story and basement concrete, sprinklered building, containing 85,000 square feet, at the southwest corner of Orleans street and Institute place, formerly occupied by the Dallas Brass and Copper company, for a five year term, with an option to purchase. The total reported rental will be $125,000.

The Utah Radio Products company shortly will move its Chicago unit from 4737 South Michigan avenue to the new location and at the same time will bring its main manufacturing plant, now at Salt Lake City, Utah, to this city and combine it with the local establishment, according to J. W. Caswell, chairman of the board of directors.

"In moving to the new site the Utah company will consentrate its various activities under one roof," said Mr. Caswell, "thereby eliminating duplication, increasing efficiency, and reducing the time of servicing its clientele by approximately 50 per cent. Also, due to the installation of new scientific equipment and additional machinery, the company will be able to increase production at a moment's notice and at the same time attain higher quality.

Innovations Planned.

"Several new items also are to be added to its line of radio, automotive and electrical devices. One of the innovations at the new plant will be a new sound pressure room for loud speaker development, where the performance of loud speakers can be tested visually."

The plant just leased by the Utah company was occupied for several years by the Dallas Brass and Copper company, a division of the Revere Copper and Brass company, until it moved to its new and much larger plant on the far northwest side, one of the largest of its kind in the world. J. J. Harrington & Co. were brokers for all parties in yesterday's lease. Silber, Isaacs, Silber & Wolsey were attorneys for the lessor, and Wilson & McIlvaine represented the lessee in a legal way.

Forest Preserve Buys.

The forest preserve district purchased a small parcel north of Devon and east of the Des Plaines river, in Maine township, from Sophie Heime for an indicated $8,100. The trustees also bought several parcels on the south side of Grand avenue, between the Des Plaines river and River terrace.

Allen and Virginia Moore bought the two story building at the southeast corner of Langley avenue and East 79th street, lot 57x125, containing three stores and six flats, from the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, trustee.

Doris Shapiro has purchased the two story factory building, lot 120x125, at 5021-31 North Crawford avenue, from the American Cabinet company, which has been occupying the premises. The equity was purchased for cash, the amount not being disclosed, subject to a first mortgage of $30,000. Carl J. Goldberg was broker. Maurice Turner of Turner & Turner was attorney for the buyer. Edelson & Paullin represented the seller.

Heavy Construction Off Sharply During Week

Contracts for heavy engineering construction in the United States during the week dropped sharply to $30,755,000, compared with $76,356,000 for the previous seven day period, Engineering News-Record reports. The value of contracts let in the corresponding period last year was $45,025,000.

CHICAGO GROUP BACK IN MOVIE THEATER FIELD

Wrigley, Others Buy Paramount Stock.

BY D. A. MATHER.

The little group of Chicago men who did about as much as anybody to promote the modern "de luxe" motion picture theater will return to exercise a large influence in that field.

It became known yesterday that John Hertz, William Wrigley Jr., Albert D. Lasker, and Charles A. McCulloch have combined to purchase a substantial stock interest in the Paramount Publix corporation, which is the largest operator of theaters under a single management.

Just how much stock the group has purchased is not known, but Mr. Wrigley said yesterday that he had purchased more than 5,000 shares in the last month. However, the holdings of the Chicago group are large enough to give them representation on the Paramount Publix board of directors.

Will Become Directors.

Mr. Hertz will become a director and chairman of the finance committee, while Mr. Wrigley and Mr. Lasker also have been asked to become directors, according to an announcement made by Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount-Publix, in New York last night. William H. English, heretofore chairman of the finances committee, will become chairman of the board.

"I am certain the confidence displayed by Mr. Hertz in our organization by becoming a member of it and its ability, as displayed in all of the enterprises with which he heretofore has been connected, will be beneficial to our corporation," Mr. Zukor commented. "Both Mr. Wrigley and Mr. Lasker should be of great assistance to the corporation in its advertising and merchandising problems."

Mr. Hertz founded the Chicago Yellow Cab company and allied enterprises. Mr. Wrigley is head of the chewing gum company bearing his name. Mr. Lasker is chairman of Lord & Thomas & Logan, advertising agency.

Backed Balaban & Katz.

The entrance of this group of Chicagoans into the affairs of Paramount-Publix recalls that it was the same coterie that originally backed the Balaban & Katz corporation, which developed and built up a chain of "de luxe" theaters in Chicago. That was some fifteen years ago and the success of the Chicago company was such that a majority interest was sold a few years ago to the Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky company, which later became the Paramount Publix corporation.

The Paramount Publix corporation owns, leases, or controls more than 1,200 theaters throughout the country. Publix and Balaban & Katz are among its subsidiaries, while through another subsidiary, Famous Players-Lasky, motion picture studios are operated in Hollywood, New York, and Paris. It has total assets around $[illegible],000,000.

Voice in Management.

It was reported that the holdings of the Chicago group were purchased in the open market and therefore no new capital is coming into Paramount Publix. It is not suggested that these purchases are anywhere nearly large enough to secure control, but still are large enough to give the Chicago group a voice in the management.

Chicago brokers have noted that Paramount Publix stock has been unusually active on the New York Stock exchange recently, with large blocks changing hands. The turnover yesterday exceeded 75,000 shares and the price was around $18 a share.

TRADE REVIEWS NOTE PICKUP IN BUSINESS

Business conditions continue spotty, reports to Bradstreet's indicate, but some encouragement is found in the greater activity prevailing in certain lines and in the fact that readjustment in business continues with retail stocks far below the levels existing a year ago.

Many of the reports, however, continue to indicate that buying this season continues below normal, it was pointed out, due in part to unseasonable weather in some cities and in larger part of the general conservatism on the part of the buying public.

The reduction in retail inventories means that the jobbing and wholesale markets are not clogged, and those lines are in better position to profit directly from consumers' demands," it was asserted.

Further progress in the slow but gradual upturn in retail trade is reported by Dun's trade review of the week, which adds that these gains are largely the result of extensive advertising of special sales. The movement of winter goods is below normal, it is said, since the weather continues too warm to favor the distribution of heavy wearing apparel.

"Manufacturing remains quite steady in most lines," the review says, with some departments showing further improvement. These instances are, however, confined principally to seasonal and specialty lines. Basic industries continue quiet."

Steady Buying Sweeps Price of Wheat to a New Peak

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Concentrated buying credited to cash interests and the seaboard, coming at a time when the public had absorbed the surplus in the wheat pit on persistent small buying orders, caused a stampede yesterday to get back long lines recently sold out by local speculators, who thought there had been advance enough for the time being, and swept futures up 2¼@2¾c from the early low to a new high for the season on the deferred deliveries. At the top prices showed 14⅛@15⅝c above the low on Oct. 5, the highest since last July, and the market acted "tight" even at the top.

Sales for the day were estimated at between 50 and 60 million bushels. Trading toward the close was so heavy that the wheat pit was jammed with brokers in a bedlam of activity.

Buying Is Continuous.

At no time were wheat prices below the finish of the previous day, with a steady run of buying early in 5,000 and 10,000 bushel lots by commission houses which absorbed the profit taking sales. It was not until the last hour of trading that the heavy buying credited to cash interests made its appearance, and it quickly disclosed a lack of pressure, the May advancing to 64⅝c, with a minor reaction toward the last on evening up for the day on the part of the pit traders. Closing trades were at net gains of 1⅞@2⅛c, with December at 58c to 59¼c; March, 63c to 63¼c; May, 64½c to 64¼c, and July, 64⅝c to 65c.

Announcement that the federal farm board has been buying wheat futures of late was not known to the grain trade until after the close, but the heavy buying of futures during the day credited to seaboard cash interests, with reports that there was a good foreign demand for hard winters, led to a belief that possibly some of this buying was to get futures to exchange for farm board cash grain on the part of exporting interests.

Europe Runs Short.

Reports on the cash wheat situation from Europe were construed as decidedly bullish. According to Paris reports, Greece will shortly be in the market for 18,400,000 bushels of wheat, having found the quality of Russian grain too poor to make purchases from the latter country. Numerous reports were received from abroad of Russia's canceling sales of fine quality cash wheat made earlier in the season for forward shipment, and one cable said that country was trying to make a delivery from stored grain in the United Kingdom. How much wheat Russia has canceled is not known, but it is believed to have been substantial, as around 500,000 bushels were canceled yesterday.

Despite the sharp advance which has taken place of late, there was no evidence of weakening in the basis for cash wheat in the United States, with the outside quotation on choice No. 1 amber durum at Minneapolis 99½c, the highest figure of the season to date.

Reports from the southern hemispheres as to the outlook for the new wheat crop were about as bearish as those from Europe were bullish. Broomhall's Argentine agent estimated the Argentine exportable surplus, including the carryover, at 166,000,000 bushels, but a cable to J. S. Bache & Co., from one of the leading Argentine interests, placed it at only 126,000,000 bushels, compared with 165,000,000 bushels in 1930-31. The Australian crop was placed at 160,000,000 bushels for the four leading provinces, or only 27,000,000 bushels less than last season.

An advance of 1¼@1⅝d in Liverpool wheat futures was a surprise to the trade, as the upturn there put prices at a new high since early in July, with the December closing at equal to 62⅝c per bu, figured on $3.56 for sterling. Winnipeg was active and gained 1⅝@1⅞c, with December 66¼c in Canadian currency, both that future, and the May selling at a new high for the season.

Corn Market Strong.

Corn showed independent strength from the start, and, while the advance was checked by selling against offers, net gains were ⅛@1c for the day, with the December closing at 40⅜@40½c; March, 43¼c; May, 45⅛@45⅝c, and July 46⅝@46½c. There was a further broadening in outside speculative interest. At the high point yesterday prices showed 7⅛@8⅝c above the inside figure of Oct. 5. No increase was reported in country offerings, despite the upturn. Buenos Aires finished ⅛@⅝c higher, with December at 31⅜c, but local cash handlers claim there is little possibility of export business under prevailing conditions.

Strength in other grains caused an upturn of ⅛@⅜c in oats, with the December closing at 27c; May, 27⅜c, and July 27¼c.

Rye Market Strong.

Rye led the advance in the grain markets yesterday, sensational reports regarding requirements of European requirements, combined with the purchase of 700,000 to 750,000 bu Russian rye by Poland, the latter having been a heavy exporter last year having considerable to do with the upturn. Closing trades were at net gains of 2½c, with December 44½ and May 49⅝@49½c, the latter selling at a new high on the crop. Winnipeg was 2⅝@2⅞c higher.

Scandinavian countries were reported as asking for prices at the seaboard and cables said they expected to get very little grain from Russia. Czecho-Slovakia import needs are estimated at 19,000,000 bu, according to a report to the department of commerce.

Insull Seeks Permit to Serve as Alton Director

Application has been filed with the interstate commerce commission by Samuel Insull for permission to serve as a director of the Alton railroad while continuing as a board member of the Chicago and Illinois Midland railroad. The Alton is successor to the Chicago and Alton, which was recently acquired by the Baltimore and Ohio. A similar application was recently made by Silas H. Strawn.

WORKERS ASKED TO TAKE PAY CUT BY N. Y. CENTRAL

Expect Other Roads Also to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 30.—The New York Central railroad met today an issue which the railroads have sought for months to avoid by announcing it had begun negotiations with its unionized workers with the object of having them accept voluntarily a 10 per cent reduction in wages for one year. This was the first action of its kind to be disclosed by a major line since the depression began.

With probably no exceptions, the railroads have required officers and unorganized employes to accept reductions in salaries, usually of 10 per cent, in the last few months. No official moves, however, had been made to effect a reduction in union wages, although both the Canadian transcontinentals are negotiating for a 10 per cent reduction with organizations affiliated with the unions here.

The use of the word "voluntary" in the New York Central's announcement means that the management hopes the brotherhoods will agree to a reduction without recourse to the cumbersome system of wage adjudication provided by the transportation act.

Not Thirty Days' Notice.

The contracts between the management and the unions has a clause requiring thirty days' notice before either side attempts to change the provisions of the contracts. The action of the New York Central is not taken under this thirty day clause, but is a direct appeal to the unions to accept a one year reduction as an emergency measure.

John G. Walber, vice president of the New York Central, has already approached officials of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. It is assumed he will soon open discussions with officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Order of Railway Conductors and others of the fourteen leading unions involved.

For a Year Only.

The announcement of the railroad said the "confirmation was given today at the executive offices of the New York Central railroad to reports that representatives of the various classes of the system's employes are engaged in discussions with a view to the entire personnel voluntarily taking a 10 per cent pay reduction for a period of one year."

While other railroads may be expected to initiate similar action with their working forces, it was thought likely they would postpone official action until after the conclusion of the present conferences between the Association of Railway Executives and the interstate commerce commission on the proposed rate increase.

The action disclosed by the New York Central followed several drastic steps which since the beginning of the year have reduced the number of employes by between 25 and 30 per cent and substantially cut the system's pay roll from the total of $268,930,000 at which it stood in 1930. This figure was a considerable drop from the $313,540,000 level at which the pay roll stood in 1929.

Expect Further Reduction.

There were 123,443 employes on the New York Central pay roll on Feb. 15, compared with 170,061 on Dec. 31, 1929. It was estimated that the pay roll now stands at about 115,000. In the normal course of events, railroads reduce their personnel, chiefly in the maintenance of way department, around Nov. 1. A further reduction in the company's pay roll may therefore be expected at about this time.

Soon after the stock market crash late in 1929 President Hoover summoned the railroad presidents to Washington and asked them to help the situation by maintaining pay rolls and continuing normal expenditures. The railroads in many cases undertook improvements which provided work for thousands of their employes, but

Draws Picture of Service Being Rendered by Trucks

BY SCRUTATOR.

So much has been said about the radical changes brought about in transportation by the rapid development of motor truck lines that it is interesting to get a more intimate picture of the working of this comparatively new type of carrier.

Superimposed on the nation's transportation facilites as they existed in pre-war days is an entirely new system of handling freight. It is composed of a multitude of small units of many types.

As it gradually develops motor transportation is beginning to manifest more clearly the general characteristics which distinguish it from rail transportation and likewise to demonstrate its limitations, so that it is possible to form some opinion as to the extent to which it will displace rail traffic and the manner in which one will supplement the other.

Among Advantages.

One of the chief advantages that the motor truck has over the railroad is its ability to base rates more nearly on actual cost of service, rather than on ability to pay. The trucker has better control of operating expenses and can figure rates on a cost plus basis.

For that reason any attempt to apply to the trucks the frozen railroad structure devised according to the theories of the interstate commerce commission would be like trying to impose railway passenger rates on taxicabs.

J. L. Keeshin, president of the Keeshin Motor Express company, one of the largest independent truck lines in the central west, has some very decided ideas about the business.

He has demonstrated that motor transportation is a profitable field of operation. In a few years he has built up a network of truck lines covering northern Illinois as far down as La Salle and extending eastward to Goshen, Ind., and Dowagiac, Mich.

His company operates nearly 150 trucks on daily schedule and maintains terminals in key cities. All of its property has been bought and paid for out of earnings.

Estimates Big Gain.

About the time the railroads announced their intention to seek a fifteen per cent increase in rates Keeshin cut his rates fifteen per cent. He now estimates that his gross business for 1931 will exceed last year's by 50 per cent and that earnings will be up 40 per cent.

"We find that 200 miles is the limit for profitable operation of motor transportation," says Mr. Keeshin. "Beyond that goods can be handled more economically by the railroads, because their high terminal expense is then absorbed by the long line haul.

"Under that distance less than carload shipments can be carried more cheaply by motor truck. Some of the saving is due to our ability to keep trucks loaded both ways. To date this year we have been maintaining a 95 per cent balance in the movement of freight.

"Another great saving results from the less rigid packing requirements for shipping by truck. Also, our claims have averaged only .27 per cent of gross revenues, compared with the railroads' 5.1 per cent, one-third of which was on less than carload shipments."

Cites "Wildcat" Truckers.

He states that no attempt is made to bid against the railroads for commodities moving in carload lots, because such traffic can be transported more economically by railroad.

The legitimate truck operators' worst enemies, according to Mr. Keeshin, are the wildcat truckers, who operate spasmodically, quote suicidal rates, dodge claims and drain their drivers' pocketbooks to pay for equipment and expenses.

The bona fide trucker, therefore, welcomes regulation, for despite its drawbacks regulation would offer recognition and give him standing in the eyes of the shipper. It would also exclude irresponsible concerns.

Many of Keeshin's most profitable truck routes do not parallel railroad lines, but cut across between communities not directly joined by the railroads, thereby offering speedy short route service.

Supplementary Service.

Hundreds of carloads of freight handled each year by the company originate on the railroads, the goods moving in solid carloads to a distributing point where it is loaded on the trucks and delivered to nearby cities and towns as less than carload merchandise.

In that way instead of competing with the railroads for identical business the trucker is providing a supplementary service. He is expanding the functions of the local drayman.

NATIONAL TEA 9 MOS.' PROFIT IS 84C A SHARE

National Tea company reports consolidated net earnings after federal taxes of $497,241.07 for the 9 months ending Sept. 30, 1931, as compared with $776,290.90 for the corresponding period of 1930.

The earnings for the current period after deducting dividends on preferred stock of $74,420.74 are equivalent to 84c per share on 480,000 common shares outstanding.

New York, Oct. 30.—Atmospheric conditions on the lower end of Manhattan isle were a little more cheerful today. Some of the blue smoke that has made regular breathing so difficult for the last week had lifted overnight, Talk of red ruin ahead was not quite so raucous.

The stock market looked like it had just got out of jail. At times it became almost buoyant and price trends were kept slanting upwards throughout the day.

Railroad shares made the best group showing—having the most room for improvement to start with—and the net gains among them ranged almost as high as 5 points.

Snap Out of Doldrums.

Steel stocks snapped out of their doldrums and leading industrials advanced 1 to 2 points all along the line. The oils did better than they have in a long time, Standard of New Jersey showing the way with a 2 point upturn, and the amusements were active at slightly improved figures. Even the motors perked up a bit.

There was, of course ample reason for the improved sentiment for those demanding "signs" for the faith they felt within them. There was the manufacturers' survey showing business definitely on the upswing in nine major industries of the country. The drop in the volume of money in circulation, the first contraction since the middle of September, was widely construed as marking the beginning of the end of the hoarding fever which has been playing such hob with trade for so many gloomy months.

Other Factors Help Sentiment.

The action of the Bethlehem Steel company in ordering its regular quarterly dividend, even though it had a dip into its surplus to make the payment, showed to the street's satisfaction that the heads of the great corporation were convinced that improved business conditions are near at hand. Continued strength in commodities

American Water Works and Electric.

Can you give me any information on American Water Works and Electric company 6 per cent bonds, due 1975? V. E. W.

American Water Works and Electric company, Inc., is a public utility company. About 75 per cent of its gross is from the sale of electricity. It constitutes one of the largest groups of privately owned water works.

Electric properties are interconnected. They are mainly in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland. The water properties furnish service to 227 communities in 16 states and Cuba.

Gross operating earnings from 1925 through 1929 rose steadily. In 1930 decreased use of electric power was responsible for lower gross, which totaled $54,066,379, against $54,119,004 for 1929. Shortage of water increased operating expenses for both the electric and water works divisions last year.

Preferred dividends of subsidiaries and amortization and interest charges were earned 1.42 times in 1930, against 1.52 times in 1929, 1.43 times in 1928, and 1.34 times in 1927.

For the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, such fixed charges were earned 1.33 times, against 1.50 times for the preceding twelve months.

Gross for the twelve months ended Aug. 31, 1931, was $51,642,491. Surplus after charges was $5,966,297, against $7,560,154 for the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1930.

On Oct. 3, 1931, President Porter stated that for the year ended Aug. 31, 1931, receipts from all sources except dividends on holdings in electric subsidiaries were sufficient to pay all charges and preferred dividends with an excess of $600,000 available for common dividends.

The $8,800,000 debenture 6s, due Nov. 1, 1975, and the $3,000,000 debenture 5s, due 1975, are the unsecured obligations of the company. They are preceded by $12,575,600 collateral trust 5s, due 1934.

WORKERS ASKED BY N. Y. CENTRAL TO TAKE PAY CUT

Report Other Roads Also Negotiating.

layoffs and part time employment have been increasing.

It was commonly known that the railroads sought an increase in freight rates with the hope of avoiding wage cuts. When the interstate commerce commission recently rejected the railroads' petition, the prediction was general that wage cuts would follow.

The railroads paid in wages in 1930 a total of 2 billion 589 million dollars, 19 per cent of which would be about 259 millions.

Other Roads Deny Advances.

It was reported today that all the other railroads in New York, including the New Haven, the Pennsylvania, and others, had entered into negotiations with employes for the purpose of getting them to accept a corresponding cut.

However, the New Haven said it had made no such formal advances to the employes, but added that it would welcome an invitation from the workers to consider wage adjustment.

The Lehigh said it had not discussed the matter and the Baltimore and Ohio also stated that it had held no conferences.

The New York office of the Pennsylvania said that no such conferences had been held here, but officers here could not speak for the Philadelphia offices on the matter.

No Conversations Yet.

The statement by the railroad was followed by one from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Cleveland which said that the New York Central had not conversed with the brotherhood's representatives concerning a cut in wages.

The New York Central explained this by stating that the proposal had not yet been made to the engineers. So far the officials said, only the clerks and the telegraphers have been asked to consider the proposal.

The Gulf, Mobile and Northern system announced several days ago that a large number of its workers had voluntarily accepted a 10 per cent decrease.

"News" to Brotherhood.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—The 10 per cent wage cut that the New York Central railroad is reported to have asked its employés to take voluntarily for one year is "news" to brotherhood officials here.

"They haven't come to us as yet," declared Alvaniey Johnston, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers here tonight. "It's all news to me."

"My organization hasn't been approached," asserted A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. "I came from New York only this morning with Mr. Johnston and Mr. Robertson—David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginsmen—and was even in the New York offices, but heard nothing of it."

It is believed that the brotherhoods would not agree to a cut by the New York Central, unless other railroads advocated the voluntary reduction in wages, and it is even doubtful in that instance.

B. & O. Endorses Move.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, today endorsed the plan of the New York Central in seeking a voluntary wage reduction by its employés, and painted a picture of better business conditions in the near future.

Mr. Willard declared that the present wave of depression could not last in a nation the size of the United States. When the upturn would come he could not say, but expressed confidence that it could not be far off.

The Baltimore and Ohio chief said that if a reduction among rail employés becomes necessary, the method of voluntary agreement between roads and the brotherhoods would be preferable to any other. His statement followed announcement that the New York Central officials were seeking such a wage agreement.

Mr. Willard declined to discuss the possibility of any such action by the Baltimore and Ohio. He recalled, however, that he had said some time ago that if wages generally were reduced and costs went down, it would become necessary to seek rail wage cuts.

Blames Lack of Buying.

Mr. Willard blamed the entire present economic situation on lack of buying.

"That condition cannot endure," he said. "That is inevitable in a country like this. And when the buying is resumed we shall have more normal business conditions. I cannot, of course, say when that will be."

Mr. Willard deplored the fact his own road had been forced to lay off the majority of its shop workers, but declared the action was taken some time ago to allow for their reëmployment during the winter when need would be more acute. He said he did not know when the reëmployment would be effected.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Cotton goods continued quiet today with little change reported in prices. An easing tendency has been seen in the past few days of light demand. Nearly all rayon companies have now readjusted prices on fine deniers and buying is improved.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 500; hogs, 13,800; sheep, 500.

The first real signs of bad weather in the middle west accelerated the marketward movement of hogs and carried prices to a new 23 year low yesterday. Driving snowstorms were reported in parts of the west and scattered snow and sleet in northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Dakotas, heralding the fall's first general cold snap.

Producers who have not sufficient shelter to carry hogs through severe weather are dumping stock on the market and the trade expects fairly large shipments from sections hit by rain and sleet for a few days. It is also the season of year when receipts increase, though the gain this year has been more rapid. Receipts at Chicago this week show an increase of 65 per cent compared with six weeks ago.

Losses of 15@35c were recorded in hogs yesterday, the top for load lots coming down 30c at $5.05, while the general average showed 20c loss at $4.75, both establishing new low marks since March, 1908. A short load of 270 lb hogs reached $5.10. The lowest top hogs sold in 1923, when receipts were largest on record, was $6.75 in December.

Large local packers were the most aggressive on yesterday's session, Armour, Swift and Wilson getting a total of 8,500 good to choice light and light butchers at $4.55@4.90, paying up to $5 for occasional lots of prime medium weight butchers. About 5,000 were left at the close, including some with orders from the country to hold over for next Monday.

Total arrivals yesterday, at 27,000, were the largest for Friday since last March. This week's total is expected to reach 182,000, the largest since February. Five weekly totals in July, August and September were below 100,000.

March Offers at $6.95.

Medium weight hogs for March delivery were offered at $6.25 on the futures market yesterday, but the highest bid for these contracts stopped at $5.25. Light weights for March were bid $5.50, and heavy March hogs were offered at $6.00.

Yesterday's cattle offerings consisted largely of the classes that failed to show much advance during the week and trading most of the day was slow and weak. However, some choice 1,013 lb yearlings met fair action and reached $11.00, while a fair showing of the medium to good kinds changed hands readily at $9.25@10.75.

Butcher stock improved some Thursday, but prices are still lower than a week ago and weakness was in evidence on yesterday's session. Calves are closing 25@50c lower for the week. Stockers and feeders were slow and are selling near the lowest point of the year.

Lambs Bring $6.50.

Not many good to choice grades of slaughter lambs were included in yesterday's receipts and buyers were forced to pay strong to 25c higher prices for the limited number. Wyoming range stock to packers reached $6.50, while natives to city butchers sold at $6.40 and to packers at $6.25. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding lambs showed more action and some were sold to slightly better advantage. Bulk of medium to good feeders are bringing $4.25@4.75, with the best black face stock up to $5.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 13,000 hogs and 500 sheep, against 513, cattle, 10,003 hogs and 1,585 sheep the previous Saturday, and 419 cattle, 12,225 hogs and 3,223 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 44,000 to 62,000. J. M. Waters marked 62,000; L. Vining, 60,000; F. Knutzen 59,000; C. Southwick, 56,000; W. T. Reneker, J. T. Brown and P. Allen, 55,000; R. Trullinger, 51,000; S. Lund, A. G. Welhener, W. G. Chandler, H. A. Turner and H. Wolfe, 50,000; F. M. Sherwood, 49,000; R. B. Ellis and W. Garret, 45,000, and J. A. Bunyan, 44,000.

BUTTER FUTURES WEAKEN

Butter futures fell off 5c or $120 per car on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, support proving decidedly lax. Egg futures were uneasy, gaining early, only to react and closed unchanged. Potatoes lost 4 points. Storage news was again poor in butter, the four markets taking out 84,000 lbs less than on the same date last year, and buying was scattered. Covering constituted much of the support. Egg news was slightly improved, a few hundred more cases coming out of storage than last year. Early support was active, new buying and covering carrying prices forward, but later selling gained the upper hand and the deliveries dropped back. Sales: Butter, 1,248,000 lbs; eggs, 1,785,000 dozen; potatoes, 370,000 lbs. Prices follow:

KANSAS NEEDS RAIN

Unfavorable crop reports on the growing winter wheat crop are increasing from the southwest, according to the Modern Millers weekly summary. The heavy producing area in Kansas needs soaking rains. Unless the latter is received the crop may go into the winter with a much below normal condition. As Kansas has over 25 per cent of the total acreage for the country, the outlook for the new harvest at the present time cannot be regarded as overly optimistic. Rain is needed over a large area in Saskatchewan and Alberta to facilitate fall plowing and also restore the subsoil moisture.
